Hoover Reported Aiding Coalition

Republican Regulars Plan to Question President on News Story's Truth

Kansas City "Star" Says He Favors Measure Formed by Bloc in Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—Senate Republicans and the White House were silent today as attention was called by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, to a story in the Kansas City Star stating that President Hoover favors the tariff rates that are being written by the coalition of Democrats and Republican Independents in the Senate.

There were rumblings of discontent beneath the Republican silence, however, and particularly from some of the regular leaders who have been supporting the high protective rates passed by the House Republicans. There were intimations that some of them intend to ask Mr. Hoover whether the Kansas City Star story correctly represents his attitude toward the tariff schedules.

It was Senator Grundy, Republican, Pennsylvania, who noticed the Kansas City Star story. He said he had "about six copies of it run off and I showed these to some of my colleagues." He made no comment on the contents.

STORY RINGS TRUE

It is known, however, that the Republican regulars have made some inquiry into the authenticity of the story and are inclined not to question it. They have been told that "the Star's roving correspondent" who wrote the story had a conference with the President just before it was published on January 29.

The Republican regulars have made it clear ever since the coalition of Democrats and Republican independents started slashing the tariff rates that they intend to vote against the measure unless it is changed considerably in conference with the House. In fact there has been a movement in the Senate Republican ranks to vote against the measure even before it is sent to conference and there were signs of that movement getting under way today.

"Of course," said Senator Harrison today, "we on this side have manifested in every way a desire to try to obtain from the leader of the Republican party in this chamber and from his colleague, Senator Smoot, who has charge of the pending tariff bill, what the views of the President are with reference to the rates recommended by the House and by the Senate Finance Committee. They have told us they did not know and they have gone almost to the extent of saying that they did not care."

The Mississippi Senator added that "it would seem that there are people in this country who are

NEW FEARS EXPRESSED OVER TAFT

Day After Day Failure to Rally Causes Increase in Anxiety of Friends

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—The day-after-day failure of William Howard Taft to rally strongly from his serious illness is regarded tonight as causing apprehension among those close to him.

Dr. Francis R. Hagner reported again that the condition of the former Chief Justice is not much changed. Weakness has been encroaching surely into his reserve strength.

Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, a daughter, arrived today from Bryn Mawr, Pa. The two sons of the distinguished jurist, Robert A. and Charles P. Taft, are holding themselves in readiness to come from Cincinnati in event of an emergency. Mrs. Taft communicated with them today by telephone.

Shortly after the 73-year-old man signed the letter to his former associates on the Supreme Court expressing regret that failing health had forced him to resign, he was reported to have ceased showing the improvement which had been encouraging to his friends. Ever since the doctors have said his condition was "unchanged."

Two Die by Fire in Plane Crash

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Joseph Donnellen, pilot instructor, and Richard King, student flyer, were burned to death today when their airplane crashed and caught fire at the Chicago Flying Club Airport.

Witnesses say the plane slipped out of control when the pilot apparently was attempting to make a sharp turn at a height of 200 feet. It burst into flames as it fell.

Hope of Saving Japanese Ship on Rocks Fades

SQUAW HARBOR (Alaska) Feb. 21. (AP)—Hope of saving the Koshun Maru, Yamachita company freighter which ran onto a rocky ledge about 300 yards from Scotch Cap lighthouse near here in a blinding snowstorm at 10 a.m. yesterday, was fading today.

The crew of thirty-six was reported all safe and there were no passengers aboard.

She was leaking badly late today and the stern was pounding the sea bottom. At high tide, the ship's bow was in eighteen feet of water and the stern in twenty-eight feet. The Koshun Maru, carrying scrap iron, wheat and lumber, was taking the short cut from Portland to Yokohama through Unimak Pass in the Eastern Aleutians.

Late reports said that wheat and lumber were being cast overboard by the crew in an effort to set the vessel afloat.

SAN JOSE, Feb. 21. (AP)—Fragments of a mysterious package which exploded in the hands of 11-year-old Evelyn Locle here this afternoon have been submitted by police to the city chemist for examination.

The youngster, whose hands were severely burned, said she picked the package up from the street, curious to see what was in it, and that it exploded when she tore a seal which held it together.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—A dispatch from the city of San Juan states that former Judge Manuel Ignacio Castellanos was assassinated in his home by unknown persons who fired three shots through a window.

ODORIZED GAS TELLS LEAKS

State Official Cites Jump in Complaints When Added Smell Betrays Presence

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—In order to safeguard users of natural gas from accidental asphyxiation and dangerous explosions that might result from leaks which are impossible to detect because the gas is odorless, Claude C. Brown, State gas administrator, announced today that a safety factor has been discovered which will odorize the gas.

The discovery is the result of months of experimentation by experts of the Railroad Commission and chemists of the Standard Oil Company, who have found a solution that, added to the gas, gives it a distinct odor, Brown said. With this fluid added it is possible to detect the presence of as low a quantity as 1 per cent of gas in the air. Brown points out that in a room containing 4.5 per cent of natural gas an explosion results if a flame or spark is introduced into the room.

The effect of odorization in the communities where it has been instituted is marked. In the Pasadena-Alhambra district the gas-leak complaints had been averaging about fifty per week. Immediately after odorization began this figure jumped to 400 per week. Likewise, in Beverly Hills and Culver City the leakage complaints jumped from ten per day to 160.

The peak day for leak complaints generally occurs about the third day after odorization, the peak being about ten times the average and the number of complaints gradually declining to a constant level of about five times the average for unodorized gas.

The natural gas for consumption in Southern California comes from seventeen different fields and it is estimated it will be necessary to install about forty odorizing stations to handle this gas. In Northern and Central California, where the sources of supply are fewer, a smaller number of stations will be necessary.

'PLOT' NOTE IN MEXICO BELITTLED

San Luis Potosi Officials Think Letter on Plan to Kill Hoover "Imaginative"

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21. (AP)—George Price Shaw, American Consul at San Luis Potosi, telephoned to the Associated Press tonight confirming reports that a letter has been received by a Mexican student there from St. Louis, Mo., mentioning preparations to assassinate President Hoover.

He declared, however, that in San Luis Potosi it is believed the letter was largely "a work of imagination," and little will come of it. The Mexican authorities, nevertheless, began a thorough investigation.

Vicente Aurrecoechea, a student, to whom the letter was addressed, was immediately arrested, but denied knowing anything of a plot to kill Mr. Hoover. He also denied he had had any part in the shooting of President Ortiz Rubio on inauguration day.

The letter was not signed but Consul Shaw said Aurrecoechea recognized the handwriting as that of Nicolas Alcorta, a former San Luis Potosi student who has a bad character in the eyes of the authorities. It was intercepted in the mail because it was addressed to Aurrecoechea as the "Soviet representative in San Luis Potosi," and had crude drawings of a bomb and of a machine gun on the envelope.

MRS. DUGAN DIES GAME

Murder Atoned on Gallows

Poison and Razor Blades in Cell Indicate Foiled Plan to Cheat Execution

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Feb. 21. (AP)—Law, bound in a hangman's rope, snapped out the life of Mrs. Eva Dugan at dawn today as its penalty for the murder three years ago of A. J. Mathis, aged rancher of Tucson.

In the records of the Arizona prison here her name was written as the first woman in this State to be executed legally, but the gallows claimed its victim apparently only by a narrow margin. Warden Wright revealed afterward that poison had been smuggled into Mrs. Dugan's death cell. It never was used. A vial of deadly fluid was found beneath her cot and a search of her person a few minutes later disclosed three safety-razor blades.

Wright said the woman apparently intended to commit suicide but was prevented from taking the poison and using the blades by the vigilance of the guards. An investigation has been begun to learn the source of the poison and razor blades.

SHE REMAINS UNSHAKEN

To the last moment of consciousness when the steel trap of the gallows swung clumsily open at 5:02 a.m. the stolid, 52-year-old housekeeper remained an unshaken figure. Even a grim smile flitted across her broad face as a prison guard slipped the black death hood over her head.

She was standing erect, unaided, as the warden's right arm fell heavily to his side, the fatal signal to the hangman to release the door catch. She died, in her own words, "as I lived," outwardly calm. Physicians said she expired instantly.

Her attorneys had exhausted every effort to save her life, appeals, petitions for clemency, insanity trial, but each move the State had resisted successfully to uphold the verdict of the jury and the court's sentence.

As Mrs. Dugan walked from her cell, a guard on either side, to mount the thirteen steps leading to the trap, a dismal, rain-smeared dawn broke over the rugged Arizona hills. It cast a dim light on the high-walled prison yard where a little group of hushed witnesses stood. Among them were six women, including the prison matron, the first women in the State to witness a legal execution. They had been summoned by the warden.

Throughout the night Mrs. Dugan had played cards, talking only occasionally. On the gallows she broke her silence with three words. As the hangman placed the noose she turned to the warden. "God bless you, Eva," Wright said, clasping her hand. "Good-by, Daddy Wright," she replied.

She was buried in the bare prison graveyard in a casket she had purchased and dressed in the death shroud she had sewn for herself. Her father, William McDaniels of Ceres, Cal.; a sister, Mrs. Ruth Patterson of Weston, Mo., and a daughter, Mrs. Cecil Loveless of South Bend, Ind., are left. She said she had a son but his whereabouts the mother never disclosed.

As Mrs. Dugan was the first woman to receive the death sentence in Arizona, it also was the first time in the history of the State that members of her sex were permitted to stand on the scaffold as witnesses to an execution. Six women, five of them invited to witness the hanging, stood with heads bowed as the noose was fitted about the neck of the condemned woman, and shuddered as the steel trap clanged to plunge the body into eternity. The sixth woman, a prison matron, accompanied Mrs. Dugan on her trip to the gallows and it was a last wish that the matron stay with her until the end.

MYSTERY MURDER

Mrs. Dugan was convicted of the murder, in January, 1927, of Mathis, aged Tucson rancher-recluse, in order to gain possession of his property. The body of Mathis was not found until a year later, when searchers discovered it buried in a shallow, quicklime-filled grave at a lonely spot on his desert ranch.

Meanwhile Mrs. Dugan drove

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Feb. 21. [To the Editor of The Times:] Poor old disarmament conference, even if it does make an agreement with each other, why, before they can telegraph the news back to their countries the men that made agreement may be thrown out of office.

Every one of these delegations have to read the papers every morning to find if they are still working. France just called for another preacher right in the middle of the sermon. There is not even a two weeks' clause in any political contract over there, any time you pull a bad move you are out on your ear, and they throw your hat after you. On account of us being a democracy and run by the people, we are the only nation in the world that has to keep a government four years, no matter what it does.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

BYRD'S SHIP PLOWS WAY NORTHWARD

City of New York Expects to Reach Edge of Ice Pack Within Day or Two

ABOARD BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—Though today has brought a heavy fall of snow, Admiral Byrd's flagship, City of New York, continues steadily on her course to the northward. The winds have been moderate, permitting such good speed that today at noon Capt. Melville said we will reach the southern edge of the ice pack within the next two or three days. A number of small packs have been seen in the Ross Sea and last night the ship skirted a pack of fair size for several hours toward the westward before a clear path to the northward was found.

Though overcast, snowy weather prevented the taking of sights, the dead-reckoning position at noon showed the City of New York to be in Latitude 76.13 S., Longitude 178.34 W., and as we will pass the 180th meridian tonight the skipper announces that though today is Friday tomorrow will be Sunday.

Since leaving the Bay of Whales Admiral Byrd and his party from the barrier have been enjoying a well-earned rest from the worries of getting the material and personnel away from the ice. However, spare moments have been spent on stowing away loose cargo and getting the ship in ship shape for the gales which we are certain to encounter during this season after such a period of moderate weather.

WEIRD FATE SUSPECTED

Death Blamed on Egyptian Curse

British Noble's Tragic End Linked to Rifling of Tut's Tomb

Nine Connected With Carter Expedition Have Died in Queer Ways

LONDON, Feb. 21. (AP)—The tragic death of Lord Westbury today added one more to the list of those whom the superstitious believe to be dominated by an ancient Egyptian curse—"Death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of a pharaoh."

Lord Westbury, 78 years of age, jumped or fell from his seventh-floor apartment in St. James' Court this morning. An inquest verdict said it was suicide. Lord Westbury left behind a letter including the words:

"I cannot really stand any more horrors."

LINKED TO CARTER

The peer was known to have been worried over the unexpected death last November of his son, Richard Bethell, who was secretary to Howard Carter, famous Egyptologist.

Carter excavated the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in Egypt six years ago. He is alive, but among the persons more or less intimately connected with the work for six years Lord Westbury's death is the ninth. It is pointed out, moreover, that the majority of them met with sudden or violent death.

Lord Westbury, who was the third Baron of his name, had been in ill health for some time. He lived alone in his flat under the care of a nurse. When the nurse was temporarily absent this morning he went to the bathroom and there tumbled to his death. He crashed through a glass porch roof 100 feet below and struck a woman. The woman was injured and taken to the hospital.

CARNARVON'S FATE

The first death among those who were in any way connected with the Tut-Ankh-Amen expedition was that of Lord Carnarvon, the original discoverer of the tomb who was, incidentally, an intimate friend of Lord Westbury. Within a year after the tomb was opened Lord Carnarvon died in Cairo of a poisonous mosquito bite.

Lord Carnarvon's half - brother, Col. Aubrey Herbert, died several months later. He also had entered the tomb.

Sir Archibald Douglas-Reid, a famous radiologist, who had agreed to make an X-ray examination of the dead Pharaoh, died in 1924.

A little later an eminent Canadian, Prof. Laffleur of McGill University, died at Luxor while on a visit to the tomb.

H. G. Evelyn-White, scholar and Egyptologist, committed suicide toward the end of the same year. He left a letter containing the words: "I knew there was a curse on me."

In 1926 two sudden deaths connected with the tomb occurred. They were those of M. Benedite, a French archeologist, and M. Pasanova. Both had taken part in excavations in the Valley of the Kings.

SCOFFED BY EXPERT

There was at least one famous Egyptologist in London who scoffed at the "superstition" about the deaths of those who opened Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb. He is Sir Ernest A. Wallis Budge, keeper of the Egyptian and Assyrian antiquities in the British Museum from 1893 to 1924, and author of hundreds of books and articles on Egyptology.

"You cannot prevent people from being fools," he said today. "There have always been fools and fools will always go on being fools."

Sir Ernest, who is 72 years of age, said that he had dug up many mummies and never even had thought of such a thing as a curse being laid on him for it.

He added, however, "I have taken the coffins of mummies, but never the mummy itself. I was always careful to bury the mummy again.

DESERT TO YIELD "DRY ICE"

Refrigerant Will be Made from Carbon Dioxide Gas, Found While Prospecting for Oil

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—"Dry ice" from carbon dioxide wells, having a refrigerating efficiency twice that of water ice, may become a commercial product of the public domain of the western deserts, according to a statement issued today at the Interior Department.

George D. Parkinson of Salt Lake City visited the department in an effort to establish the status of certain carbon dioxide wells of Colorado and Utah.

GAS DISCOVERED

Mr. Parkinson said his clients hold permits to prospect for oil and gas on certain areas in the West. They have been putting down wells in search of these products. At certain points they had found carbon-dioxide gas and expressed the belief there might be commercial possibilities in this gas. They want to know if they are protected by their original permits to prospect. Secretary Wilbur ruled that they are protected.

Following this ruling Mr Parkinson wanted to know what royalty would be expected by the government, due to its ownership of the land, if money returns were brought in.

Secretary Wilbur agreed that since the commercial use of carbon dioxide from such wells is still in the experimental stage, the department would accept a nominal price of 2 cents per 1000 cubic feet of gas during the first two years of actual operation, the price then to be subject to adjustment on its market valuation.

PRODUCES SNOW

The wells in question are in the carbonate structure in Western Colorado and the Farnham dome in Eastern Utah. It is explained at the Geological Survey that carbon-dioxide gas, identical with that which causes the effervescence in carbonated drinks, may be formed under ground by natural processes, and that it may accumulate in domes and anticlines just as does other natural gas.

FRANCE GETS NEW CABINET

Chautemps Forms Ministry Based on Left Groups

Debut Will be Made Next Tuesday Afternoon

Briand to Head Delegation to London Conference

PARIS, Feb. 21. (AP)—Camille Chautemps, Radical-Socialist party leader, tonight succeeded in forming a new government, based on the Left groups in the Chamber of Deputies, to replace the resigned Tardieu ministry.

After calling on President Doumergue and acquainting him with the new Cabinet list, M. Chautemps took charge of the affairs of France. He was congratulated by the President on the rapidity with which he had constituted his ministry.

The new government will make its debut in the Chamber at 3 p.m. Tuesday. M. Chautemps will read the ministerial declaration and ask for a vote of confidence. He is apparently counting on getting it, for it was announced today that the French delegation to the London naval conference will be appointed by the Council of Ministers Tuesday evening and leave for London Wednesday.

PROBABLE DELEGATES

If Parliament upholds M. Chautemps, who will for the first time go under fire as Premier, Foreign Minister Briand, Minister of Marine Sarraut, Minister of the Merchant Marine Danielou, and Minister of the Colonies Lamoreux, almost certainly will be members of the delegation.

For the first time since the Herriot Cabinet was swept into power on May 11, 1924, France has a genuine government of the Left groups. There are a few Moderate elements represented in it, but the Nationalists and Rightists are wholly absent.

There is no misunderstanding in Paris about which way the government will guide the ship of state. It will go to the Left, and it will meet, among others, the opposition of ex-Premier Tardieu and his followers, who refused to support it by a vote of 36 to 3.

CHAMBER CHAOTIC

The refusal of the Tardieu group, known as the Republicans of the Left, to collaborate obliged Premier Chautemps to make a last-minute reshuffling of his Cabinet list, and to eliminate Francois Pietri, former Minister of the Colonies, and one of the French delegation to the London conference, Pierre Etienne Flandin, former Minister of Commerce, and M. Ricalfi, who had been slated for the Ministry of Pensions.

The chaotic condition of the Chamber, where the Right and Left have been practically deadlocked since the 1928 elections, made predictions about the duration and strength of the government unusually uncertain. The Herriot government of 1924 had a stronger, more enthusiastic and better consolidated following. The Chautemps government meets a largely hostile press and a general feeling in the people of weariness with a long series of ministerial ups and downs.

One thing that appears certain about it is that its policy at the London naval conference will not materially differ from that of its predecessor. As a politician and negotiator, Foreign Minister Briand is more suave than ex-Premier Tardieu, but his principles will probably be the same.

This is the eighty-third ministry to govern France since the third republic was proclaimed in 1870, and numerically it is the largest that has faced the Chamber in fifty years. It is composed of seventeen Ministers and eleven Undersecretaries.

CONFIDENCE GIVEN LONDON CONFERENCE

LONDON, Feb. 21. (AP)—Naval conference circles were heartened today by learning that Aristide Briand will head the reconstructed French delegation, due back here next week for the resumption of disarmament negotiations Wednesday.

Briand, veteran of a generation of international conferences, is warmly admired and respected by all of the other delegations. Although general regret is expressed over the loss of Andre Tardieu, defeated Premier, it is believed the conference can achieve equally great steps toward disarmament with Briand as Foreign Minister heading the French delegation.

Albert Sarraut, Minister of Marine, who it is reported will accompany Briand, is also eminently acceptable. He represented his country at the Washington arms parley and is well informed on naval problems.

The British, American and other delegations limit their comment to approval of men likely to continue French representation in London. Nobody here presumes to be sufficiently versed in French internal politics to know whether the new Chautemps government can weather a vote of confidence by the Chamber of Deputies, but all seem to approve the proposed French delegation.

across country in Mathis's automobile, and later was arrested in White Plains, N. Y., on an auto-theft charge. She was returned to Tucson, where she told authorities that Mathis had given her the automobile just before he left the ranch on a long trip. She emphatically denied knowledge of Mathis's whereabouts, and authorities were unable to connect her with the rancher's disappearance.

With the finding of the body, however, a formal murder charge was placed against the woman.

"JACK" MENTIONED

She testified at her trial that a 19-year-old youth known to her only as "Jack" had committed the actual slaying, and that she ran away with "Jack." During her trial and since she has received letters purporting to be signed by "Jack," asserting that she was not guilty of the crime. Efforts of authorities to locate the mysterious youth, however, were unsuccessful, and he did not come forward to clear Mrs. Dugan of the crime.

Following her conviction and sentencing to death an appeal, which was denied, was made to the State Board of Pardons and Paroles asking that the sentence be commuted to life imprisonment. A subsequent plea to the board, after a Superior Court jury had found her sane as the result of a sanity hearing, also was denied.

PROTESTS TURNED DOWN

The City Council yesterday denied all protests against the widening of an alley east of Santa Fe avenue and south of Seventh street and confirmed the assessments for the improvement of La Paz Drive from Avenel street to Hyperion avenue and for the improvement of Magnolia Boulevard from Bellaire to Diaz avenues. Hearing of appeals against the confirmation of assessments for the improvement of Valentine street between Cerro Gordo and Baxter streets was continued until Wednesday.

KEARNS WOULD BREAK TIES

Former Dempsey Manager Sues to Annul Bonds With Nominal Wife, Parted at Altar

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, today filed suit in Circuit Court for the annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Legana Angel Kearns. The bill disappeared immediately after it was filed and Albert Smith, Kearns's attorney, was reported "away on business" when newspaper men called.

Mrs. Kearns, who, as an actress uses the name of Edith Angel, was married to Kearns by contract on March 22, 1924, and the couple separated the same day. The former manager of the world's heavyweight boxing champion asserted he was "coerced" into the marriage by threats of "unfavorable publicity."

In entering into the contract form of marriage with the actress Kearns agreed to pay her $500 a month after their separation. These payments were kept up until last October and since then Mrs. Kearns has obtained judgments of $500 each month. A recent attempt to enforce one of these judgments when Kearns was ill in California failed.

Kearns asks an injunction restraining his wife from attempting to enforce this and other attachments pending disposition of his suit. Kearns now lives in Chicago and is manager of Mickey Walker.

Mrs. Dugan Twenty-seventh Woman Executed

Quaker State's Record Nine, New York Eight

First Instance Occurred in September, 1808

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—The execution of Mrs. Eva Dugan at Arizona State prison today brings to twenty-seven the number of women who have been executed in the various States since they were chartered as such.

Eight women have been executed and te ni nother States.

The first recorded instance of execution of a woman is that of Elizabeth Himby, who was hanged in West Chester, Pa., on September 3, 1808. The records do not reveal the nature of the crime she committed.

The most recent execution of a white woman prior to the hanging of Mrs. Dugan was the hanging of Mrs. Ada Leboeuf in Louisiana on February 1, 1929, for the murder of her husband. Eight other women, including Mrs. Ruth Snyder, whose case closely paralleled that of Mrs. Leboeuf, were convicted and executed for slaying their husbands.

The majority of women executed have used poison in committing the murders of which they were convicted, but there have been several instances where the victim was shot, and some of the women have resorted to bludgeoning and strangling.

There has been only one known case where another person confessed to the crime for which a woman was executed. Mrs. Margaret Houghtaling, the first woman to be executed in New York State, was hanged at Hudson, N. Y., in 1817 for strangling her baby. Several years later another woman confessed on her deathbed that she and not Mrs. Houghtaling had murdered the child.

May 9, 1809, Susana Cox, Berks county, Pennsylvania, hanged for choking to death her newly born baby.

February 12, 1858, Charlotte Jones, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, hanged for murdering George Wilson.

IN LINCOLN CASE

July 9, 1865, Mrs. Mary E. Surrat was hanged at Washington, D. C., as conspirator in assassination of President Lincoln.

In 1874, Mrs. Martha Meierhoffer and Edward Lemon hanged in Essex county, New Jersey, for shooting her husband.

February 3, 1881, Catherine Miller of Lycoming county, Pennsylvania, executed for assisting George Smith to murder her husband.

POISON DEATHS

February 1, 1929, Mrs. Ada Leboeuf, hanged in Louisiana for the murder of her husband.

Stalin Receives $100 from Woman to Aid Cause of Communism

MOSCOW, Feb. 21. (AP)—Joseph Stalin, the "Strong Man of Russia," today received a gift of $100 from Mrs. Valentine Alexandrovn Ulmar of Los Angeles, Cal., to help "the land of workers which is building the future of the world."

The gift was accompanied by a letter in which Mrs. Ulmar declared she is a hard-working washerwoman, toiling from twelve to sixteen hours a day, but is eager to aid the cause of Communism in Russia.

Air-Mail Trail Blazer Expires in Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Feb. 21. (AP)—Death claimed an air-mail trail blazer and one of the country's oldest pilots in point of experience, today, when Randolph G. Page, 36 years of age, vice-president of the Texhoma Aeronautical Service, Inc., with headquarters in Fort Worth, died in a hospital here. He was stricken Thursday night at his home.

Aviation history records that Page, who has been a flyer fifteen years, made the first night air-mail flight and delivered the first transcontinental mail bags from New York to San Francisco. In July, 1924, he carried the night mail from Chicago to Omaha to pioneer in this phase of transportation. Four years previous—in September, 1920, Page took off from Hazelhurst Field, Mineola, N. Y., for San Francisco.

HOOVER TARIFF BACKING HINTED

closer to President Hoover than is the distinguished leader of the majority party in this chamber and closer to the President than is the senior Senator from Utah."

WHAT "STAR" SAYS

The Kansas City Star story reads, in part:

"An unprecedented situation has developed in the making of our new tariff law. Although the subject is economic, it always has been handled politically and therefore to the satisfaction of the country, of course, including those parts of it which have suffered most from this handling. I suppose they have recognized their interests are secondary to those of the campaign committees of the political parties that need the tariff for a partisan issue.

"But today we have the amazing spectacle of a Republican President prepared to accept a tariff bill made by the Democrats and insurgent Republicans for no better reason than that it is the kind of a tariff bill this Republican President has asked a Republican Congress to enact."

There is no doubt that the purport of the story caused a disconcerted feeling in the Republican ranks. Added to this were some expressions of feeling that Senator Grundy, who recently was appointed to the Senate after appearing in Washington on behalf of high protection rates, should be the one to circulate the Kansas City story.

Grundy was unperturbed, however, during the day he called on President Hoover and said later patronage matters affecting his State had been discussed by them. Questioned about whether the Kansas City Star story had been discussed, Grundy declined to comment. Neither was any information concerning it forthcoming from the Executive offices.

ACTION TAKEN

Meanwhile, in a spirit of compromise and with only slight opposition, the Senate today disposed of individual amendments to the agriculture, spirits, cotton and flax schedules and thereby completed action on two-thirds of the fifteen rate sections of the tariff bill.

Seven more increases in farm duties were put through today, affecting dried and frozen eggs, celery, lettuce, cabbage and alfalfa and red clover seed.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, lost in an attempt to restore the existing levy of 50 cents a 100 pounds on white potatoes and the 75-cent rate was retained in the bill. The only other change in the farm schedule was a reduction to the existing level of 45 per cent in the duty on preserved or canned mushrooms, which the bill had raised by adding a 10 cents a pound specific levy.

No individual amendments were offered to the cotton schedule, but several changes were made in the section embracing flax, hemp and jute.

WEBB REVISES RULING ON CROSSING STOPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—Atty.-Gen. Webb today informed the Railroad Commission that he has revised his opinion that motorists are not required to come to a full stop at protected railroad crossings and that he now holds the commission to be within its rights in framing a new regulation providing for such stops. A week ago Webb declared the present State law, passed by the last Legislature, which did not require the stops, was sufficient. The commission's new regulation is one of several aiming at increased safety.

MORE SMIRCHED WITH LOBBYISM

Senate Committee Discloses Muscle Shoals Letters

Farm Bureau Official Tries to Sway President

References to Chairman of G.O.P. Incriminating

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—Correspondence telling of plans of Chester H. Gray of the American Farm Bureau Federation to confer with President Hoover regarding the Muscle Shoals paragraph in his message to Congress and asserting that Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, "is O. K. and is doing all that he dares to do in the position which he occupies," was made public tonight by the Senate Lobby Committee."

The correspondence was between Gray and E. A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. Gray's organization has been active in opposing government operation of Muscle Shoals and advocating the proposal of the American Cyanamid Company to lease the power and nitrate plant.

APPROACHED COOLIDGE

In addition, the correspondence represented former President Coolidge as having directed the Department of Agriculture to cease preparing a bill on Muscle Shoals for presentation to Congress and as having been urged by Gray to veto the Norris bill providing for government operation. That bill was given a "pocket veto."

In a letter to O'Neal, dated November 15, 1929, Gray said he had sent a letter to the White House to obtain a conference with the President, and continued:

"I expect to discuss with him the text of the Muscle Shoals paragraph in his message and whatever else I have an opportunity to present."

HUSTON IN LINE

"Mr. Huston is in and out of Washington so much that it is not easy to contact with him, either," Gray wrote. "However, he is O. K. and is doing all that he dares to do in the position which he occupies.

"I learned that he is watching his step on this for fear of being called by Caraway's committee. We do not want to urge him to do too much right now on this account."

Another letter from Gray to O'Neal dated April 4, 1929, said Muscle Shoals was "still very much alive and influences are constantly being brought to bear upon Congressional leaders and even the White House."

UNDER SUSPICION

"But, as you know, I doubt that we will be able to do any more on it this session than merely keep it enough to the front that it cannot be said to be dead. I suspect the White House thinks I am responsible for most of the telegrams and letters which have come to it recently and perhaps that accounts for the embargo placed against us recently in denying us the privilege of talking it over with Mr. Hoover."

Chairman Caraway has announced that Huston, former President of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, which also advocated the cyanamid company's Muscle Shoals bid, will be called before the committee, probably next week. The committee recessed until Tuesday.

Arms Carried to Protect Son of Gas Magnate

RENO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Ralph Elsman, Brooklyn gas magnate, and all of his men employees at the Franktown home near here, carry guns to protect the Elsman son, Elsman admitted on the stand in District Court today in cross-examination when the hearing on the motion for absolute custody of the son was renewed.

John Dotson, gateman, carries a gun, Elsman said, and a man named Wheeler, employed in November and December, 1928, carried one. Elsman said that on the premises he, too, carries one. The guns would be used to protect whatever they desire to protect on his own property.

"WILD JACKASS" KICKS BACK

House Criticism of Western Insurgents Draws Reply from South Dakotans' Champion

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—An attack in the House on Western Republican Senators, members of the Democratic-Republican independent tariff coalition, by Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, resulted today in bitter debate on Republicanism.

Representative Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, served notice on New England members that he was tired of assaults on the Republicanism of Representatives of western States and said that Treadway's remarks about the two Senators from his State—McMaster and Norbeck—were without "apparent cause or reason."

The Massachuetts member arose to answer charges made by Representative Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee, earlier in the week that the Republican administration had to accept the responsibility for existing unemployment and economic conditions.

Treadway said unemployment conditions were improving and the country was in a sound economic condition. He added that "good times" would not return until the uncertainty as to the tariff is ended in the Senate. The Republican members of the coalition in the Senate, he said, could certainly perform "a most patriotic and useful service for the American people by returning to the principles of the party to which in name they owe allegiance."

Representative McCormick, Democrat, Massachusetts, asked if Treadway disclaimed the "progressive members of the Senate as members of the Republican party?"

"That matter has been rehashed so frequently I guess we 'better not stir up the animals any more about it,' Treadway said. "They are not our kind of Republicans . . ."

"They are mighty good Republicans when they want votes out in the States where they come from. That is the best I can say for that group."

As soon as he could, Johnson took the floor to defend the Senators from his State.

"Not long ago a very distinguished 'gentleman from New Hampshire," Johnson said, speaking of Senator Moses, a Republican Stalwart, "referred to some of the people of my section as 'sons of the wild jackass.' He is another gentleman from New England who attacks these Senators. In this body and in the other legislative body no one coming from one part of the country has the right to test the Republicanism of another part of the country."

HEALTH CHAMPIONS BANQUETED

Florence Irene Smock and Harold Deatline

EUSTIS (Fla.) Feb. 21. (AP)—The healthiest girl in America and her home town were hostesses to the nation's healthiest boy.

Harold Deatline, whose home is near Martinsville, Ind., arrived this afternoon to visit Miss Florence Irene Smock. They were selected healthiest boy and girl recently at the National 4-H. Club contest in Chicago.

This city had groomed itself for the greatest celebration in its history. There was a banquet for the health champions tonight and the best wishes will extend through tomorrow coincident with the annual observance of Washington's Birthday. Miss Smock and Deatline were guests of honor at the banquet, which was attended by Gov. Carlton.

There will be a band parade tomorrow, and the Governor will introduce the health champions to home folks and to visitors.

Miss Smock, a striking brunette of 17, is a junior in the Eustis High School. Deatline is 18. He has finished his high school work and is working this year in an effort to obtain funds for attending college next year.

TEAGUE TO TAKE PLACE AS REGENT

Farm Board Man Named by Gov. Young University Director With Cochrane

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Appointment of C. C. Teague of Santa Paula and reappointment of George I. Cochran of Los Angeles to the Board of Regents of the University of California was announced here today by Gov. Young. Teague is to succeed Ralph P. Merritt, term expired.

In his statement on the appointments the Governor said:

"I have concluded that the two appointments to the Board of Regents of the State university should at this time go to Southern California in view of the fact that the university at Los Angeles has just removed to its new 400-acre campus and bids fair to become a very important part of our university activities.

"It would consequently seem too great a discrepancy to continue twelve of the appointed members of the regents from Northern California as against only four from the southern portion of the State."

Gov. Young said that one feature which the Board of Regents has lacked has been a sufficiency of representation for agriculture.

"Fortunately," he stated, "I have been able to solve both these problems by announcing the appointment of a Southern California man . . . who would probably be recognized as California's foremost agriculturist. I refer to Mr. Teague."

Cochran, reappointed, has served as regent of the university for nearly eleven years.

The two airmen, Capt. Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen and Capt. Luetzow Holm, made a successful flight from the ship over the hitherto undiscovered territory and mapped about 115 miles.

The northwestern point of the new land is said to be situated at 71.26 deg. south, 11.31 west.

SUBMARINE WAR ISSUE SURVEYED

Legal Experts at London Study Humanization

Preliminary Treaty Clauses to be Drafted

Americans Prepare for Parley Resumption

LONDON, Feb. 21. (AP)—Informal study of the question of humanizing of submarine warfare took place at the Foreign Office today between the legal experts of the big five powers. George A. Rublee, confidential adviser to Ambassador Morrow, and Keith Merrill, personal adviser to Secretary Stimson, represented the United States.

It was decided that each delegation shall prepare preliminary drafts of clauses which they think the treaty should contain and be prepared to submit them at another meeting of the legal experts Tuesday so the conference may have something definite to work on when it resumes next Wednesday.

INTERIM ACTIVITIES

Secretary Stimson came here today and had lunch with Lord Grey, former Foreign Minister. He will return to Stanmore this afternoon.

Col. Stimson and the other American delegates are using their conference holiday in preparing for the resumption of active negotiations when the French return.

It is admitted that valuable time is being lost during the adjournment and in British circles particularly it is felt that the conference now is likely to last until the end of March instead of the 15th, which was the predicted date of adjournment prior to the French political crisis.

POLICY OUTLINED

It was authoritatively learned today that one line of American policy will be definite, when negotiations again open, pertaining to the various political pacts or arrangements, rumors whereof crop up every few days.

In the view of the American delegation, such pacts are not within the scope of this conference. In that attitude they are supported by the British. If the Kellogg pact is to be expanded, or otherwise made more effective, the operation will have to be performed at some future international clinic.

The United States is willing and eager to survey possibilities for world conventions making toward peace, it is stated, but the Americans feel that it should not be done at a purely naval disarmament conference such as this.

CONTEST AT LONDON TIED

Question of 'Americanization of British Capital or Anglicizing of Delegates Still Unsettled

LONDON, Feb. 21. (AP)—The Anglo-American contest in London ends its first month today in stalemate. One question which never will be settled at the conference is whether the American delegation to the naval conference is Americanizing London or London is Anglicizing the Americans.

While a number of members of the American commission have been to the British capital before, the great majority are now on their first visit. Both the Ritz and Mayflower hotels have made a special effort temporarily to adopt American customs in order best to care for the needs of the delegation.

BRITONS' SCORE

The present score grants three major points to the British:

First, the delegation is adopting afternoon tea—even the marines while on duty at the Ritz have pots of tea served on their posts.

Second, all have taken seriously to breakfast in bed before going to their offices at 9 a.m.

Third, with outlying districts convenient to a city boasting the finest golf courses in the world, almost the entire American delegation has taken to playing regularly.

AMERICANS TALLY

On the other hand the Americans must be conceded three points:

First, the delegation finally succeeded in getting heat in their living quarters, the hotels installing electric heaters in addition to small steam radiators; second, they have convinced restaurant waiters that cream and not hot milk should be served with coffee; third, all have refused to adopt English cigarettes, preferring to pay 35 cents a package for American cigarettes which normally would cost less than half as much in the United States.

There still is a struggle remaining over the question of serving soft-boiled eggs with breakfast. The English insist that they should be cracked at the top and eaten from the shells; the Americans insist that they should be removed from the shells and placed in a cup.

SOHO EXPLORED

Aside from the delegates themselves, who when remaining in their rooms usually take their meals there, most of the remainder of the commission in the evenings seek unusual haunts in the Soho, which is London's Latin quarter.

Perhaps the least sought places are the night clubs normally patronized by American tourists and which just now the British are greatly enjoying. Those members of the delegation, including the stenographers, who enjoy dancing, choose the smaller and less expensive restaurants with orchestras in preference to the night clubs.

RETURN TRIP BY ZEPPELIN IN PROSPECT

Word Given by Jahncke in Announcing Permit to Use Lakehurst Base

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—The possibility of an early return flight of the huge Graf Zeppelin to the United States was disclosed today by Acting Secretary of the Navy Jahncke, in announcing the Navy Department has given permission for the air liner to use the Lakehurst (N. J.) air base.

A letter received today from Dr. Hugo Von Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin, says the German company is interested in making a study of regular commercial traffic between Europe, South America and the United States.

Dr. Eckener says the regular run from North American points to points in South America by water takes twenty-five to twenty-eight days, adding that he believes the airship can make the trip in a week or ten days. He asserts that the voyage could not be made without the assurance of refueling at Lakehurst.

A place has been reserved aboard the Zeppelin for a United States naval officer to make whatever observations he desires.

Fifty Strikers Wreck Interior of Restaurant

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—Fifty men and women, said by police to be members of the amalgamated food workers' union, wrecked the interior of the Benrod Cafeteria, in Seventh avenue, today, during the noon-hour rush. All but one, Rose Kaplan, 26 years of age, escaped.

The food workers, who are on a strike, are asserted to have entered the cafeteria in groups of four and five and scattered at tables among the more than 500 other patrons.

At a given signal, police charge, Miss Kaplan jumped on a table yelling, "Restaurant workers are on a strike," and the others started upsetting tables, breaking dishes and fixtures and smashing counters.

Max Samuels, proprietor, was knocked down and beaten. He estimated the damage at $1500, besides the loss in unpaid checks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Athol Frank Sullivan pleaded not guilt, in Federal court today to two charges of assault on the high seas preferred by Mrs. Grace Herold, Los Angeles radio and vaudeville performer, and Berchard Arnold. His trial was set for March 20.

Sullivan is said to have threatened to throw Mrs. Herold overboard from the steamer Harvard while at sea last week, and to have knocked Arnold down when he intervened.

NEW COAST LINK MADE BY AIR-RAIL

Northern Railroads Join Plane Company in Direct Service to Southland

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 21. (AP)—H. A. Burgess, assistant to Harris M. Hanshue, president of the West Coast Air Transport, Western Air Express and Fokker Aircraft Corporation, announced today that air-rail agreement between the West Coast Air Transport and four major railroads has been consummated.

The railroads concerned are the Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Great Northern and Northern Pacific. Burgess' announcement followed his tour of the United States during which time he contracted with the transcontinental railroads for service.

Burgess said the Canadian roads would offer the air service to passengers desirous of reaching points in Pacific Coast States. The agreement, he said, also affords an outlet to these points for northern railroads with termination at Seattle. The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific will be able to offer passengers service enabling them to alight from one of their trains at Portland and board a West Coast Air Transport for San Francisco, connecting there with planes for Los Angeles and points in the Southeast and West.

Wife Convicted of Killing Mate for Love of Lad

KINGSVILLE (Tex.) Feb. 21. (AP) Mrs. Maude Long was convicted of poisoning her husband, Jim Long, by a jury here today and her punishment was fixed at twenty-five years in the penitentiary.

Long, a painter, died from poison placed in a harmless effervescent drug, September 7, 1929.

An intrigue with a 14-year-old boy caused Mrs. Long to place the poison in the drug, the State contended. The boy, a freckled, red-headed youth, who frequently drank home brew with Jim Long, confirmed the State's theory in so far as it related to his affair with the woman, who is 31.

Smith's Charges Supported by Wife's Affidavit

Immunity Offered to Those Who Aid in Inquiry

OAKLAND, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—Dist.-Atty. Warren tonight announced the launching of a State-wide search for C. L. Ormsby, former attorney for Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, on receipt of word from the south that he had not been located for service of the subpoena to appear before the Alameda county grand jury next Monday. Ormsby is named in an affidavit by Fred C. Smith, former San Leandro automobile dealer, as the "go between" in asserted graft payments by Alameda county bootleggers and gamblers to Sheriff Becker and three of his aides.

Smith, under grand-jury indictment for grand theft, was located in Los Angeles and returned to this city earlier in the week. In an affidavit which Dist.-Atty. Warren filed with the grand jury, Smith describes himself as the man who collected from Ormsby and delivered to the Sheriff and his aides sums aggregating $4200 for asserted tip-offs on raids, and subsequently became the collector himself.

SUPPORTING AFFIDAVIT

His affidavit was supported by another today made by his wife.

In it, according to the District Attorney, Mrs. Smith says she accompanied her husband to the Oakland bank when he exchanged $2700, the first asserted graft payment he handled, for other currency, so, if the currency was marked, it would not be traced.

Mrs. Smith is also said to have set forth in her affidavit several other occasions on which she saw or regarded it as obvious that money was being exchanged between her husband and two of Sheriff Becker's deputies, whom she names as J. J. Collier and J. L. Davis.

These men were suspended early in the investigation but were reinstated by the Sheriff when Smith's affidavit was filed with the grand jury.

IMMUNITY OFFER

Dist.-Atty. Warren made a public offer of immunity to "all persons of lesser importance who may have vital information" regarding the inquiry now under way, saying it is his purpose to "go out after the big game." Disclosures to date, he said, have given "a fairly definite idea as to how big they are."

An audit of the books of the streets department was ordered by the grand jury, which named the experts for the task. Parker, one of the commissioners named in the inquiry, was head of that department until recently, when removed and placed in charge of another city bureau.

LIQUOR REFERENDUM URGED

New Yorker in House Uses Canada as His Text in Plea for American Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—The prohibition controversy which has been raging over Washington since before Christmas continued today in the House, where Representative Mead, Democrat, New York, urged a referendum on the dry law.

Mead held the struggles of Canada with prohibition were a parallel to those in this country.

He said the futility of prohibition in the dominion was soon realized and as a result eight of the nine Provinces repealed the law.

"After experiencing the dismal failure of prohibition," Mead said, "our people changed their minds as quickly as did the people of Canada, but unlike the wise provisions of the Canadian law on the subject, our people are unable to give expression clearly and universally to their views on the question."

He said the people should have opportunity for a national referendum on dry-wet questions in order that Congress, the law-enforcement commission and the people themselves could learn the attitude of the country toward prohibition.

The New Yorker presented figures to show that Canada is making a strong bid for the tourist trade from this country and declared that millions of people go to the Dominion each year and expend approximately $300,000,000 for beverages, lodging, food and automobile supplies.

"Canada's tourist trade," he said, "is one of the principal factors in that country's post-war economic progress and is responsible in a large measure for the prosperity it is now enjoying."

I.C.C. LIMITS RAIL MERGER

Northerns Would Have to Give Up Burlington

Approval of Consolidation Made Conditional

Roads Will Insist on Entry to Chicago District

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—Unification of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railways was approved today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, contingent upon the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad being divorced from the system.

Control of the 15,000 miles of line extending across the northwest section of the country would be vested in a newly formed Great Northern Pacific Railway Company, which would issue its common capital stock to carry through the acquisitions.

In ordering the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific to divest themselves within a reasonable time of the extensive Burlington Line's stock, which they now hold jointly, the commission said it was not determining at this time that the northern lines should be denied a permanent entrance into the Chicago district.

VIEWS OF RAIL HEADS

The two roads now reach Chicago through their control of the Burlington. President Donnelly of the Northern Pacific indicated recently that a guarantee of a connection with Chicago should be a part of any separation of the northern lines from their control over the Burlington. Today, after the commission's action, President Budd of the Great Northern said in Seattle that the commission should give "further consideration" to the matter of continuing the Burlington ownership after the unification.

By approving the joining of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, the commission gave tangible evidence that it intends to adhere closely to its railroad consolidation plan, issued in December.

Some opposition from western Senators was evidenced after publication of the consolidation plan on the ground that the unification will destroy competition in the Northwest and give the northern lines complete dominance over transportation. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, also operating across the Northwest, offered vigorous opposition to approval of the unification on the same grounds.

WOULD BE LONGEST LINE

Under the commission's authorization, the new Northwest system would operate more than 15,000 miles of track, making it the longest line in the country.

The attempt to unify the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific was first made nearly forty years ago, but it was overthrown by the Supreme Court, which held that it would be an illegal combination in restraint of interstate commerce. Later, the Northern Securities Company was formed, creating common control of the two roads through stock ownership. About 63 per cent of the Northern Pacific and 59 per cent of the Great Northern stock are now held by the same stockholders. The Burlington stock, which the new company has been ordered to sell, was asquired in 1901 with about 97 per cent of its capital stock owned in equal parts by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Under the new plan the Great Northern Pacific Company was authorized to hold joint ownership for ninety-nine years.

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS OPPOSE PROPOSAL

OLYMPIA (Wash.) Feb. 21. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission's plan of excluding the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad from the Northern Pacific-Great Northern merger will, if it is accepted by the parent companies, deprive the Pacific Northwest of one of its principal direct through routes to Chicago, Fred K. Baker, director of the Washington Department of Public Works, and C. R. Lonergan, chief of the traffic division, said here today.

ENTRY TO CHICAGO DECLARED NECESSARY

ST. PAUL, Feb. 21. (AP)—Unofficial indications were given in railway circles here today that the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific will attempt to gain some modification of the Interstate Commerce Commission's ruling relative to disposal of the Burlington road in connection with the proposed merger of the two northerns.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, was in Seattle today. Both he and Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, have indicated strongly that the northerns will not sell the Burlington in order to obtain consolidation unless they at least retain entry rights into Chicago, now provided by the Burlington.

In a recent address, Mr. Budd emphasized the fact that the Burlington is greatly needed by the northerns to assure diversity of traffic and also because of its lines from St. Paul to Chicago.

Mr. Donnelly, commenting on the commission's decision, said that "in the minds of the representatives of the northerns, the privilege of an entry into Chicago has always been considered as an indispensable condition to going forward with the merger. I can make no further comment until I have seen the text of the commission's decision."

Mr. Budd has said that any decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission would receive the most serious consideration from the northerns, but that sale of the entire Burlington system without provision for at least Chicago trackage rights would hardly be accepted.

WASHINGTON'S OWN STORY!

Crossing of Delaware and Battle of Trenton Described Vividly in General's Letter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (NANA)—George Washington's own story, hitherto apparently unpublished, of the crossing of the Delaware and the battle of Trenton has just come to light.

It is told in a letter written the next day, December 26, 1776, to Maj.-Gen. William Heath, commander of the Continental forces left to watch and harass the British in New York, with whom the commander-in-chief kept up a constant correspondence during the darkest days of the struggle for independence.

In preparation for the coming Washington bicentennial the Library of Congress has been collecting from all over the country either manuscripts or photostats of all the letters of the first President. The letter to Heath has lain for many years in the archives of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

TEXT OF LETTER

Washington's letter follows:

December 26, 1776

I have the pleasure of congratulating you upon the success of an enterprize which I had formed against a detachment of the enemy lying in Trenton, which was executed yesterday morning. The evening of the 25th I ordered the troops intended for this service, which were about 2400, to parade back of McKonky's Ferry that they might begin to pass as soon as it grew dark, imagining we should be able to throw them all over, with the necessary artillery, by 12 o'clock, and that we might easily arrive at Trenton by 5 in the morning, the distance being about nine miles.

But the quantity of ice made that night impeded the passage of the boats so much that it was 3 o'clock before the artillery could all be got over and near 4 before the troops took up their line of march. This made me dispair of surprising the town and I well knew we could not reach it until the day was finally broke, but as I was certain there was no making a retreat without being discovered and harassed on repassing the river I determined to push on at all events.

INTO DETACHMENTS

I formed by detachment into two divisions, one to march by the lower or river road and the other by the upper or Pennytown road. As the divisions had nearly the same distance to march I ordered each of them immediately upon forcing the outguards to push directly into the town that they might charge the enemy before they had time to form. The upper division arrived at the enemy's advanced post exactly at 8 o'clock and in three minutes after I found from the fire on the lower road that that division had also got up.

The outguards made but small opposition, tho for their numbers they behaved very well, keeping up a constant retreating fire from behind houses. We presently saw their main body formed but from their motions they seemed undetermined how to act; being hard pressed by our troops who had already got possession of part of their artillery they attempted to file off by a road on their right leading to Prince Town, but perceiving their intention I threw a body of men in their way which immediately checked them. Finding from our disposition that they were surrounded and that they must inevitably be cut to pieces if they made any resistance they agreed to lay down their arms.

HESSIANS SURRENDER

The number that submitted in this manner were twenty-three officers, with seven others who were found wounded in the town. I don't exactly know how many they had killed, but I fancy not above twenty-five or thirty as they never made any regular stand. Our loss is trifling, only two officers and one or two privates wounded. I find that the detachment of the enemy consisted of three regiments; to wit of Zampach, Kniphausen and Roll, amounting to about 1500 men, and a troop of light horse, but immediately on the beginning of the attack all those not killed or taken rushed down the road toward Bordentown. They would likewise have fallen into our hands could my plan have been completely carried into execution. Gen. Ewing was to have crossed before day at Trenton Ferry and taken possession of the bridge leading out of town, but the quantity of ice was so great that though he did everything in his power to effect it he could not get over.

This difficulty also hindered Gen. Cadwallader from crossing with the Pennsylvania militia from Bristol. He got part of his foot over, but finding it impossible to embark his artillery he was obliged to desist. I am confident that could the troops under Gen. Cadwallader and Gen. Ewing have passed to river I should have been able with their assistance to have driven the enemy from all their posts below Trenton, but the number I had with me, being inferior to those below me and a strong battalion of light infantry at Prince Town, I thought it more prudent to return the same evening with my prisoners and the artillery we had taken.

MEN PRAISED

We found no stores of any consequence in the town. In justice to the officers and men I must add that their behavior on this occasion reflects the highest honor upon them. The difficulty of passing the river in a very severe night and then march through a violent storm of snow and hail did not in the least abate their ardor but after they came to the charge they seemed to vie with each other in pressing foreward, and was I to give a preference to any particular corps I should do a great injustice to the others.

I some time ago mentioned to you the importance of attacking the enemy's outposts when it can be done with any prospect of success. The best of consequences must result from their being harassed on every occasion on that quarter.

—GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Gov. Young Appoints Parr of Bay City and Burke of Santa Ana

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Fred D. Parr of San Francisco and J. Frank Burke, Santa Ana, were appointed by Gov. Young today as members of the board of trustees of the California Penal Institute for Women, which was created to select a site and proceed with the establishment of the institution. The committee consists of five members.

Parr and Burke are to succeed Judge Leslie R. Hewitt, Los Angeles, and Fred G. Athearn, San Francisco. These two vacancies were created on the committee when Hewitt, a Los Angeles attorney, was recently named a member of the commission for study and suggested revision of the State constitution and Athearn was appointed by the Governor as State Corporation Commissioner.

Burke is a Santa Ana newspaper publisher. Parr, although residing in San Francisco, has his chief business interests in Oakland and Richmond, where the Parr Terminals are located.

The statute creating the board provides that three members shall be women and two of the members of the old committee, Mrs. Ernest Wallace, Alhambra, and Mrs. Gertrude Slocum, San Francisco, have already been appointed. The third woman upon the committee, Mrs. John C. Buwalda, Pasadena, found it impossible to serve, owing to outside duties and was, therefore, succeeded by Mrs. Emily Dwight Latham of Los Angeles.

SECRETARY TO BE WIFE OF REMUS

Undaunted by Fate of Predecessor, Woman Will Wed Bootleg King

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (Exclusive) George Remus, lawyer, millionaire bootlegger and wife slayer, has adopted a new role—that of Romeo to Blanche Watson's Juliet, according to reports reaching Chicago today. It is said Remus will marry Miss Watson in June.

His daughter Romola, who is living here, knows all about Miss Watson. She knows that the woman, her father's former secretary and business associate, was his most loyal friend when he faced the noose.

But Romola professes to know nothing about insistent reports that she's soon to have a stepmother just a little older than herself.

George served time at Atlanta. After he came out he shot and killed his wife after an automobile chase in Cincinnati.

Romola and Miss Watson were his loyal defenders throughout his tribulations. Blanche toiled day and night to build a defense for him and finally won his acquittal after he had been found insane. He passed very little time in an insane hospital.

And while George was behind the bars Blanche managed his many enterprises. She made plenty of money for herself, too, the Covington beauty frankly admits.

AIR BOARD TOLD RULES TOO RIGID

Physical Perfection Not Necessary, Say Experts; Free Flight Gas Ended

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21. (AP)—The Department of Commerce was told today at the International Aircraft Exposition that its rigid physical examination for prospective flyers is unnecessary.

Charles L. Lawrance, designer of the Wright Whirlwind engine and vice-president of Curtiss-Wright Corporation, led the attack on "detrimental red tape."

"The rigid examination," he said at a joint meeting of aircraft manufacturers and the Federal department called by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, "is necessary for transport pilots carrying passengers, but should be eliminated as a requirement for the private flyer."

A code of ethics outlawing the donation of gasoline and oil to pilots seeking new records by participating in spectacular flights was adopted here today.

The major aviation oil and gasoline companies represented at the fuel and lubricant session of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce took the new step on merchandising their products to cut out an evil which has grown up with the flights of famous flyers.

They agreed that member companies of the aeronautical chamber will not donate lubricating oil or aviation gasoline to individual operators and will give no special discounts or free advertising for exclusive rights to market aviation products at an airport.

TANKER ACTION CAUSES FLURRY

Chile Craft Takes on Full Filipino Crew

Many White Seamen Await Jobs at Bureau

BY WALDO DRAKE

Shipping circles were stirred yesterday by action of the Chile Steamship Company in signing an entire Filipino crew, exclusive of deck and engineer officers, aboard its American tank steamer Chilbar. The Chilbar will sail today with a crude-oil cargo for Chanaral, Chile, in which service the company operates two other tankers, the Chilsco and Chiloil, and has three others under charter.

Local officials of the Chile Steamship Company, which is a subsidiary of American copper interests in Chile, said that they were acting on orders from New York headquarters. They declined to say whether the practice would also be followed on the Chilsco and Chiloil.

The twenty-one Filipinos, brought down in a body from San Francisco, were signed on by a deputy United States Shipping Commissioner, leaving Capt. K. A. F. Lindquist and his officers as the only white men aboard the vessel. Capt. John F. Rylander, United States Shipping Commissioner, said that in his opinion the procedure is entirely legal, since on American offshore vessels the only requirements are that 60 per cent of the deck crew possess able seamen's certificates, with the further provision that at least 75 per cent of the crew understand commands in English.

Marine Service Bureau officials said yesterday that more than 600 white seamen and engine-room hands are registered with the bureau, awaiting berths on American vessels.

French Line's new passenger liner Wisconsin, second to arrive of a fleet of six, was in yesterday on her maiden voyage, twenty-five days from Le Havre, including stops en route. Capt. Bartolome Aillet, French Line manager for the Pacific Coast, down from San Francisco to greet the Wisconsin, said the Pacific Coast's response to the new passenger service has been gratifying;

"Yesterday, the Oregon, pathfinder of our new fleet, sailed homeward from Los Angeles Harbor with capacity passenger and cargo lists, every inch of available space being utilized," said Capt. Aillet. "Advance bookings for the Wisconsin and our three liners yet to arrive are equally promising."

Units of the French Line fleet yet to arrive are the motor ship Washington, due March 17; the steamer Wyoming, April 20; and the steamer Winnipeg, May 14.

Lassco liner City of Honolulu, in yesterday from Hawaii, will sail back today noon, after about twenty-six hours in port. She disembarked 373 passengers and will carry out 225 today, the quick turnaround requiring her to work cargo off and on ship most of the night. Travelers outbound include Carl L. DeVries, Territorial manager of General Motors Acceptance Corporation; H. Tansley, secretary of the Chicago Title and Trust Company; Guy W. Case, Salvation Army officer of Pasadena, and Margaret Dawson Moore, Illinois artist.

Another new motor liner for the Fred Olson Line, the Laurits Swenson, is due here on her maiden voyage from Northern Europe the 24th inst., according to Capt. J. Martin Sivertsen, local representative. The vessel is named for the American Ambassador to Norway. She is a sistership of the Benjamin Franklin, which sailed from here yesterday for Europe; is of 10,800 tons deadweight; has cabins for ten passengers, refrigeration for 75,000 cubic feet of perishables and a speed of fifteen knots. It gives the line seven motor liners in this service. Mrs. Silvertsen sailed on the Benjamin Franklin last night for a tour of Europe.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Permission was given the Alaska Packers' Association by Washington, D. C. officials today, to change the name of the former United States Shipping Board freighter Mohinkis to Delarof. The vessel is the latest steam-driven unit to be added to the Alaska Packer fleet, in reducing the once large number of sailing craft operated each year in the salmon fishing trade.

Bringing another large consignment of Japanese gold, the motorship Hokonesan Maru arrived here today from Yokohama. The shipment on the Hokonesan, totaling $1,500,000, makes approximately $20,000,000 in Japanese gold that has come into the United States since the embargo was lifted several weeks ago. All of the gold is consigned to banks, but is turned over to the United States mint to be melted and recast into American coins.

SEATTLE, Feb. 21.—Two leaking ships arrived in Puget Sound today and a number of other trans-Atlantic liners headed here are two to four days late because of hard gales of the past two weeks.

The Kohwa Maru of the Yamashita fleet, which includes the Koshun Maru which was on rocks near Squaw Harbor, Alaska, today, will go in dry dock here tomorrow to have loose rivets tightened. She arrived in ballast today.

The Columbia Maru, one of the fastest of the new motorships and belonging to Mitsubishi & Co., will also go into dry dock for repairs after her arrival here tomorrow night, two days late.

Delayed berth liners include the Iyo Maru of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, which will arrive here late Monday instead of Saturday, and the Ixion of the Blue Funnel Line, also reportde behind schedule because of head seas.

PORTLAND, Feb. 21.—Classed as a large shipment of this time of the season, 800,000 pounds of wool will be loaded here next week aboard the steamer Virginian of the American-Hawaiian Line for delivery on the east coast.

F. N. Mills, district manager for the line here, said in addition to the wool about 9000 tons of general cargo will be loaded aboard the Virginian at this port.

TACOMA, Feb. 21.—Arrivals here today included the British carrier Lochkatrine from London and Liverpool to load general cargo and lumber at return freight. The Mogul came in from British Columbia with several hundred tons of copper ore for discharge here.

Another arrival was the Robin Adair from New York to load general cargo at return freight. Shifting here from Seattle, the Ruth Alexander arrived this evening to load cargo for San Francisco and Los Angeles.

PUBLISHER EXONERATED OF SLANDER

Jury Refuses Hospital Head Damages Asked for Newspaper Criticism

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—Statements published by E. M. Barker criticising Mrs. Annie Foster, superintendent of the Santa Maria Hospital, for treatment of patients in the hospital were held not libelous by a jury in Superior Judge Crow's court here tonight.

The jury, debating for two hours, found that Mrs. Foster did not have grounds to collect $25,000 from Barker, publisher of the Advertiser, on a civil action.

The suit grew out of the report of the death in the hospital a year ago of Reginald McLean, young husband of a week of Mrs. Kathleen Peabody McLean, Santa Barbara heiress to the "collar millions."

McLean was injured in an automobile accident and taken to the Santa Maria Hospital. Barker's paper criticised the way in which McLean was admitted to the hospital.

The jury could find no evidence of malice in the newspaper's criticism and returned a verdict for the publisher.

CANCER EXPERT WARNS PUBLIC

Dr. Humber Says Extract in Experimental Stage

Clinic Already Has More Than Enough Patients

Pleas Made by Hawaii for Serum Turned Down

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Dr. John D. Humber, co-discoverer with Dr. Walter B. Coffey of a new treatment for cancer, today cautioned the world they are still "only shooting at the moon" and that "time is the only thing that will prove or disprove the merits of our extract."

More than 100 experimental patients were given injections of the extract at the Southern Pacific Hospital. Mrs. Irving Edwins, who was brought here by plane from Wenatchee, Wash., by her husband for treatment, received a fourth injection from Dr. Humber at St. Francis Hospital.

HAWAII MAKES PLEA

"She is getting along remarkably well," said Dr. Humber, "largely through the supportive effect of blood transfusions."

Dr. Y. C. Yang of Queens Hospital, Honolulu, in a visit to Dr. Coffey today told him numerous cancer patients in Hawaii are contemplating coming here immediately. He asked what he should advise them and for the exact status of the situation.

"Tell them not to come," responded Dr. Coffey. "We are merely engaged in an experiment to determine whether this extract will kill cancer germs. We are taking only inoperative cases, that is, cases that will not yield to knife, radium or other hitherto known treatment. Already we have more than enough patients in this stage. We cannot take more. Most of these patients cannot live, for even if we put out the fire there is nothing left of the building. Their satisfaction is that they are obtaining relief from pain, or say that they are.

AUTOPSIES PLANNED

"Many of them have given us permission to perform an autopsy. In this way we hope to determine definitely whether the extract kills cancer tissue without injuring living tissue, how extensively it kills cancer tissue, and whether it destroys it permanently. That is what we are solely interested in at the present stage of experimentation."

Dr. Yang asked if his hospital might have some of the extract.

"Not now," said Dr. Coffey. "Except for two doses left with a nun for the poor woman who was brought here by plane, none of the extract has left our possession during the five years we have been experimenting with it. We don't want it to fall into commercial hands. We want it to be handled in the same manner as insulin, through a board of control under our supervision. Any college or hospital that can raise a sufficient fund to insure the carrying on of experimental work will be eligible. If the people here don't want to raise a fund for Stanford and the University of California for the work, we shall have to go to the south part of the State with it."

LETTERS PITIFUL

Some of the letters received from afflicted persons grasping at straws, Dr. Coffey said, "are the most pitiful I have ever read." He added the wish that he "could convince people that we are merely conducting an experiment and already have more than enough patients for it."

The finance committee of the board of Supervisors recommended to that body that it appropriate $20,000 to establish sixty beds in San Francisco Hospital for the treatment of cancer sufferers with the new serum. Dr. William Hassler, health officer, told the committee scores of cancer victims are flocking to this city for the Coffey-Humber treatment, many without funds and a charge upon the community.

CANCER CLINICS TO BE RESUMED HERE

Resumption of the cancer clinics of Dr. Walter B. Coffey and Dr. John H. Humber is announced for today and tomorrow at the Pacific Electric Club, 627 South Los Angeles street. The clinic, beginning at 10 a.m. today, is limited to those patients who previously have been treated. At 12 noon tomorrow will begin a clinic for all applying for first treatment who have proper credentials from their own physicians and who are accepted by Dr. Humber.

He, as usual, will administer the treatment, using the Coffey-Humber serum with which several hundred cancer sufferers have been injected.

Judges Blamed for Failure of Narcotics Law

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Senator Sanborn Young of Los Gatos, chairman of Gov. Young's narcotic committee, declared here today efforts to enforce California's new vagrancy-narcotic-addict law in San Francisco have met with almost total failure.

Judges who demand elaborate proof of addiction to narcotics are defeating the very purpose of the law, Senator Young said.

"Only about 10 per cent efficiency in administering the new law is attained in San Francisco," said the Senator. "In Los Angeles, where such elaborate proof of addiction is not necessary, we find administration of the law is almost 100 per cent efficient."

The State law, of which he is the author, provides for a six months' sentence on a vagrancy charge for users of narcotics, to permit addicts to escape the influence of peddlers and take a cure.

FOUR MEMBERS ON RADIO BOARD

Senate Confirms Quartet of Hoover Nominees

Fifth Held Up as Montanan Investigates Rumors

Action Averts Commission's Extinction Tonight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—Hastening consideration, the Senate today confirmed the nominations of four of the five members of the Federal Radio Commission without record votes. Terms of the commissioners expire tomorrow night.

Without opposition the nominations of Ira E. Robinson of West Virginia for a two-year term; of Eugene O. Sykes of Mississippi for a three-year term, and of Harold A. La Fount of Utah for a five-year term were approved.

WHEELER CAPTIOUS

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, voiced objection to relations between Commissioner Charles McK. Saltzman of Iowa, and Lawrence Richey, one of President Hoover's secretaries, in the employment of Thad Brown of Ohio, as chief counsel for the commission. However, he did not stand in the way of confirmation of Saltzman for a six-year term.

The nomination of the fifth member, William D. L. Starbuck of Connecticut for a four-year term, went over until Monday at the insistence of Senator Wheeler. He explained he wants opportunity to investigate information given him about Starbuck.

"DEAL" DENIED

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, denied a charge that a "deal" had been made to assure renomination of Commissioners Robinson and Sykes, but he declared that he suggested to President Hoover that the commission be allowed to stand as it was in view of rumors that power companies were "out to get" the two commissioners.

President Hoover did not promise to reappoint any of them, explained Couzens, adding, "in fact, I've been unsuccessful in getting any satisfactory answer to questions. He always leaves me hanging in the air."

NORRIS APPROVES

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, at this point said anyone who had been instrumental in inducing the President to reappoint Robinson and Sykes had "done a public service." These two have stood throughout the commission's history against "turning over the air" to corporations, he added.

Attacking Richey in connection with the appointment of Brown, Wheeler warned, "I want to serve notice now that unless the commission stops taking dictation from Lawrence Richey we'll have an investigation and it won't be to the liking of Lawrence Richey."

REDS DISPERSED IN CHICAGO RIOT

Police Block Demonstration at City Hall

Hundreds Rally to Slogan "Wages and Work"

Handbills Say Employment "Crisis Sharpening"

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Rallying to the cry "wages and work," several hundred Communist sympathizers marched on the City Hall today to sound a protest against unemployment. Riot squads and mounted police broke up the demonstration, charging down the crowded sidewalks and swinging clubs among the noonday throngs.

Night sticks thudded against the heads of pedestrians and several were knocked down as they scampered before the mounted officers or tried to harangue their followers from boxes at the four corners of the City Hall square. None was seriously hurt.

Two girls were among those arrested by the police. Demonstrators themselves offered no violence.

LEADER ARRESTED

The demonstration began at a meeting at a hall in North Wells street, a block from the City Hall. Police had been warned of the meeting and detectives filtered through the hall listening to inflammatory speeches advocating soviet doctrines and urging a parade. When the thousand men and women started to form a procession in threes the detectives sounded an alarm, reserves were called out and the file of marchers was cut before it could advance. Paul Cline, 26 years of age, was arrested as he directed the parade.

Within a half hour the demonstration was at an end, but special guards were posted around the city and Federal buildings and Mayor Thompson's office as a precaution. The agitators, however, had offered nothing more violent than a stump speech.

DEMONSTRATION SET

The handbills, most of which were confiscated by the police, called for an "international demonstration against unemployment on Thursday, March 6."

"Unemployment is increasing," the bills read, "the crisis is sharpening. Everywhere misery and suffering increase daily. Heavy wage cuts go hand in hand with the increase in unemployment." The nation's unemployed were estimated at 7,000,000 and the prediction was made that 10,000,000 will be out of work by summer.

The literature demanded a seven-hour day, five-day week and no overtime work. It called for another mass meeting Sunday.

TAX REFUND OBTAINED BY SUN-MAID GROWERS

SANDBERG MAY GET SHIP CHAIR

Angeleno Regarded Likely to be Promoted

O'Connor Asks Release as Federal Board Head

Ill Health and Long Period of Service Assigned

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—Commissioner Samuel S. Sandberg of Los Angeles, may be selected by President Hoover as acting chairman of the United States Shipping Board to succeed the present chairman, T. V. O'Connor, who has asked the President to relieve him of the chairmanship as soon as possible on account of ill health and long service. Whether O'Connor will be retained on the board has not been divulged. If Representative Wallace H. White, who is a candidate for the United States Senate this year, fails of election, he may be given a Shipping Board post, as he is one of the coauthors of the Jones-White shipping bill.

The expected promotion of Commissioner Sandberg is a compliment to his exact knowledge of shipping and his desire to eliminate the government from the operation of ships as fast as possible without granting any private group a monopoly for any region of the United States. If there is no further change on the Shipping Board it is expected that he will be made full chairman after a short period as acting chairman.

The reorganization of the Shipping Board started some time ago with the resignation of Chairman O'Connor as president of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, for President Hoover desired these two bodies to be under separate management. He appointed President Gordon to the place. He is seeking to place all vessels and lines now under government operation under private ownership and operation as soon as this can properly be done.

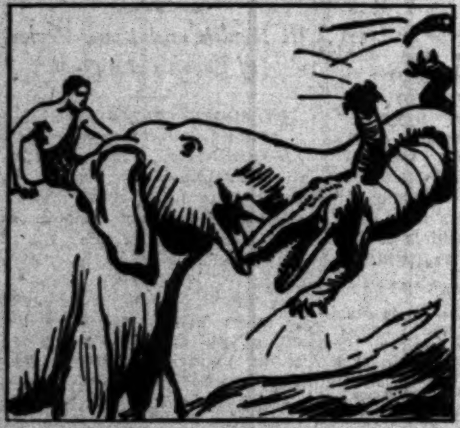
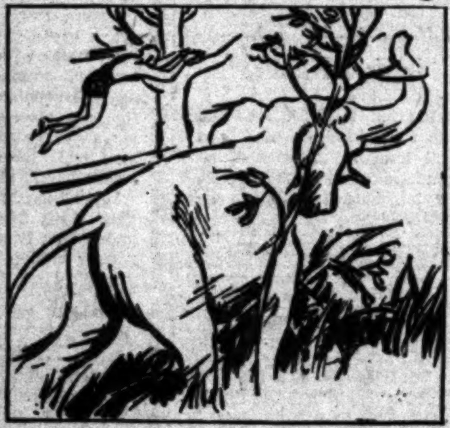
A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE SON OF TARZAN

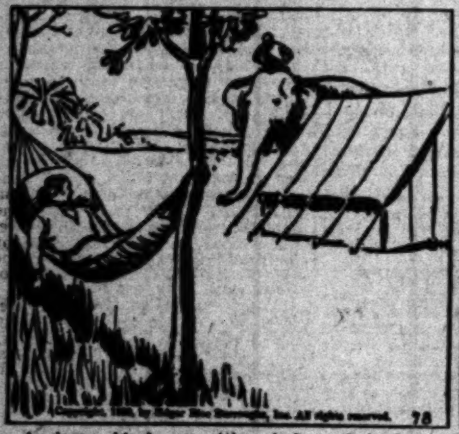
By Edgar Rice Burroughs



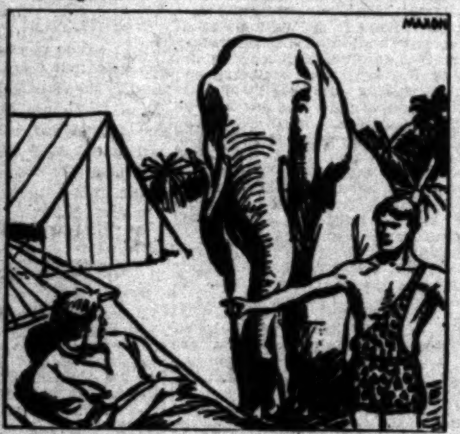
A mile above the Swede's camp Korak knew there was an elephant ford and thither he urged Tantor. Straight into the flooded river the elephant forged. Toward midstream an unwary crocodile attacked him, but Tantor's sinuous trunk dived beneath the surface and grasping the amphibian about its middle dragged it to light and hurled it a hundred feet down stream. Perched high and dry Korak made the opposite shore and headed Tantor south.



No obstacles other than the larger trees withstood Tantor's swinging gait. At times Korak was forced to abandon the broad head and take to the trees above, so close did the branches sweep the elephant's back; but at length they came to the clearing where lay the Swede's camp. Nor even here did they hesitate or halt. At a word from Korak, and raising his tender trunk high above the thorn boma, Tantor broke through it.



A dozen blacks squatting before their huts leaped to their feet and fled for the gates. Tantor, hating man, would have given chase, but Korak guided him toward a canvas tent. "There," he thought, "should be the girl and her abductor." Malbihn lay in a hammock before that tent. He was still weak from his fight with Baynes. He heard the screams of his blacks. Then around the corner came the huge bulk of the great tusker.



Tantor stopped short near the wounded man's hammock. Malbihn cowered, moaning, too frightened and weak to escape. Then to his astonishment a man slid to the ground from the elephant's back. Almost at once Malbihn recognized the strange figure as the white warrior of the jungle who had freed the king-baboon from the Swede's trap. "Where is the girl?" demanded Korak fiercely in English.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

BURIED HALF-HOUR, HE LIVES

HERMOSA BEACH, Feb. 21.—John A. Aujiro, 34 years of age, an employee of a paving company here, miraculously escaped with slight injuries after being buried for thirty minutes in a twelve-foot cave-in in a sewer ditch which he was digging on Railroad Drive early this morning.

Workmen who extricated him under the direction of Chief of Police Eddie Messenger and Fire Chief Barney Hibbets, attributed his escape from suffocation to the dampness of the earth covering him which prevented close packing around his head.

He was revived at the Police Emergency Hospital and later removed to the Hermosa-Redondo Hospital for treatment for bruises and shock.

BEACH OIL FIGHT SHIFTS

Carpinteria Chamber Urges County Supervisors to Change Tactics Against Drilling Plans

CARPINTERIA, Feb. 21.—With claims being made by private individuals to a strip of land running along the beach here back from mean high tide, the Chamber of Commerce last night passed resolutions urging the Board of County Supervisors to drop the injunction suit to prevent tideland drilling there and to begin action to establish the ownership of the beach property, a new line of attack to stop the tideland drilling.

The chamber urged the Supervisors to withdraw their injunction against the drilling of tideland wells on the grounds that the court action would only prolong the life of the permits, according to Assemblyman George R. Bliss, who attended the meeting. Bliss explained that the permits were to run only seventeen more months. He pointed out that if the private individuals established their claims to the beach the county's suit would be futile, while if the county established ownership of the beach the permits granted to the oil operators would be invalid.

Thomas N. Fish, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Fish, and ten or twelve others, contended they are recorded owners of a strip of land, varying in width from five to seventy feet, and running the entire length of the Carpinteria beach. The land in question lies between Ocean avenue and the high tide.

The Carpinterians urged the county to begin a quiet title action to establish ownership, basing its claim on adverse possession. It is pointed out that the owners of record have not exercised any active use of the beach while the public has used the beach for recreational purposes for fifty years.

SIX-HOUR DAY URGED BY SPEAKER

Grand President Talks to Big Four Brotherhood Men in San Bernardino Meeting

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 21.—Adoption of a six-hour working day for railway workers to relieve unemployment and bring back prosperity was advocated by A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, O., grand president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in an address before Big Four Brotherhood workers last night. Whitney declared the nation-wide depression in business is causing more concern than did the panics of 1907 and 1894 and urged the employees to immediately begin agitation for the six-hour day, adding that the program should include no reduction in pay, less overtime and shorter runs for rail workers. Whitney declared that prosperity has followed the shorter working day in support of his theory that the six-hour day will relieve depression. He said in part:

"In 1915 we asked that the working day be reduced from ten hours to eight hours and again we were told that it was impossible. Surely this would wreck the railroads, we were told. But the eight-hour day was granted and the greatest business in their history has been realized by the railroads since that time.

"In 1929 the railroads enjoyed the greatest profits ever earned and so we are in a better position now to secure a six-hour day than we have ever been. I will venture to say that if the six-hour day were adopted tomorrow the railroad companies would have become adjusted to the change within a year and would witness the greatest business they have ever seen. It would be because the working classes of the nation would have a greater purchasing power. There is no question that when people are not able to purchase the commodities of manufacturers there is a decline in the shipping over the railroads. It is not large pay rolls that wreck industry but small pay rolls and unemployment."

Work to Start on Reseda Park

RESEDA, Feb. 21.—Work on the improvement of Northlake Park, situated on Reseda Boulevard midway between here and Tarzana, will be started early next week, according to information received here from the Los Angeles Playground Commission.

Residents of the district last summer voted $100,000 in bonds to buy the forty-acre site. More than $70,000 was paid for the land. About $14,000 will be spent for the development of the park, and $12,000 for the placing of playground equipment. Later on $18,000 will be asked of the City Council for the construction of a large swimming pool.

After the park is established it will be maintained by the Los Angeles Playground Commission. It will be the only city-owned recreation center in the west end of San Fernando Valley, and one of three parks in the valley area.

Keefe, local district manager for a gas company, was yesterday elected honorary director-at-large of the association.

Besides Keefe, the three other members to be so honored by the association are State Senator H. J. Evans of this city; D. J. Shultis, capitalist of Baldwin Park, and Jonas Killian, president of the First National Bank of Riverside.

At the same session of the directors yesterday, Keefe's resignation as director from Monrovia was accepted, but his resignation as president of the association was refused and it was stated today by officials that he was persuaded to retain the executive office for the remainder of his term.

Six Sizing Ponds Being Built for Hatchery's Use

AZUSA, Feb. 21. — Six sizing ponds, to accommodate the production of the State Fish Hatchery located just below Coldbrook Camp in San Gabriel Canyon, are now being constructed in the north forks of the canyon, according to S. E. Skidmore, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The additional sizing ponds are made necessary by the crowded conditions at the hatchery which now is housing more than 250,000 young fish.

The fish must average from two to two and one-half inches before they are planted in mountain streams, Skidmore stated.

More than 500,000 fish were planted from the hatchery last year, according to records of G. S. Gunderson, foreman.

Plans are gradually being carried out to enlarge the hatchery in the San Gabriel Canyon as it, with the one located in Bear Valley, are the only two in Southern California.

Poultry Thieves Making Forays

GARDENA, Feb. 21.—Working in what is evidently an organized ring, chicken thieves have been making successful forays on local pens during the past few days, according to reports on file with Constable Lane.

In each instance thieves have entered the pens by cutting the wire fencing, breaking the necks of fowls before removing them from the pens. At the Spanish-American Institute more than 150 chickens, valued at $2.25 each, were taken by the marauders.

A reward of $50 for their apprehension has been posted by the Gardena Valley Poultry Club.

In January this year there were 2385 consumers, and in January last year the number of consumers was 2045.

Five More Years Suspended by $100,000 Restitution

Misapplication of Funds Admitted in Court

The total of the sums said to have been taken by Anthony is $244,000. It was reported that he had taken the money in various sums over a long period of years in the hope of recouping from some bad investments. Toward the end of his term of office it was announced he had invested heavily in stocks.

He made his home there until two years ago, serving as State Representative in the Legislature from 1914 to 1916, and as Superior Court judge in Helper for many years.

"PARROT FEVER" KILLS CAT

When Feline Breaks Parakeet's Leg, Temperature of Bird's Owner Rises to Shooting-point, According to Court Testimony in Compton Damage Suit

COMPTON, Feb. 21.—Final chapter in the local real life version of the fabled "cat and canary" incident was closed today as the local police department settled back to normal with the dismissal of Motorcycle Officer James C. Looney upheld by the City Council. Earlier Justice of the Peace Irving P. Austin had awarded Mrs. Alvina Shrader and Looney each $5 damages and costs for injuries to their pets.

The affair threatened for a time to disrupt the local police department when Looney used his gun instead of the proverbial old shoe on Mrs. Shrader's Persian kitty. "Meowss" were all too frequent beneath his window for Looney, even though as a night officer he slept in the daytime. But his patience was entirely exhausted when the feline killed his pet chipmunk, broke the leg of his parrakeet and frightened his canaries, according to testimony in the small claims cases before Justice Austin.

It was with difficulty that the judge untangled the confusion over the conflicting pet menageries. Testimony showed that parents of the Persian cat were duly pedigreed. But Mrs. Shrader's kitty had not attained the same social status, as someone had forgotten to make out the proper birth certificate. But Mrs. Shrader testified she valued the feline very much as it had been given her when just a kitten three years ago.

After listening to the evidence the judge held both parties responsible for destroying the other's property. But, as he ruled that none of the pets had a commercial value, claims of Looney for $50 damages and Mrs. Shrader's for $45 were both disallowed. He decided, however, that both Mrs. Shrader's cat and Looney's chipmunk and parrakeet had personal value as pets and awarded $5 to each party. No executions have yet been applied for by either party.

Following the small claims trial the City Council held a hearing asked by Looney as the result of his dismissal by Police Chief E. A. West on account of the cat-shooting incident. The Council and City Manager A. B. Gidley all signed a statement upholding the chief.

ODYSSEY OF OLD BUS TOLD

Tribulations of Load of Transcontinental Passengers on Decrepit Stage Related in Court Trial

ALHAMBRA, Feb. 21.—Tribulations of a load of transcontinental stage passengers were related today in Judge W. M. Northrup's court at the preliminary hearing of J. E. Smith, local auto freight line operator and former real estate broker, charged with the theft of a twenty-eight-passenger bus. Decision in the case was reserved until next Tuesday in the belief that the matter may be settled out of court without the expense of a Superior Court trial.

One of the complaining witnesses, Verne Larsen of Chicago, asserted owner of the bus, told of leaving Chicago with twenty-seven passengers and of his arrest in Hico, Tex., on a drunk charge. He turned the bus over to his assistant, Robert Stewart, who proceeded to El Paso with the passengers.

Stewart admitted on the stand that at El Paso he had abandoned the bus after a wait of several days.

Wallace Mandell of Los Angeles and Charles Lindenburg of Chicago, passengers, took charge of things at this point, it was disclosed. Mandell testified that he and a delegation of passengers obtained permission from the Sheriff of El Paso county, the District Attorney and the United States Marshal to take the bus and continue to Los Angeles.

With a crippled motor their troubles were many, Mandell declared. A collision with another car added to their grief. Three weeks' out of Chicago, a drive shaft was broken and the bus went into the ditch in the Arizona Desert in the middle of the night. The passenger list by that time had been reduced to thirteen.

The male passengers were planning to start hiking the rest of the way, leaving three women in the bus, when Smith, accompanied by William Johnson of Los Angeles, his driver, came along in a large truck. Smith offered assistance and the stalled bus was towed to a garage at Aztec, Ariz., Mandell testified. The passengers continued to Los Angeles in Smith's truck and in consideration of the service, assigned claims against the bus firm to Smith, according to Mandell.

Smith testified that he returned to Aztec later and brought the bus to his home here at 1143 Sierra Vista street, where it was later found when Larsen put in an appearance and told his story to the police, filing a complaint against Smith.

Smith also declared that he had attempted to get in touch with the Consolidated Bus Terminals in Chicago in an effort to find the legal ownership of the vehicle.

Henry Schumann Heink Testifies

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 21.—Henry Schumann Heink took the witness stand in his own behalf shortly before noon today to testify at his second trial on indictment charges of having misused funds of a now defunct brokerage firm bearing his name. Earlier in the hearing today Superior Judge Charles C. Haines denied a defense motion for dismissal. The motion was made when Prosecutors J. H. McKinney and Oran N. Muir completed the State's evidence. Judge Haines is hearing the case without a jury. First trial of the case, nearly two years ago, resulted in a verdict against the defendant. This was appealed with result that both the District Appellate Court and the Supreme Court ordered a retrial of the case on grounds the first court erred in instructing the jury. Schumann Heink is accused of having used stock of his firm as collateral to secure his personal note.

Fake Detective Agency Manager Pleads Guilty

VENTURA, Feb. 21.—I. H. Wilton of San Bernardino today pleaded guilty before Judge Malvern Dimmich to a charge of operating a "fake" detective agency, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 or spend 150 days in the County Jail. Judge Dimmich suspended $250 of the fine.

Wilton was arrested yesterday by Chief of Police Clarence Mattson who had information from Walter Killman, prosecutor for the State Board of Prison Directors, which authorizes detective agencies, to the effect that Wilton was in this vicinity operating under the name of the "International Detective Association," which does not exist.

Upon being informed by local persons that the man was in this city, Mattson found and arrested him. Wilton pleaded guilty to the charge, and is now in the County Jail. It is charged that he collected money under the pretense of being a detective.

FOXY GRANDPAS TO HAVE FLING

All "Old Boys" in Valley Town to be Rounded Up and Given Party

NORTH LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—This city is soon to have a unique celebration—probably the first of its kind in this or any other State. All the "foxy grandpas" in this community are going to be given the chance to have their fling. Recently a Grandmothers' Club was organized here. The charter membership comprises both the old-fashioned and the modern grandmama, and some very clever programs have been sponsored.

At loss now what to do next it has been noticed that grandpa has been kept too much in the background since the club was formed.

Early next week the Grandmothers' Club will meet again, the guests of honor will be all the foxy grandpas who can be rounded up in this section. Each will be expected to do some sort of stunt, for it has been specified no "wallflowers" are wanted to simply sit around and "gum" up the party.

ATTEMPT TO KILL WIFE TOLD

Fullerton Service Station Man Accused of Trying to Murder Her With Bottle

FULLERTON, Feb. 21. — Charged with assault with intent to commit murder, as a result of an asserted attack on his wife last night at his service station with a milk bottle, C. E. Klund, local service station operator, is in the City Jail under $5000 bail, and his wife, Mrs. Ruby Klund, is in the Fullerton General Hospital in a critical condition.

Mrs. Klund was cut severely about the head and body. A hammer with a broken handle was also found in the office of the service station where the attack occurred last night.

A passing motorist heard the sounds of the struggle and notified Patrolman E. R. Garner of the local police force. Garner rushed to the service station, pushed in the door and found Mrs. Klund apparently unconscious on the floor in a pool of blood. Her husband was standing near by. Garner placed him under arrest and called an ambulance. Domestic troubles were said to have led to the asserted assault by the husband. His trial has been set for March 3, next, at 10 a.m. before Justice of the Peace H. I. Spence.

Ventura Lauded by McGroarty

VENTURA, Feb. 21.—John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play at San Gabriel, paid this city a glowing tribute last night when he spoke before the members of the Lions' Club at their ladies' night party at the Masonic Temple.

"Of all the California towns, San Buenaventura, in my estimation, has retained to the greatest extent its early Spanish traditions and atmosphere," he said. "It has long held a tender place in my heart and I always come back to it with a warm feeling of affection. The old Spanish influence is rapidly passing in California, and it is my hope that San Buenaventura will continue to cling to its early mission air. It is a charming place to live and its people are friendly and welcoming."

Whittemore proposes to devote his attention to his holdings near Panhandle, Tex., where wildcat drillers have struck oil on adjoining property.

CITY PUMPS ON VACATION

Sierra Madre Water Supply Now from Gravity Flow

More Than 1,405,000 Tons Precipitation in January

Levels in Wells Rise Eight Feet, Engineer Reports

SIERRA MADRE, Feb. 21.—City water wells have not been pumping for a month due to the unusually large gravity flow from Santa Anita Canyon, which has been furnishing the entire water supply for the city since the first hard rains a month ago, according to a survey compiled by City Engineer E. J. Lynde, in connection with an extensive investigation now being made into local water conditions.

Local methods in water conservation are being studied by the city engineering department under the supervision of Lynde, who states in his report to the City Council that more than 1,405,000 tons of water fell within the city limits of Sierra Madre during January. This represents approximately 280 tons or 67,500 gallons per capita which, if it would be possible to conserve, would furnish 185 gallons per day to each resident for a period of one year, Lynde declared.

CONSERVATION PLANNED

Due to evaporation, the large run-off, and water held in suspension in the soil, conservation of all the rainfall is, of course, impossible, but work is now under way whereby plans are to be perfected for the conservation of a large tonnage of water now being wasted.

The report states that the water level in the city wells rose eight feet during the month of January to a point seven feet below last year's level at this time of the season. At the beginning of January water conditions were alarming as the level of the wells was fifteen feet below last year's point. Lynde expects that this season's rains will increase the water level of the city wells to a point above last year.

FLOW PIPED FROM CANYON

The gravity flow now furnishing the city is piped from Santa Anita Canyon to the reservoir of Mira Monte avenue and the other reservoir on Auburn avenue is being supplied by water tunneled from above the Santa Anita Dam.

The long-existing controversy over water from the Big Santa Anita Canyon, between Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Monrovia and the Oakwood Syndicate, is expected to be definitely settled within the next two months, Lynde stated, as the interested parties at a hearing before the State Board of Water Rights on January 11, last, were given sixty days within which to submit briefs on their respective cases and an additional thirty days for answering briefs.

Flood-Control Project to Be Started Soon

SAN FERNANDO, Feb. 21.—One of the largest flood-control projects affecting this district in recent years will be undertaken here, probably next week, when the county will start construction of a series of check dams and settling basins in the May Canyon channel to divert flood waters from the canyon into the Pacoima wash at the outskirts of this city.

As outlined by E. C. Eaton, flood-control engineer, and E. B. Curry, City Engineer, the plan calls not only for flood control but for land reclamation and water conservation. Cost of the proposed work will approximate $30,000.

A concrete ditch and conduit, extending along Eighth street here from Anita street to the Pacoima wash, a distance of nearly a mile, will be used to carry off the storm waters from May Canyon.

The flood-control department will construct about a score of small check dams and settling basins from Eighth and Anita streets here northwest to the mouth of the canyon.

These will serve to slow up the rush of waters after heavy rains, allowing the dirt and sediment to settle to the bottom of the settling basins, and empty the water via a revetted channel into the concrete drain.

Season Spinach Pack Near Close

SAN FERNANDO, Feb. 21.—Completion of the spinach pack for the season will be undertaken next week by the Fernando Canning Company's plant here, when operations will be resumed after a brief shutdown for repairs to the machinery.

Thousands of cases of valley spinach have been packed by the local plant. When the spinach run is completed it will not resume operations until the apricot crop is ready for canning.

The company during the past season has packed apricots, peaches, tomatoes and spinach. A record for all Southern California canneries was set in the tomato pack when the local plant put up more than 250,000 cases. This is the greatest tomato pack on record for a single cannery in one season in this section, it is declared.

COUPLE WEDDED FOR FIFTY-NINE YEARS

SAN FERNANDO Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fox, residents of this city since 1913, will celebrate their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary at their home, 502 Hagar street, tomorrow. With them will be their daughters, Mrs. A. B. McGaffey, Mrs. Frank Streng and Mrs. L. C. Bennett. Another daughter, Mrs. O. A. Matson, lives in Albuquerque, N. M. Mr. and Mrs. Fox were married February 22, 1871, in Ridgeway, Kan., but have been residents of California for twenty years.

CARDS OUT FOR UPSET IN CLASH

Red Cagers to Make Last Stand Against Bears in Contest Tonight

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 21.—Petitions may come and petitions may go, but one sentiment goes on forever at the farm—the burning desire to put the skids under a Golden Bear.

COACH "HUSKY" HUNT

The storm of controversy breaking around the head of their coach has apparently not affected members of the Stanford basketball varsity who are to end a hectic season in the third of a three-game series against California here tomorrow night.

No championship is at stake, not even a series, but the Cards have an ancient score to settle. In five years no Stanford hoop varsity has defeated a Bear quintet. Stanford yearns for a last day in the afternoon revenge.

Working on the theory that precedent is against them, but that the law of averages should be on their side, the Cards and their coach are hopeful of a win.

Husky Hunt, the embattled Stanford mentor who has been the target of a student petition seeking his removal as a coach, indicated today that he will use a large group of players tomorrow.

Following are the tentative starting line-ups:

"RAIN, RAIN GO AWAY---

Come again some other day," sing Jackie Fields (top) of Los Angeles and Young Corbett III of Fresno, who clash in the north this afternoon in what is being hailed as San Francisco's biggest fight in years. Fields's welterweight crown, which he won from Joe Dundee last summer, will not be at stake, but the bout assumes added importance because it may lead to a title fight. Heretofore Fields has ducked Corbett because he is a southpaw, but a $25,000 guarantee made the champion change his mind.

PEDLEY STARS IN MIDWICK WIN

Purple Mallet Ace Crashes Over Three Goals In Eighth Chukker to Down Cypress Point Quarter by Score of 14 to 11 in Thrilling Del Monte Match

DEL MONTE, Feb. 21. (AP)—Purple-shirted poloists from Midwick rose to thrilling victory over the Cypress Point team here today by a 14-to-11 score in the second round of the all-American matches.

ERIC PEDLEY

Eric Pedley, national star, made sure of the Midwick victory by scoring three goals in the eighth chukker after the score had been tied in the seventh. Pedley was the high scorer of the game with seven goals. Elmer Boeseke of Santa Barbara, whose long shots were also a feature of the Midwick triumph, counted 6 goals.

W. W. Crocker, Capt. H. Walford, Arthur Perkins and William Tevis played brilliant polo but were unable to stem the Midwick attack. In the fifth chukker, Capt. Walford tied the score by making three goals, while in the next chukker, W. W. Crocker put Cypress Point ahead one goal, tallying three to Midwick's one.

Tevis, playing in place of Capt. Selby McCreery, injured last Sunday in a bad fall, made some spectacular passes after stopping the Midwick rushes short.

Champion 2-to-1 Favorite Over Fresno Battler

Southpaw Has Repeatedly Challenged Jackie

Promoter Expects Record San Francisco Gate

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Pugilistic paths of two of the greatest welterweights ever developed in California will converge here tomorrow afternoon when Jackie Fields, champion, and Young Corbett, sturdy southpaw from Fresno, trade punches in a ten-rounder whose nontitle status is a minor detail compared to the fact that these keen rivals are meeting for the first time.

CHARLEY TRAUNG

Not in many years has a forthcoming fight so gripped fandom in the northern part of the State in general and the local fistic colony in particular. Fields won the title from Joe Dundee last August, but for many months before that time Corbett was camping on his trail.

CORBETT PASSED UP

Before winning the championship and up until he signed for this bout, Fields had passed up the challenges, claiming that his left-handed rival was an unorthodox boxer. A matter of $25,000, said to be the largest guarantee ever made for a nontitle welterweight bout, caused the titleholder to forget his prejudice against southpaws.

Fields and Corbett rose to fame in San Francisco rings and each has a huge following in this city. It was here that Fields paved the way for a chance at the title by trouncing Young Jack Thompson shortly after the negro had knocked out Champion Joe Dundee in a nontitle affair. Corbett also defeated Thompson here.

The champion's buzz-saw tactics and great left hook made him a strong favorite with the betting gentry, who like his chances by odds of 2 to 1. Fields's style has never failed him, yet. He bores in continually, keeping his opponent off balance, meanwhile "sharpshooting" with both hands.

Despite the odds, Corbett has his following. The freshman has beat many tattoos on many opponents since he first took up chin-thumping and the decisions against him can be counted on the fingers of one hand. In 117 bouts, Corbett has been defeated twice and had six draws. He has been boxing seven years and started as a flyweight.

As a welterweight, Fields has engaged in twenty-two contests and won all. A comparison of the rec-

TROJANS MEET BRUINS IN CAGE FINALE TONIGHT

Southern California Quintet Out to Thump Rivals and Win Title in Southern Division

BY BRAVEN DYER

Sniffing their second championship in three years, the Trojans of Southern California wind up their regular playing schedule at the Olympic tonight where they engage the U.C.L.A. quintet in the final of a three-game series which finds the S.C. tossers two up at this writing. The game is billed for 8 o'clock and will follow a preliminary contest between frosh teams of the rival institutions.

Two seasons ago Leo Calland, now at Idaho, coached the Trojans to the championship of the southern division of the Coast Conference, following a tie with California, and then went on to win the Coast crown from Washington.

JOHNNY LEHNERS

All Southern California has to do is trim the Bruins tonight. Putting this over will give Sam Barry's athletes the title and the right to meet Washington again, once more in a local play-off.

But should the Bruins pull the High School Athletes to Meet for Honors

BY RALPH HUSTON

Providing the threatened rain doesn't descend in torrents, Southern California's track season will get under way this afternoon at Long Beach High School field. Both the twelfth annual A.A.U. relays and the fourth annual high school relay carnival are on schedule, presenting an attractive program of some thirty-three events for the edification of local cinder fans.

FRANK WYKOFF

Action will start at 1:30 with the open four-mile, four-man relay, in which a Trojan team of Clif Halstead, Chesley Unruh, Vic Fitzmaurice and George Cuthbert will hook up with a flock of Sherman Indians under the banner of the L.A.A.C. The high school performers will then hold the limelight until 3:10, when the novice 100-yard dash will be run.

The only thing lacking in the festivities is the usual open 100-yard dash. However, an invitational high hurdles has been arranged that has brought out Bob Maxwell, Dick Pomeroy and Charley Webber of the L.A.A.C., Wendall Smith, the Occidental "iron man," and

MORRO WHIPS STABINEAU

Jim Jeffries's Protege Gives Foe Hard Pasting to Earn Decision in Hollywood Ring

Before a crowd that packed the Hollywood Legion Stadium to the guards, Al Morro, Jim Jeffries's young Burbank Italian heavyweight prospect, last night made an auspicious debut in the fight game by defeating Tony Stabineau, veteran Philadelphia heavy, after ten rounds of battling.

Morro showed a lot of class for a heavyweight making his first start and practically sewed up the fight by taking the first five rounds decisively. Morro, after having Stabineau in a bad way in the first and second sessions, floored Tony for a nine count with a straight left in the third.

Jeff's protege, however, showed his inexperience by setting too fast a pace at the start and he began to tire after the fifth, although he held Stabineau even in the sixth. Morro had a slight shade in the seventh, but Stabineau, using his long left effectively to almost close his opponent's right eye, had a big edge in the eighth and ninth.

CHARLEY WHITE STOPPED

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (AP)—The ghost of Charley White, who came within a punch of winning the world's lightweight championship on three distinct occasions, stalked into the ring at the Coliseum tonight and was vanquished in two rounds by Henry Perlick, one of the fighting twins from Kalamazoo, Mich.

White, attempting a comeback after seven years' absence from the ring, was beaten into a state of collapse before a towel was tossed into the ring, acknowledging defeat of the once great lightweight championship contender. He was knocked to the floor four times, and was only a shadow of the figure who flourished in dreaded fashion in the regimes of Welch, Ritchie and Benny Leonard.

White, now 39 years old, looked like a man much older. He managed to escape the inevitable in the first round, and did only counterpunching, never once making a lead.

Slips from First to Tie for Fifth Place

Southern Professional One Stroke Back of Leader

BY DILLON L. GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAVANNAH (Ga.) Feb. 21. (AP)—Horton Smith, the sensational young links wizard from Detroit, Mich., shot a par-shattering 66 here today to take the lead among ninety entrants at the half-way mark in the $3000 Savannah open golf tournament. His brilliant score of today, coupled with his 71 of yesterday, gave him a 137.

While the Detroit golfer, who formerly registered from Joplin, Mo., was stroking his way around in eight under par and equaling the course record, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, national open king, was encountering trouble at almost every hole.

Jones faltered badly on the outward nine for a 40, three over par, but settled down on the mome nine for a 35. His 75 today, together with his 67 of yesterday, placed him in a tie for fifth place with 142.

Fairley Clark, local golfer, equaled his 69 of yesterday and was a step behind the leader with 138.

Four strokes away and tied for third honors were Emmett French of Southern Pines, N. C., and Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., with 141. French had a 73 today to add to his 68 of yesterday, while Dudley, who posted a 72 yesterday, shot a great 69 today.

Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., former national open champion, was deadlocked with three other cash players for seventh place with 143. Jeff Adams, Savannah pro, who had a 68 yesterday for second place; Mike Turnesa of New York, and Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., also posted 143's.

Clustered within striking distance of the leader with 144's were five well-known exponents of golf for cash. Whiffy Cox of Brooklyn; Wild Bill Mehlhorn of Pensacola; Neil McIntyre of Indianapolis; Clem Weichman of Portsmouth, O., and the veteran Al Espinosa of Chicago, all posted this score.

Herman Barron, pro from Port Chester, N. Y., was a stroke behind with 145.

The slim blond money-maker from Detroit collected seven birdies and an eagle as he shot his low score today.

Jeddy Welsh, S. C.'s national junior champion.

EVERY VARIETY

Every variety of relay known to man is included on the program. There are twelve events for high school runners, who will be divided into four classes, two for junior colleges, five for Southern Conference teams, and five open affairs, in addition to the novice 100 and novice high hurdles and the invitational hurdles. Six events are scheduled for the field performers.

Main interest appears to be centered on the two sprint relays, where S. C.'s crack quartets will hook up with the Mercury runners. Coach Dean Cromwell is ready to send Frank Wykoff, Red Guyer, Weldon Draper and Milt Maurer to the post in the four-man 440, and will have Wykoff, Guyer, Chuck Anderson and Jeddy Welsh in the four-man 880. The first quartet, it is believed, will shatter the world's record some time before the season is over. Three of the four men ran in Denver last June, to win the four-man 440. Draper is running in place of Charley Paddock, the fourth man on the title-winning quartet.

Wykoff, rumored ineligible again, easily became a full-fledged varsity performer, when he made up some back work yesterday. He had received an incomplete in one class for his last semester's work, but by handing in a couple of papers, became an accepted varsity candidate again.

Main contention will be furnished by the L.A.A.C., which has Ray Alf, national junior 220 champion, at the head of its sprinting array, along with Red Houck, Dick Darling and Murray Schultz.

Starting blocks have been admitted by the S.P.A.A.A.U. and most of the runners will use these aids to starting. Cromwell has had his runners using them in workouts, and they will be nothing new to the Trojans. The S.C. variety, devised by Cromwell, consists of a pipe, with two adjustable footrests, and can be used by either right-footed or left-footed runners.

The absence of Jess Mortensen, who will be unable to perform because of the S.C.-U.C.L.A. basketball game tonight, takes some of the color out of the javelin, and Jimmy DeMers of the L.A.A.C. is expected to be an easy victor. Herman Brix is the outstanding choice in the shot put, but the work of Bob Hall, husky Trojan sophomore, will be watched with interest in both the shot and discus. Hall has tossed the platter better than 144 feet this year.

CLOSE BATTLE

The Trojans and the Mercuries, as usual, will battle it out for team honors in the open relays. Occidental is favored in the Southern Conference races, with San Diego State as a real threat. San Diego and Manual Arts are expected to sparkle in the unlimited high-school class. The complete program, starting at 1:30:

RABBIT PUNCHES
By PAUL LOWRY

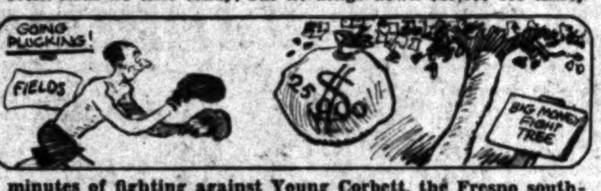
RAKING IN THE SHEAVES

THIS is a big day in the life of Jackie Fields, erstwhile John Finkelstein. This is the day the boy who won a world's fistic championship for Los Angeles fights for the biggest purse of his ring career.

It is a bigger day even than the night in July, last, in Detroit when Jackie captured the welterweight crown from poor old battered Joe Dundee.

Glory accrued to Jackie that night but not much in the way of coin of the realm. The old champion got the lion's grab. Jackie was paying his share of the $100,000 gate for a chance at the title.

But the day of capitalization is at hand. Young Finkelstein risks no title today, but he drags down $25,000 for thirty minutes of fighting against Young Corbett, the Fresno southpaw, in a San Francisco ring.



This match has been brewing a year and a half—long before Jackie's manager, the talkative Mr. Gig Rooney coaxed Dundee into the ring in defense of the welterweight championship.

The ballyhoo for the fight was perfect. Corbett became quite a favorite in San Francisco by virtue of several rugged fights. And Jackie was better liked in San Francisco than in his own home town.

The clamor arose for a Fields-Corbett fight. But Corbett was a southpaw, and Rooney said his fighter wasn't in the market for clown fights.

Then the boys said Fields was afraid to fight Corbett. Fields's retort was to win the championship of the division.

* * *

SOUTHPAW HOOEY

ENTER the capitalization period.

Mr. Rooney's timidity about southpaw fighters for his boy vanished when Promoter Ancil Hoffman waved $25,000 in his face.

The match was signed and sealed.

And now it is finally dawning on the boys that Mr. Rooney was a pretty smart sort of a manager throughout the transaction.

Jackie did not fight either blacks or southpaws.

But he twice beat Young Jack Thompson and Baby Joe Gans was duck soup more than once.

The slogan, "We don't fight blacks," had to be withdrawn.

It is not recalled that Mr. Fields has ever beaten a southpaw since he ducked the amateur game and became a professional fighter slightly over five years ago.

But those who go back to Jackie's amateur days do remember that he waded through a southpaw to win the Olympic featherweight championship at the Paris Olympic Games in 1924.

And just a few weeks before the games Jackie had been defeated by a southpaw in a Boston ring.

But Jackie convinced the boys in those days he could change his style to accommodate a southpaw. On the steamer to Paris he trained diligently against left-handed attackers, and he not only had no trouble with them in the games, but went on to beat Joe Salas, who had won the national A.A.U. crown at Boston.

Therefore, all the moaning about the trouble Jackie will have with Corbett sounds like a lot of hooey.

If Jackie could solve the southpaw system—and on a boat trip to France—as an amateur what's to hold him back with five years of professional experience under his belt?

THE A.A.U. RELAYS

THE A.A.U. relays at Long Beach today will reveal in a measure the strength of two of the strongest teams in this neck of the woods—the L.A.A.C. and the University of Southern California.

Of course, all the events of the regular dual meet competition aren't on the program, but the relays will give a line on the sprinters, middle-distance and long-distance men, and also field men.

The clubmen meet Stanford in the north one week hence, and much depends on the condition they attain in the meantime.

If the Mercury boys prove to be in good shape today, they will give Stanford an awful battle for honors. The club is strong in the field events, and if Alf in the sprints and Burton in the half and mile can reach peak form Stanford is likely to finish on the short end of the score.

A month later the Redshirts come south for the annual dual meet with the Trojans. A lot can happen before that meet to change the complexion of things, and at present the meet is being won by the other fellow by the rival coaches. Templeton says Cromwell should win, and vice versa.

The sprints and the shorter relays should be the real features of today's meet with, of course, considerable interest centered on the work of the mammoth Mr. Brix in the shot, and other field demons.

Pomeroy, who ran 15s. flat in the high hurdles for the L.A.A.C. at Occidental last Saturday, also should have a merry battle with Jeddy Welch of S.C.

MORRO WINS IN STABINEAU GO

Stabineau was rather wobbly at the finish.

Boxing fans gave Jeffries a big hand when he was introduced before the main event. DeWitt Van Court, introduced as the discoverer of the former heavyweight champion, also got a nice cheer from the crowd.

Dave Jackson got the nod over Erwin Bige in the six-round semi-wind-up, although it appeared that the latter deserved at least a draw.

Martin Zuniga, the last of George Blake's crop of L.A.A.C. amateurs, defeated Joe Pimenthal, another L.A.A.C. graduate, in the six-round special event. Pimenthal's butting tactics made no hit with the fans, who gave Zuniga a big cheer when his duke was raised.

Don Burchard and Leo Lomelli, who were tossed out of the ring last week, met again in the extra event to see whether they'd receive their held-up purses and the former got the decision in four rounds.

HUSKIES TRIM VANDALS

SEATTLE (Wash.) Feb. 21. (AP)—The University of Washington basketball team climbed one more game closer to the northern division Pacific Coast Conference championship tonight when it trounced the tail-end Idaho Vandals, 43 to 15, in the first of a two-game series.

OAKS SIGN "BUD" HAFEY

OAKLAND, Feb. 21. (AP)—Carl Zamloch, manager of the Oakland baseball club, announced today the signing of "Bud" Hafey, 17-year-old outfielder and a cousin of Chick Hafey, St. Louis Cardinals outfielder.

STRIBLING FORCED TO LIMIT TO BEAT CORRI

HELEN JACOBS OFF FOR EUROPEAN PLAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (Saturday) (AP)—Helen Jacobs, California tennis star, sailed for Europe aboard the liner Majestic early today. She plans to compete in the Riviera court championships at Auteuil in May, the British championships at Wimbledon and the Wightman Cup matches which will be played in England this year.

The score at half-time was 14 to 10 in favor of the winners. Santa Rosa will meet Eureka Friday for the North Coast championship of the C.I.F.

GAELS THUMP NEVADA

EGAN NABS GOLF HONORS

DEL MONTE, Feb. 21. (AP)—H. Chandler Egan of Medford, Or., won the gold vase golf tournament on the Pebble Beach links today with a score of 79.

International Dog Derbyists in Close Race

QUEBEC, Feb. 21. (AP)—Emil St. Goddard of The Pas, Man., won today's forty-mile heat in the 120-mile international dog derby in 3h. 33m. 35s. Leonard Sepalla, Nome (Alaska) veteran, who finished first in the first stage of the race yesterday, was second just five minutes behind, and George Chevrett, Quebec, placed third in 3:45:55. St. Goddard now leads Sepalla by the scant margin of two seconds. Their respective elapsed time for the two days is: St. Goddard, 7:30:37; Sepalla, 7:30:39. Chevrett's elapsed time for the two days is 7:48:20.

Mercury Five Cinches Title by 35-27 Win

Coach Forrest Twogood's L.A.A.C. cagers cinched the Southern California A.A.U. basketball championship last night by defeating the Pacific Coast Club quintet, 35 to 27, in the Mercury gym. The victory was the eighth straight for the Mercuries.

Rags Wilcox, lanky L.A.A.C. center, led the Mercury attack by chalking up 11 points, one more than his team-mate, Nip McHose, registered. Bratton and McCain, the latter a sub forward, each tallied 8 points for the Coast Club. The line-ups:

L.A.A.C. (35)		Coast Club (27)

WESTWOOD PUCKSTERS PLAY SUNFREZE BEARS

Coach Harvey Tafe's University of California at Los Angeles hockey team will tackle the strong puck aggregation of the Sunfreze Bears this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Winter Garden Ice Palace. The game will be a practice affair for both squads, with the Bears heavily favored to conquer the bruins.

Hal Campbell, the star goalie for the Westwood squad, has been declared ineligible for future competition this season on account of grades. He was the hero of the Bruin-Southern California hockey meet in Yosemite recently, when he played the entire game after receiving rather bad injuries.

REYNOLDS NABS MAT GO

CINCINNATI (O.) Feb. 21. (AP)—Jack Reynolds, Cincinnati, tonight received recognition from the National Boxing Association as world's welterweight wrestling champion when he took the last two falls from Charley Grip, Huntington, W. JUNIOR CHAMPS PERFORM

Vane Baker and Jerry Deal Appear in Exhibition Meet Before El Monte Youngsters

BY BRAVEN DYER

Performing before a crowd of several hundred students, Vane Baker and Jerry Deal, Junior Olympic Games champions, put on an exhibition meet at El Monte Union High School yesterday afternoon. The program was staged in conjunction with the El Monte-Downey track meet, Coaches Bernie Bergstrom and Lee Williams having arranged to exhibit Baker and Deal in between track events.

El Monte fans got a big kick out of the opening event, which was the 75-yard dash, for in this Jimmy Montgomery, a home-town boy, showed his heels to Baker in a fast race. Jimmy won all by himself and showed great possibilities as a sprinter. Later on he demonstrated marked ability at chinning and also did well in the broad jump.

BRAVEN DYER.

Right now Montgomery needs instruction in the baseball throw and basketball toss. Proper coaching will put him right at the top of Southern California juniors. He is only 12 years of age, but has splendidly developed muscles and all he lacks is experience.

DEAL SHINES

Jerry Deal showed that he has lost none of his baseball-throwing ability by twice tossing the apple a distance of 230ft. This is only four feet behind his national record. Jerry also looked great on his basketball throws. Baker, despite his injured right wrist, gave the onlookers an eyeful of correct chinning form.

George Phelps, who is doing much to put over the Junior Olympic Games in El Monte, would like to arrange practice meets with any near-by schools or organizations which are ready for this type of competition. George has athletes in both the junior and senior divisions. He can be reached in care of the El Monte Herald.

The El Monte youngsters were much interested in the all-around athletic ability of Baker and Deal. They were surprised to learn that Jerry, for instance, plays a fair game of golf. Also there were many eyebrows raised in astonishment when it was learned that Baker competed throughout one entire season without winning a prize of any kind. But Vane won his own reward, building himself into a fine youngster and then coming back the next season to cop the Southern California junior championship and go on to take the senior title.

REAL PROSPECT

El Monte has a fine chance to cash in on Jimmy Montgomery's athletic ability. This youngster is a real prospect. He should get more expert coaching, however, and with this he may bring El Monte national publicity. One valley town, Azusa, had Johnny Falcon as national champion two years ago and Falcon's name was carried all over the country, with it the word that he hailed from Azusa, Cal.

Phelps says his boys are much interested in the South American trip which is to be awarded Southern California's four leading athletes. This ocean voyage, lasting practically one month, will be made from New York to Los Angeles next summer, following the national meet at Atlantic City during the early part of July.

COAST LEAGUE TITLE IS WON BY GLENDALE

As a result of their 23-to-13 victory over the Alhambra quintet last night, Coach Bert Stanley's Glendale basketball team won the Coast League casaba title, with a record of ten victories and no defeats.

The Dynamiters had previously cinched the title, but there was doubt in the minds of many as to whether they could finish the season without a setback. The team this year won twenty out of twenty-two games played, which is a record for future teams to shoot at. The line-ups:

PETE LATZO VICTOR OVER LARRY JOHNSON

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—Pete Latzo, light-heavyweight, who once held the welterweight crown, furnished one of the biggest surprises of the indoor season tonight by winning a ten-round decision over Larry Johnson, slugging negro from Chicago. There were no knockdowns.

Vince Dundee, rugged kid brother of the former welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, easily won the decision tonight over Bucky Lawless, Syracuse middleweight, in a slow ten-round bout.

MILLER TO END TRAINING GRIND

Benny Miller, Jewish welterweight boxer, will finish training today for his ten-round battle with Zenaydo Chavez at Eastside Auditorium Monday night. Miller boxed six hard rounds with Bert Sampson at the Olympic Tuesday night and has needed but little work to keep on edge. Chavez will end his training work tomorrow.

KENEALY TO PILOT NEW PADRE SPECIAL

Mel Kenealy, the Irish racing star who compiled an unparalleled local winning streak by annexing the 1929 dirt-track championship of the Southwest, has created quite a stir by his decision to enter tomorrow afternoon's 100-lap Goebel Sweepstakes at the American Legion Speedway.

Kenealy, who has been idle during the past few weeks and has therefore allowed his rivals to reap a rich harvest in apparent ease, plans to get away to a roaring start behind the wheel of his new Padre Special.

The car was built by Harry Hooker, a gent who seems to possess that mysterious "combination" when it comes to constructing the fastest of gasoline burners, and it was financed by John Vai, wealthy local Italian sportsman. Vai believed that Kenealy, a champion who stood head and shoulders above his competitors, should have a mount fitting of his prowess and the new creation, which will carry the numeral "1," is said to be the answer.

FIELDS FIGHTS YOUNG CORBETT

ords of the pair show that Fields defeated young Jack Thompson twice, while Corbett holds three decisions over him. The title-holder knocked out Sammy Baker, formerly a strong contender, in the second round while Corbett both won and lost from this opponent. Fields stopped Fred (Dummy) Mahan in the second round. Corbett won a decision from Mahan. Tommy Elks was knocked out by Fields in the ninth round and Jack Zivic lasted seven rounds. Corbett took decisions over this pair.

EXPECT BIG FIGHT

While Promoter Ancil Hoffman made plans today for a record gate for Northern California, the advance ticket sale mounted to $33,000. This advance, plus the practically certain sell-out of the cheaper seats which will be put on sale tomorrow, would assume a gate of approximately $58,000. Hoffman, however, expects the receipts to surpass the $63,400 total brought in by the James Jeffries-James Corbett heavyweight championship bout here twenty-seven years ago.

The fight will be held at Recreation Baseball Park, home of Coast League ball here. There will be no radio broadcast of it.

A slight advantage in height and reach will be on Fields's side while Corbett will be a bit heavier, by agreement. According to the articles, the Fresno boy must weigh not more than 150 pounds nor less than 148 pounds.

The referee has not been named, but either Toby Irwin or Jim Griffin, San Franciscans, was expected to get the call.

Charles F. Traung, Boxing Commissioner, indicated he would announce the arbiter just before ring time.

Three special trains will bring delegations of fans from Fresno while practically every other part of the State also will be represented.

Bruin Netters Tackle Alumni

The quality of the 1930 tennis team of the University of California at Los Angeles will be tested this afternoon when they clash with the stellar netters of other years at the Bruin institution on the Westwood courts, starting at 2 o'clock. Coach Bill Ackerman will also send his freshman racketeers into action against the Lincoln Park junior squad at 9 a.m. on the same courts.

A. J. Sturzenegger, assistant general manager at U.C.L.A., is gradually completing the tennis schedule of the squad. On March 1, the Bruins will meet the tennis squads of Pomona College and Caltech at Claremont and Pasadena, respectively. Bill Ackerman will split his squad in two to take in both meets. The University of Arizona tennis aces will be at Westwood for a match on April 5, and then the Westwooders will compete in the spring sports carnival of the Pacific Coast colleges on April 11 and 12. The Trojans of Southern California will clash with the Bruins on April 19 at Westwood, and meets may be scheduled with California and Stanford.

BUCCANEERS AGAIN FACE UPLIFTER FOUR

Feeling that the breaks of the game were against them last week when the Uplifters nosed out a narrow 8-to-7 victory, Clair Brunson's Buccaneers will clash with the ranch polo four again tomorrow afternoon at the Beverly Boulevard grounds with better than an even chance of evening up matters. T. Lyell Puckett, the clubmen's goal-shooting ace, will be out of the game, which means that Lionel Pedley, who took scoring honors in the first game, will again have to turn in a great afternoon of play if the Uplifters' squad hopes to repeat. Pedley scored five of his team's eight goals last week. On paper the Buccaneers appear to have a slight edge with Will Rogers, Jr., riding at No. 1, Carl Beal at 2, Snowy Baker at 3 and Clair Brunson at back. Winslow Felix, Scott Hackley, Lionel Pedley and Dick Smith comprise the ranch four.

PASADENA BULLDOGS LOSE TO BEACH FIVE

Greyola Cops Turf Feature

AGUA CALIENTE (Mex.) Feb. 21.—Greyola, good Greylag filly from the Coburn stable, indicated she is still a figure in derby prognostications when she won the Lagunas handicap at a mile and one sixteenth. Greyola, a winner on New York tracks last summer as a 2-year-old, sprinted to the front on the first turn and was never headed, winning easily by a length and a half. Satin Spar raced to the place, with the show going to Good and Hot.

Longus Labellotte, Lorab and Arcadian Flag, all Derby eligibles, followed in the wake. Time for the mile and one sixteenth was 1:46 1-5.

The track was slow today, but the skies cleared during the afternoon, giving every prospect that the going will be fast for the running of the George Washington Handicap Sunday. A field of about fifteen is expected to be named overnight for the race today. Results:

First race, six furlongs—Dr. Charlie (May) won; Fourteen Sixty (Mulroony) second; Dr. McAmis (Warren) third. Time, 1m. 15 2-5s.

Oxy, Sagehen Quintets to Meet Tonight

Southern Conference basketball enthusiasm will be centered in the Glendale High School gym tonight, when the arch-rivals, Pomona and Occidental, clash in the last game of their annual series. The Tiger quintet will go on the court favored to win by reason of their victory in the first encounter. Incidentally the game will decide third place in the league race between the two squads.

The Oxy five's offense is clicking in top form with Dick Glover and Larry Dimpter sinking shots from all angles and should worry the Sagehen guards plenty before the tussle is over. Capt. Ed Beebe, who has been out of the line-up this week nursing a very much smashed-up nose, is ready to start and bolster up the Tigers' defense.

Redlands' conference-leading cagers entertain the tail-end Caltech hoopsters tonight on their own court in what should be an easy game for the Bulldogs. Whittier plays San Diego again tonight on the Aztec floor. The season closes next Friday night when Occidental and Caltech meet on the Glendale floor.

Gardena Cops Triple Meet

On a slow soggy oval the Gardena track-and-field men scored an easy victory over Narbonne and Jacob Riis High schools yesterday, in a meet held at Gardena. Gardena scored 61 points as compared with 27 scored by Riis and 16 by Narbonne.

Coach George Freeman's outfit exhibited their superiority in practically every event, and as a result the team is now hailed as one of the strongest contenders for the Marine League title.

Fairfax Bows to Glendale

Visibly weakened by the absence of Capt. Bill Smith and John McCarthy, stellar performers on the Fairfax track-and-field team, the Colonials were defeated at the hands of the Glendale Junior College squad by the score of 60 1-3 to 34 2-3. The meet was held on a wet track at Fairfax yesterday.

TROJANS MEET BRUINS TONIGHT

unexpected and win this evening's encounter it will probably mean another tie with California and a play-off game to see which of the two shall meet Washington. For California appears to be more certain of beating Stanford than S.C. is of trimming U.C.L.A.

UP TO WILDS

It will be a real upset if Southern California loses tonight for Barry's men have shown such steady improvement that only an alarming relapse could cause them to falter before the quintet coached by Caddy Works. However, if Capt. Larry Wilds regains his shooting eye tonight's game is apt to be exceedingly close and the Trojans may need everything they have.

Coach Barry plans to start his regular line-up which consists of Frank Smith and Jack Kardner as forwards, Capt. Johnny Lehners and Web Caldwell as guards, with Jess Mortensen at center. Last week Caldwell jumped center half the time with Mortensen.

Works will stick to his same starting personnel to begin with, shooting Capt. Larry Wilds, Dick Von Hagen, Carl Shy, Frank Lubin and Carl Knowle sat the Trojans.

NOTHING T OIT

Reports that Dick Linthicum, a regular forward last year, would rejoin the Bruins tonight, are without foundation. Linthicum is not even attending U.C.L.A. and would not foolishly forfeit an entire year of eligibility to play in only one game even if he were enrolled.

The line-ups:

So. California		U.C.L.A.

DOC SPEARS ON THE JOB AT NEW OREGON POSITION

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 21. (AP)—Headed for the University of Oregon at Eugene, Or., Dr. Clarence W. Spears, newly elected football coach at the university, arrived here today from Minneapolis and was greeted by 100 civic and State officials, alumni and Oregon students.

The former University of Minnesota coach, after posing for cameramen and being interviewed by sports writers, retired to a hotel to rest preparatory to a banquet tonight in his honor.

"Doc" Spears said there are two things he likes—work and ambition. Both, he said, will be prescribed for the football aspirants at the university.

LOCAL CUE MAN WINS

Spencer Livsey, Los Angeles cue expert, who recently played in the world's championship pocket billiard tournament, defeated S. Stanley, local player, yesterday afternoon, 100 to 15. It was the first of a series of games which will be staged every Thursday evening at Louie's Billiard Parlor.

Mack Favorite in Olympic Go

Eddie Mack rules choice to defeat Maurice Holtzer for their ten-round bout at the Olympic Tuesday night. The betting is 10-8 at this time.

Holtzer returned yesterday from Soper's ranch and will work out here today. The Frenchman is in fine shape and hopes to upset the dope just as Dynamite Jackson did last Tuesday when he won from Les Kennedy.

Mack looks better now than he did for any of his other fights. He boxed four rounds at the Manhattan Gymnasium yesterday. Both boxers are down to weight. They are fighting at 133 pounds.

Unable to book either Ritchie King or Cecil Payne to meet Armando Santiago, the hard-hitting Cuban, the Olympic will have to wait until the Mack-Holtzer and the Mack-Goldie Hess bouts are over to smoke out a suitable opponent for Frank Churchill's fighter.

SPORTS MEETING ON LOYOLA'S PROGRAM

Graduates of Loyola and St. Vincent universities are urged to attend a sports mass meeting to be held at the Loyola University Thursday evening, according to an announcement made yesterday by Graduate Manager Vic Lawson. The affair is being sponsored by the Lions' Club.

CUBS ARRIVE AT CATALINA

they had been there a couple of hours.

Skipper McCarthy felt in such good humor on his arrival that he told the players that he wouldn't have them start working out until tomorrow. The athletes, however, will don uniforms and pose for photographers this morning.

AMONG THOSE PRESENT

Yesterday's arriving party, aside from McCarthy, included Coaches Ray Schalk and Jimmy Burke, Secretary Bob Lewis, Trainer Andy Lotshaw, Pitchers George Bell, Hal Carlson, Henry Grampp, Ed Lautenbacher, Pat Malone, Bill McAfee, Lynn Nelson, Bob Osborn, Charley Root, Al Shealy, Bud Teachout and L. Warneke and Catchers Earl Grace, Gabby Hartnett, John Schulte and Zack Taylor, and Outfielder Cliff Heathcote.

Hartnett, as full of pepper as ever, was particularly anxious to get started and see how his throwing arm shapes up. Gabby's wing went back on him last spring and he was unable to catch all season, but he took a series of treatments during the winter that he believes has brought his arm around into as good shape as ever. Hartnett, however, says he's going to take things easy and gradually work his arm into shape.

The Cubs found the Catalina diamond in perfect condition and everything is all ready for them as soon as McCarthy starts them on the training grind.

The remaining batch of Cubs, which includes all of the regulars except Bell and Heathcote, will arrive at Catalina next Friday.

HOOD, ROUTIS SIGN

Ernie Hood and Jose Routis, Filipino flyweight have been signed for Pasadena. Routis stopped Hood at El Centro six weeks ago but since that time Hood has beaten Young Sport, who in turn has defeated Routis. The two flyweights will headline Thursday night's program at the Arena.

El Monte Wins Over Downey

The El Monte High School track and field teams yesterday had one of the biggest field days in the history of the school, when all three of the Lion teams won impressive victories from the Downey trackmen. The A team won its meet by an 81-to-18 score. The B's triumphed, 76 to 18, and the C's won by the almost unheard-of score of 72 to 0.

STUDEBAKER STRAIGHT EIGHTS outsell every other make of eight cylinder motor car in the world.

Official registration reports show an outstanding public preference throughout the entire country for eight cylinder motors. In the past six years the number of makes of eight cylinder cars has more than doubled; number of makes of sixes has dwindled thirty per cent.

Studebaker leads in eight cylinder sales in the United States, in California, in Los Angeles County, and in Greater Los Angeles. Studebaker dominates the sales field because Studebaker Straight Eights are of seasoned design with this season's latest refinements. They have been proved by owners and by many contests, such as the feat of driving a strictly stock President Eight 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes.

You have the President, the Commander and the Dictator models to choose from, with a price range between $1410 and $3020, delivered in Los Angeles. This covers complete equipment, including bumpers and spare tires.

Be up-to-date — drive an eight — investigate — and get it straight — it must be a Studebaker to be a champion.

STEEL COMPANY ISSUES REPORT

Consolidated Closes First Year of Operation

Net Earnings Equivalent to $1.39 a Common Share

Expectations of Predecessor Concerns Surpassed

With results for the year 1929 generally exceeding the preliminary expectations indicated by the operations of the predecessor companies, Consolidated Steel Corporation, Ltd., of Los Angeles, in its first year of operations ended December 31, last, showed profits of $965,823 before depreciation, Federal income and California franchise taxes, according to the report of the directors, which was submitted to stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday by Waller Taylor, president.

Net profits after depreciation and taxes totaled $673,122, out of which dividends of $1.75 a share on the outstanding preferred stock were declared, leaving a balance of $335,503 available for surplus. The latter amount was equivalent to $1.39 a share on 241,617 shares of common stock outstanding. Mr. Taylor pointed out that in addition a voluntary reserve for compensation insurance of $79,126 was created from the year's earnings.

SALES HIGH

Total sales or work completed to December 31, last, amounted to $11,645,999. Cost of the completed work was given at $10,683,898, inclusive of sales and administrative expenses but without depreciation charges. Deduction of other expenses of $6478 left net profits before depreciation, Federal and State taxes of $955 623.

Although general business conditions in the late fall not only reduced sales below predicted figures but also resulted in a decline in the gross margin of profit for the period; orders in process and unworked at the end of the year amounted to $3,320,000, the report stated with the explanation that no anticipated profit on these sales was included in the 1929 earnings statement.

The corporation on March 30, last, purchased the plant and business of the Gallagher Company and the Universal Holding Company and by so doing acquired valuable patent rights for the manufacture of floating decks for tanks. The purchase has proven profitable, the report said. A new Class A administration and general office building was completed in December and to finance this improvement and the new acquisitions and to supply additional working capital required by the enlarged scope of the business, now the largest of its kind west of the Mississippi, $1,500,000 convertible 6 per cent gold notes were issued in November, the report set forth.

FIELD ENLARGED

The company's products now include structural steel, elevators, steel tanks, riveted steel pipe, boilers, mining and oil machinery, rock crushers, oil storage tanks and cranes. During the year, operations were extended into Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona, with a subsidiary corporation formed in December for work in Texas and Mexico. Branches have been established in Long Beach, Bakersfield, San Diego, Phoenix and El Paso.

The corporation, which began operations on January 2, 1929, was formed through the consolidation of Llewellyn, Baker and Union Iron Works.

All retiring officers and directors were re-elected yesterday and Reese H. Taylor, son of Waller Taylor, was elected a vice-president. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 43 3-4 cents on the preferred stock, payable April 1 to stock of record March 15.

FIDELITY CONTROL PASSES

Equitable Associates, Identified With National Bank of Commerce, Buys Building-Loan Stock

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Control of the Fidelity Savings and Loan Association, oldest building and loan company in Los Angeles, has passed to a group identified with the National Bank of Commerce of this city, it was learned yesterday. The transaction is scheduled for ratification Monday at which time two additional representatives of the new interests will be elected to the board of Fidelity Associates, Inc., the holding company.

Earle M. Leaf, president of the National Bank of Commerce, and Fred L. Wilkie, investment banker, are the new directors scheduled for election. Associated with them on the board of Fidelity Associates, Inc., will be George H. Woodruff, A. E. Grow and F. E. Eckhart, already members of the directorate and identified with Equitable Associates, the group purchasing the majority stock.

Mr. Woodruff is a vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce; Mr. Eckhart is a director, and Mr. Grow is president of the Equitable Building and Loan Association of Pasadena. Mr. Woodruff is also vice-president of the Fidelity Savings and Loan.

EASTMAN PRESIDENT

George L. Eastman, former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and president of the Fidelity Savings and Loan for the past year, will continue in that post, it is understood. Mr. Leaf is expected to assume an executive position with the Fidelity but will retain the presidency of the National Bank of Commerce.

Purchase of controlling interest in the Fidelity by the National Bank of Commerce is prompted, it is understood, by the desire on the part of the banking group to have representation in the growing and prosperous building and loan business. It is expected conservative expansion of the Fidelity activities will be undertaken, probably through the acquisition of one or two branch offices.

Since Mr. Leaf and his associates have been in control of the National Bank of Commerce, the bank has been developed into one of the most progressive and prosperous of the younger banking institutions in the city. In the last year and a half, resources and deposits have both been doubled.

MANAGEMENT SAME

Aside from the election of Mr. Leaf to an executive post, it is understood that the management of the Fidelity will continue unchanged. Under Mr. Eastman's direction as president, the Fidelity scored a gain of $2,318,342.89 in resources in 1929 and also increased surplus, undivided profits and reserves by $251,841.95. The active nature of the Fidelity's business is further illustrated by the volume of loans made last year totaling more than $9,400,000. The sum of $1,739,661.88 was paid out in interest to depositors.

In reporting the condition of the Fidelity as of the 1st inst., Mr. Eastman informed depositors that total resources at the end of January, the thirty-ninth anniversary of the association's establishment, amounted to $33,407,670.99. Deposits in January, he reported, increased $160,000, or 19 per cent, over the same month of the previous year.

LLOYD & CASLER RENTALS REPORTED

Net earnings of the Lloyd & Casler industrial buildings, including the Allied Crafts, Graphic Arts and Lloyd & Cassler buildings, for the year ended December 31, last, yesterday were reported at $71,238.82, equal to 1.665 times interest requirements on the first mortgage bonds, of which 648,000 par value are now outstanding. At the close of the year, 91 per cent of the rental space of the building was occupied.

HUGE OIL MERGER ON SLATE

New York Standard-Vacuum Company Combine Would Make Second Largest in Country

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—Directors of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company, today announced an agreement to merge the two companies, creating an American petroleum organization with distributing facilities throughout the world and exceeded in size, computed on the basis of current market valuations only by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The proposed merger represents the first effort to combine units of the original Standard Oil Company which was dissolved under the Sherman antitrust law in 1911 and split up into thirty-three separate organizations. The directors of the two companies say that approval of the government was sought, but that they were informed that the question must be tested by the courts and that the government indicated it would bring appropriate action to test the legality of the new combine. Counsel for the companies have expressed the opinion that the consolidation would be found legal.

The merger will bring to Standard of New York Vacuum's extensive foreign gasoline and petroleum products distributing system, covering most of the world. Standard's foreign activities have been largely in the Orient and Near East, and have not been competitive with Vacuum. Furthermore, the two domestic businesses are regarded as complementary. In this country, Vacuum's business is almost entirely in lubricating oils, while Standard's is largely in gasoline. Vacuum has been experiencing keen competition from gasoline refiners who have been distributing their own lubricants at filling stations.

To effect the merger, the General Petroleum Corporation will be formed. Standard will change its name to General Petroleum Company, but will continue to operate its present properties through a subsidiary to retain the name of Standard Oil Company of New York, so that the trade name "Socony" may be retained. Vacuum would also be operated as a subsidiary so as to retain its name.

Three shares of General Petroleum will be offered in exchange for each share of Vacuum. Standard of New York closed on the New York Stock Exchange today at $31.50 a share and Vacuum on the curb market at $91 a share.

The announcement of the merger is regarded as noteworthy in that it definitely takes notice of the breaking down of the old retailing areas into which the Standard units divided the country in 1911. Recently they have been steadily encroaching upon each other's territory. The letters to stockholders assert that the Socony distributing facilities are in the process of expansion, explaining:

"In this automobile age, each large oil company handling gasoline primarily, although formerly marketing its products in only a portion of the country, now seeks to extend its activities generally throughout the United States so as to get the most complete use of its overhead organization, of its standing with its customers, and of its national advertising."

Socony originally confined its retail distributing to New York State and New England, but has recently extended into the West and Southwest. There are now eleven distinct national distributing organizations in its original territory.

On the basis of current quotations for the stocks the combined organization will have a market value in excess of $1,100,000,000. The managements estimate that it will market about 9 per cent of the petroleum products consumed in the United States. Standard of New Jersey's current market value exceeds $1,500,000,000.

Phone Utility Plans Budget for Expansion

Associated Telephone Company, subsidiary of Associated Telephone Utilities Company, will spend more than $2,000,000 in its Pacific Coast expansion program for the current year of which the greater part will be for improvements in the Los Angeles area, it was announced yesterday. A three-year program calls for the expenditure of more than $1,000,000 annually in the Long Beach area alone.

A total of $1,571,000 will be expended at Long Beach this year, the additions being hurried to meet the demands of three enterprises there which will have a total invested capital of $21,000,000. A new central office building to house four units of automatic equipment will absorb $280,000 of the Long Beach budget.

At Redondo Beach, where a recent development in the United States Steel Company's plant has caused a considerable increase in population, the telephone company will spend $362,500, part of which will be for an automatic telephone plant.

Construction of a $60,000 plant is under way at Westminster. Bolsa Midway City, Westminster, New Westminster and Barber City will all be incorporated in the new system.

PRODUCTION OF OIL SETS NEW RECORD

Federal Bureau Report for 1929 Puts Total at 1,005,598,000 Barrels

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—A new record for petroleum production in 1929, when the shipments amounted to 1,005,598,000 barrels, was reported today by the Bureau of Mines on a basis of preliminary figures.

Crude oil actually brought to the surface may amount to 1,006,000,000, it was said, representing an increase of 104,500,000 barrels or 12 per cent above the 1928 peak.

Preliminary figures indicated a world production for the year of 1,488,604,000 barrels, an increase over 1928 of 12 per cent. Of this total the United States produced 67.6 per cent, as compared with 68 per cent in the preceding year and 71.4 per cent in 1927.

Production in this country rose steadily up to August, the peak month, when 92,288,000 barrels were brought above ground. During the last four months of the year production declined. Stocks accumulated in all months except November.

Texas, for the second successive year, led in production with an output of 298,441,000 barrels. California was second with 292,037,000 barrels and Oklahoma dropped from second to third place, although its output of 213,704,000 represented an increase over 1928. Those three States accounted for 84 per cent of this country's production, compared with 82 per cent in the preceding year.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 17

A taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both capital and personal services are material income-producing factors also is given consideration in computing the tax on earned income to which the 25 per cent credit applies.

The Revenue Act provides in such cases that a "reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services" shall be considered as earned income. Such allowance is not to exceed 20 per cent of the taxpayer's share of the net profits of such trade or business. For example, a taxpayer received in 1929, from a business in which both personal services and capital are material income-producing factors, a net profit of $30,000. The 25 per cent is computed on 20 per cent of $30,000, or $6000. The amount payable cent of the tax on $6000.

Within the range of the second class of earned income are many kinds of professions in which individuals are associated as partners. When the facts in each case indicate that the proportionate share to each partner of the net amount of fees from the professional partnership truly represents compensations for personal services actually rendered by him, such partnership share is to be classified as earned income in the individual return. If such share does not represent compensation for services rendered but instead represents a return on capital invested by him in the profession, or gain derived through the employment of assistants who do the actual work, it is not to be classified as earned income to the taxpayer.

GOLDBLATT NET DOUBLES

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., reported today net profits for 1929 of $766,391, equal to $3.83 a share on the combined A and B shares, against $351,514, or $1.85 a share, in 1928.

OLD TRADE YARDSTICK HIT

Reserve Bank Economist Calls Pig Iron Worst Index of Probable Drift Devised

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Carl Snyder, economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, takes issue with those who believe that any one industry like pig iron, for example, can be a safe barometer of trade. The "pig iron" barometer, says Mr. Snyder, was "one of the worst that could have been found, misleading as to time, violence of movement and effect."

Mr. Snyder thinks of trade in terms many times broader than pig iron—with "trade that covers the making and sale of products, reaching in value maybe to $100,000,000,000, or more, and involving transactions of not less than $1,000,000,000,000."

The Snyder barometer, therefore, is measured by "the total exchange of all goods, services, securities, and property in a nation whose total trade is possibly greater, measured in money transactions, than all of the rest of the world put together."

So in measuring the relations of credit and trade, the Snyder yardstick is a vastly different thing than the "old pig iron" complex.

"We should be suffering from a veritable gold famine were it not for the economy practiced in this country and some other gold standard countries," says Reginald McKenna, British banker.

This question of a sufficient gold supply to meet the demands for it in the use of currency and arts has become a problem of world-wide importance.

Many bankers and economists, however, hold the McKenna belief that economy through the central banks is the solution of the problem. The concentration of reserves in central banks has made for a greater proportion of credit being available and a more efficient distribution. This is substantially the view of H. Parker Willis.

Irving Fisher of Yale, an optimist on the stock market, is much more pessimistic over the gold situation. He is fearful that a gold famine may occur in the not too distant future.

But Albert Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National Bank, insists "there is enough gold in the world to do the legitimate business of the world at comfortable rates of interest."

While there are conflicting opinions about it, the weight of opinion favors the view that no gold famine is near.

No industry has felt competition any more keenly in recent years that that of mechanical refrigeration.

Probably half a dozen products are widely advertised backed up by strong national sales organizations. The business of mechanical refrigeration is growing, but the competition in the field is becoming very severe. This new condition has been brought about by several companies shifting from radio and other mechanical equipment enterprises to that of developing new refrigeration units and attempting to market them through sales organizations already developed for other things.

Reports from the various companies indicate that while the business has dropped since November, suffering somewhat from the trade conditions, the installation of mechanical refrigeration in household units is in excellent demand.

"Earnings of mechanical refrigeration companies, broadly considered, have been at a low ebb during the last several months, and the majority of concerns are likely to have difficulty in showing satisfactory returns in the present half-year," according to Standard Statistics.

DEMAND ON WOOL MART HOLDING UP

BOSTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:

There has been a further good business in the seaboard markets this week, mostly in fine wools, which are now getting well liquidated. Prices have been steady on the basis noted a week ago.

Foreign markets generally are steady. The extension of the sales in the foreign primary markets, so as to distribute offerings over a longer period, appears to have been more or less salutary.

In the West, there is a steady effort being made to tie up wools both on account of the eastern dealers and the new co-operative scheme. Boston dealers bought the best wool at the Phoenix (Ariz.) sale at a clean cost landed Boston basis of 70-72 cents.

The goods market is clarified by the decision this week of the American Woolen Company to drop prices on staple goods to a competitive basis with other large mills so that business may now be possible in larger volume.

Mohair is still rather quiet with prices steady at about 50 cents for best original bag Texas mohair and foreign markets quotable on this parity.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1930, to February 20, 1930, inclusive, were 23,350,000 pounds, against 25,770,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1930, to February 20, 1930, inclusive, were 28,610,600 pounds, against 34,406,300 pounds for the same period last year.

Quotations to be published by the Bulletin follow:

Scoured basis: Texas—Fine 12 months selected, 76@78; fine short 12 months, 73@75; fine 8 months, 65@71. California—Northern, 68@70; middle county, 67@68; southern, 60@65. Oregon—Fine and F. M. staple, 76@77; fine and F. M. Fr. combing, 70@73; fine and F. M. clothing, 69@70; Valley No. 1, 73@75.

Territory (scoured basis:) Montana and similar—Fine staple choice, 68@80; ½-blood combing, 75@77; ⅜-blood combing, 70@72; ¼-blood combing, 63@65.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—A colorless week in bond trading closed today in an uninteresting session. Supply and demand were well balanced and price changes in corporation securities were largely in small fractions. United States government issues moved higher, but failed to hold all of their advance.

Call money was a little easier. Time funds, however, remained unchanged.

A handful of the rails were active. Offerings of Rock Island refunding 4s, Chesapeake and Ohio refunding 4½s, Great Northern 7s, Pennsylvania 6½s and 4½s, New York Central 3½s and Union Pacific 4s found ready absorption, but buyers were forced to pay little more than the Thursday closing price.

Armour Real Estate 4½s, Chile Copper 5s, Humble Oil 5½s, Western Electric 5s, Sinclair Crude Oil 5½s and Detroit Edison refunding 5s were miscellaneous favorites, but the demand lacked depth and gains ruled small.

In foreign bonds the close was irregular. French 7½s hovered just under 121, making an insignificant change. British 5½s, German 7s, Tokio Electric 6s and Cuba 5½s were firm. Bulgaria 7s lost about 2½ points.

Trading in obligations of the United States centered in the Treasury 4¼s, which were bid up to 111. They closed slightly off from that level, making a net gain of about ⅛.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

Total sales today, $9,300,000; previous day, $10,773,000; week ago, $9,452,000; year ago, holiday; two years ago, $9,681,000; January 1 to date, $367,028,000; same year ago, $393,306,000; same two years ago, $191,648,000.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Stocks headed upward today, as confidence returned to Montgomery street, putting short sellers to flight and confounding bears whose numbers had increased somewhat during the week. On the afternoon upturn, which ended the preholiday session with a strong buying movement, orders increased enough to raise totals over yesterday's figures. Despite lagging market interest in early trading, sales totaled 87,700 at a market value of $1,574,227, while $18,000 went into bonds.

Oils came to the front with rising prices on news of agreement on crude curtailment. Standard recovered 2½ points, Union Associated 1⅛, Honolulu 1¼, and fractional gains were scored throughout the list, with the exception of Tidewater preferred, which receded 2 points.

Utilities reached higher ground, Pacific Telephone jumped 5 points to a new high at 150 before loosing 2 points of the gain, while the preferred hopped up 4 points, also to set a new high at 144, on news that the preferred participates with the common in rights to purchase new common stock at $100 a share. Pacific Lighting gained 1¼, Pacific Gas and several others gained fractions, and Southern Pacific Golden Gate A attained a new high at 17⅝, responding to favorable brokers analyses.

Industrial stocks shifted slightly, except for some of the stores issues, affected by trade uncertainties. Schlesinger preferred and Roos Brothers common lost 2 points each, and Hale Brothers dropped a fraction to a new low at 12. Roos at 25 and Schlesinger preferred at 58 were at 1930 low records. Paauhau Sugar and El Dorado Oil Works also hit lows.

Transamerica dipped ⅛, but the Bancitaly banking averages were boosted by a 3-point gain of Anglo & London-Paris National, and by a ½-point rise of Wells Fargo to a new high at 323½. Transamerica directors meet here Monday to continue reorganization coincident with shifting expansion activities to New York headquarters. Coast developments will be directed from the office of President L. M. Giannini here.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—A moderate supply of cattle fairly evenly divided between steers and she stock came mainly from intermountain and Arizona, with a load or two of Californias. Trade was fairly active, with all classes selling on a fully steady basis.

A load of good intermountain steers averaging 930 pounds brought 12.00, with two loads of 860 to 973-pound weights at 11.35@11.50. Some part loads of 741 to 880-pound steers turned at 10.25@10.60, but were lacking in finish. A few head of light steers went to feeders at 9.50.

A load of outstanding 644-pound fed heifers on the baby beef order reached 11.75, with a 718-pound load at 10.25. Odd head scored 9.00@9.50, with two loads of 554-pound Arizona heifers at 8.60. Odd head of low good cows cashed at 9.00@9.25, with bulk of common to medium cows at 7.00@8.75. Low cutters and cutters bulked at 4.00@6.75. A light beef bull brought 9.00, with bulk medium bulls, 7.00@8.50.

CALVES—Milk vealers were again scarce and fully steady, with medium to choice kinds selling at 14.50@16.00. Late Thursday a load of choice 186-pound California vealers brought 15.50. Bulk of heavier weights and calves turned at 12.00@14.00, with cull and common kinds at 8.50@11.50.

HOGS—Fresh receipts consisting of six loads were hard to move. Five loads of strictly good Nebraska butchers were bid close to steady or around 11.75, but were held for more money. A load of holdover Utah hogs around 180 pounds sold at 11.40, with a short load of 159-pound Californias at 10.90, with a few packing sows out at 9.00.

SHEEP—Nothing was offered in this division. Good to choice handyweight lambs are quotable fully steady at 11.50, or possibly a little more. Medium to choice ewes quoted 5.50@7.25.

[illegible] of the Barnsdall Oil Company into the new oil field at the southeast edge of Venice was indicated yesterday by reports to the effect that the company is arranging to take over the holdings of the Cypress Petroleum Company, offsetting the Ohio Oil Company's discovery well. It was admitted by the Barnsdall offices that negotiations to this end have been in progress for several days.

The property Barnsdall plans to acquire embraces about twelve acres and is a portion of a strip [illegible] feet long and 250 feet wide, just west of Ohio's initial producer. It is within 150 feet of Ohio's discovery well, 150 feet from its Recreation Gun Club No. 2 now preparing to test shallow showings with bottom below 3800 feet, and [illegible] same distance from the Union Oil Company's Del Rey No. 1 for which piling is being driven for construction of a derrick.

The Cypress property would be split up into two portions, the first section to extend 992 feet south of a tract now controlled by Rohde & McAdams, in the center of the strip, and the second portion to begin 1376 feet from the north end and continue to the south end of the strip.

Under that arrangement Rohde & McAdams would retain the middle portion, and it is understood that Barnsdall may arrange to take over the entire strip. Papers are reported to have been drawn up, and should the City Council grant permission to drill, plans will be ready to make a location within two [illegible]

[illegible] Gets Showings

First oil-sand showings have been penetrated in the Standard Oil Company's Shepard No. 1 wildcat on a 253-acre lease in Casitas Pass, northeast of Carpinteria, where an attempt is being made to connect up several oil fields by proving an extension of some field. Standard's test is one of a series [illegible] in Santa Barbara county along the coast and between proven fields. Its Shepard No. 1 encountered about three feet of oil sand at 1315 feet and, after drilling through it went into red shale. Although the small showing is not considered sufficient for a producing test it is interesting because the Shell Oil Company's Fithian No. 1 wildcat on Fithian ranch, along the base of the foothills north of Carpinteria, has not found similar showings although it is down below 2300 feet. Shell's well developed a crooked hole and after surveying, it is probable that sidetracking will be started to straighten it.

Another Standard wildcat is Saticoy-Citrus No. 5 near Saticoy, which recently was sidetracked below [illegible] feet and has only a few feet more to drill before reaching the original depth of 8460 feet, where a fishing job developed. Field reports indicate that gas showings have been encountered, but officials of the company deny that anything important has turned up. This is one of the deepest active wildcats in the world.

[illegible] Test Continues

In a thirty-day flow test of the [illegible] Oil Company's Covarrubias No. [illegible] which was completed in the new [illegible] discovered by the General Petroleum Corporation nine miles west of [illegible]wood, it continues to flow about [illegible] barrels of oil per day. At the expiration of the period this well will be shut in.

Shell's Rutherford No. 3 is rigging up to spud in on a 500-acre lease west of General's Erburu No. 1 discovery well, which now is shut in under the State-wide conservation program. The production tests [illegible] deg. gravity and comes from a [illegible] of about 1300 feet.

Shell drilled its Rutherford No. 1 as a deep test, going to 6000 feet in search of production and abandoned the project, and then drilled Rutherford No. 2 only to abandon it at about 1800 feet in favor of a third test on the same lease.

[illegible] Location

The General Petroleum Corporation is grading location for Morris No. 1, a deep test for oil to be drilled on a 120-acre lease on Sec. [illegible], at Buttonwillow. This well is about two miles northwest of the Milham Exploration Company's four derricks recently constructed to drill for a new supply of gas.

[illegible] Pump

The Republic Petroleum Corporation is installing a pump in its No. 36, a recent completion in the [illegible] field. The well came in for [illegible] barrels of oil per day at 2970 feet but sanded up after flowing a short time. The No. 36 is pumping [illegible] barrels daily and No. 37 is rigging up to spud in today.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—Trading on the curb market showed the usual pre-holiday dullness and irregularity today, with neither the bulls nor the bears able to gain any decided advantage. Strong buying support provided overnight for some of yesterday's weak spots resulted in some sharp gains at the opening, but these were cut down as the demand dried up. Many floor traders left early for extended week-end trips.

Most of the active public utilities closed with small net gains. Sierra Pacific was an outstanding strong spot, moving up 1½ points to a new 1930 high at 60 on buying influenced by reports of expanding earnings. The stock sold as low as 26 in the break last fall. Electric Bond and Share opened 3 points higher at 98½, but lost half its gain.

American and Foreign Power, American Gas and Electric, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Empire Power and Northern States Power A closed a point or more higher.

Oil shares displayed a firmer undertone, with Gulf and Humble showing the best gains. North American Aviation was active and strong but most of the other air shares lost ground. Aviation Corporation of the Americas, Aviation Securities and New York, Rio and Buenos Aires declining a point or more.

Buying of the investment trust, holding and trading corporation shares was rather selective in character, with Mayflower Associates, Lehman Corporation and the National Investors group making the best showing. The buying of Mayflower, which touched a new 1930 low at 65, was influenced by the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock. Newmont Mining advanced nearly 2 points on buying influenced by the speculative belief that the copper shares already had discounted the possibility of reduced dividends on some of the copper stocks.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Gain in Wheat Exports Turns Prices Upward

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Sudden enlargement of export buying of North American wheat totaling 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels gave a quick lift to wheat values today. The trans-Atlantic purchasing was the largest witnessed in some time and included United States hard winter wheat afloat, as well as at ports on the Gulf of Mexico. As a result, the market here rose about 3½c a bushel compared with yesterday's bottom level, influenced also by authoritative assertions that prevailing unseasonably warm weather is having an adverse effect on the domestic winter crop.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1@2c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ½@1c up, oats ⅛@½c advance and provisions showing 7@25c gain.

An unlooked-for jump in Liverpool quotations that was associated with a temporary withdrawal of export offerings by the Canadian growers' pool preceded the rise of wheat values in Chicago. Besides, the widening out of European demand for wheat from North America, purchases of flour at New York for shipment to Great Britain were announced, and messages were at hand saying that European importers had accepted all available wheat tendered from this side of the Atlantic overnight.

Uneasiness about prospects for 1930 domestic winter wheat received special attention because of a statement from a leading Chicago crop expert that continuous abnormal high temperatures have caused premature growth.

Forecasts of unsettled weather likely to hinder movement of corn were a factor tending to strengthen the corn market. Oats sympathized with upturns of wheat and corn.

Provisions went higher, responsive to the course of hog values and of grain.

Sales of Light Goods Aided by Warm Weather

Three features stand out in the week's incidents, these being the advent of warm weather throughout the country, a marked increase in releases of goods previously ordered for use in the coming open season, and, this latter not perhaps a favorable feature, renewed weakness in prces of raw materials, prominently figuring in this direction being grain, notably wheat, and raw cotton, which have sought new low levels for the season. Effects of these three important occurrences are naturally varied.

Warm weather has quieted down the coal trade, dulled sales of left-over winter goods, where "sales" had not entirely moved stocks, and dissipated the remaining snow cover on winter wheat, but, on the other hand, has given an impetus to spring work, helped trade in the coming season's lighter-weight goods, and caused a decided livening up of interest in and the large volume of construction work planned for the coming season. This last is noted as causing the release of shipping orders for goods previously engaged, but heretofore unable to move because of the dulling effects of long-continued cold weather. A general view of the situation still reveals a reduced movement in industry, and trade, as compared with a year ago, but holds promise of resulting in better reports from now on.

Weekly bank clearings, $11,334,754,000, a decrease of 20.5 per cent from a year ago.

FUND URGED FOR WORK ON HARBORS

Hoover Asks Congress to Prvoide $12,000,000 for Immediate Needs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—President Hoover today recommended that Congress make available $12,000,000 immediately for maintenance and improvement of existing river and harbor works.

The appropriation for the current year, amounting to $50,000,000, to which an unexpended balance of $34,500,000 from last year's appropriations has been added, was held by Director Roop of the budget to be inadequate to meet the requirements of existing contracts. The Roop recommendation was transmitted by the President. Much of the supplemental estimate is needed, he added, for work on the Great Lakes, where considerable damage has been done by storms.

It was said that expenditures have increased to $6,000,000 a month and all the available funds, amounting to $18,500,000, will be required by the army engineers for rivers and harbors work, and that the additional amount will be needed for contract work.

"If additional money is not available to continue work under these continuing contracts," Director Roop said, "at approximately the same rate as at present there will be involved a drastic reduction in the amount of work carried on under these contracts."

Names of Radio Owners Sought

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 21.—Plans for acquisition of names of local radio users on a petition now being circulated and formation of a financial policy whereby the organization will have approximately $12,000 a year to spend to protect the interests of the individual listener-in were announced this morning by members of the recently appointed Bakersfield Radio Commission.

According to C. A. Saint, member of the commission committee appointed at a meeting of local radio enthusiasts, an intensive campaign is going on to secure additional names.

According to Saint, there are about 4000 radio users in this city, each one of which will be approached through a house-to-house canvass made by commission representatives.

Slowly but surely, particularly under the Hoover administration, the White House is taking on a decided Lincoln atmosphere. President and Mrs. Hoover, great admirers of the martyred President, have ransacked the executive mansion to salvage Lincoln relics shelved by their predecessors. A bed here, a chair there are among reconditioned objects.

The second-floor room in which "Honest Abe" conferred with his Cabinet and in which he signed the Emancipation Proclamation is now the Presidential study and reading room and scene of Cabinet meetings pending reconstruction of the White House executive offices. A brass plate in the mantelpiece attests to its historic character. Here the Hoover administration has hung pictures of Lincoln and his Cabinet. Here two chairs associated with Lincoln have been brought from the attic, dusted off and placed near the Lincoln desk in the center of the room. In this room, too, Mr. Hoover does much night reading and sometimes Mrs. Hoover uses it of an afternoon to receive intimate friends.

Also on the second floor is the great Lincoln bed, a huge walnut four-poster affair nine feet long. It is covered with a spread crocheted by Mrs. Coolidge's own fingers after the original. With this bed Mrs. Hoover has added an old-fashioned bureau, wardrobe, dresser and high-backed chair to carry out the spirit of the room. The lone picture of President Coolidge in the state dining-room has been replaced by an old painting of Lincoln which until recently graced an obscure corner. Mr. Hoover has also hung a small steel engraving of Lincoln in his private White House office. The President thinks Beveridge's "Life of Lincoln" an ideal story of the life of the Great Emancipator.—

JAPANESE VOTE BRINGS UPSETS

Premier's Party Holds Lead in Races for Seats

Strength Lost by Leaders in Last Parliament

Proletarian Chiefs Defeated Causing Surprise

TOKIO, Feb. 20. (AP) (Saturday)—Incomplete returns in the general election at 11:30 a.m., today showed the Minseito party, supporting the administration of Premier Hamaguchi, maintaining its lead with seventy-nine seats in the lower house of the Diet. The Seiyukai party, chief opposition to Hamaguchi, had obtained forty-four seats and the Proletarians three. Other groups accounted for eight seats.

In the last Parliament the Seiyukai held 237 of the 466 seats and the Minseito had only 173.

The election was featured by the unexpected defeat of Proletarian party leaders. Among these is Isoe Abe, father of Tamio Abe, the Davis Cup tennis star, and president of the Social Democrat party. Abe was expected to be returned easily from a Tokio district.

Other Proletarians defeated are Bunji Suzuki, president of the Japan Federation of Labor and Abe's chief lieutenant, Hajime Hawakami, a leading Marxist.

Another is Toyohiko Kagawa, who, nominated by the Proletarians to represent the slum district of Tokio, is Japan's most famous Christian leader and an internationally known humanitarian. Notwithstanding that he was kept to his home by illness throughout the campaign, Kagawa's election by the poor voters of the Tokio River wards had been considered likely.

Ikuo Oyama, president of the Farmer Labor party, was elected. His election was the Proletarians' sole gain thus far against a loss of five seats won in the 1928 election.

Father and son were elected in the persons of Ki Inukai, 74-year-old president of the Seiyukai party, and Ken Inukai, youthful novelist, also of the Seiyukai party.

WATERMAN WILL NAMES RELATIVES

Early Governor Leaves Estate in Large Part to California Kin

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (Exclusive) Many Californians are named beneficiaries under the will of the late Dr. James Sears Waterman, son of one of the first Governors of that State, it was revealed when the document was filed for probate in Kings County Surrogate's Court today.

After nominal bequests to relatives and friends Dr. Waterman created a trust fund for the residuary estate. The annual income will be shared by three sisters, Miss Helen J. Waterman, Mrs. Anna C. Scott and Mrs. Abbie L. Williams, all of Berkeley. Each receives $5000 outright in addition to their life estates.

Abbie Louise Waterman of Barstow, a grand-niece, is left $2500. A friend, Irving M. Scott of Berkeley, receives considerable jewelry. Waldo Dean Martin, nephew, of Santa Monica, is left $5000, jewelry and effects, including a gold match box from the Stonewall mine. Sarah B. Charlotte H. and Theresa B. Brown, all of Riverside, nieces of Dr. Waterman's late wife, are bequeathed $5000 each. The first two also share all of Dr. Waterman's real property in California. Charitable bequests to New York institutions are estimated at more than $50,000.

Dr. Waterman, who died in Riverside January 19 at 95 years of age, disposes of an estate worth approximately $200,000, according to attorneys for the executors, but the estate is believed to be nearer $500,000, if not in excess of that figure.

BALM SUIT PLAINTIFF BELLICOSE

Mrs. Brandon Declares Cardinal's Attorney Made Threat Against Her

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon declared on the witness stand in Supreme Court today that George J. Gillespie, Cardinal Hayes's personal attorney, whom she is suing for $574,165 charging breach of promise and fraud, threatened to have her "bumped" or "jobbed" if she ever revealed to any one the relation which she said existed between them.

In spite of this Mrs. Brandon, an assistant corporation counsel, said she still loved Gillespie for some time thereafter.

On this, her fifth day on the witness stand, Mrs. Brandon proved a vigorous and at times somewhat truculent witness. At one point in her cross-examination by Gillespie's counsel the judge reprimanded her and admonished her not to interrupt the lawyer and, as far as possible, to answer questions with "yes" or "no."

After testifying that Gillespie once had threatened to have her "bumped or jobbed," Mrs. Brandon declared:

"Those words were burned into my brain forever. They are still burning."

As she left the stand today after a session in the course of which she had once shouted at Gillespie's attorney, Theodore Kiendl, "I don't intend to let you crucify me," Mrs. Brandon said she was distraught.

WASHINGTON, Febrero 21.—El señor Jahncke, ministro accidental de Marina, al anunciar que se ha dado permiso a la gran aeronave de hacer uso del aeródromo de Lakehurst, ha revelado que es probable vuelva pronto a los Estados Unidos el famoso circunnavegante aéreo.

El doctor Hugo von Eckener, comandante del Zeppelín, dice en carta recibida hoy que tiene interés la compañía alemana en estudiar la posibilidad del tráfico mercantil regular entre Europa, Sudamérica y los Estados Unidos por la vía del aire.

Agrega el aeronauta que la travesía marítima común entre puertos norteamericanos y sudamericanos tarda de 25 a 28 días, y que, en su opinión, la aeronave puede realizarla en ocho o diez. Hace notar, con todo, que esos viajes aéreos no podrían hacerse sin la seguridad de reponerse de combustible en Lakehurst.

Se ha reservado lugar a bordo del Zeppelín a un oficial de la Armada de los Estados Unidos, para que haga las observaciones que estime convenientes.

Cincuenta Huelguistas Hacen Estragos en un Restaurante

Los obreros de la alimentación, que están en huelga, fueron entrando en la cafetería por groups de cuatro o cinco, y se fueron distribuyendo en las mesas, entre los quinientos o más parroquianos que había en el establecimiento.

A una señal dada, dice el parte de la policía, la señorita Kaplan saltó sobre una mesa gritando "¡Los trabajadores de restaurantes están en huelga!", y sus camaradas comenzaron a derribar mesas, quebrar platos, lámparas y estanterías, y destrozar mostradores.

El propietario Max Samuels fue derribado de una trompada, y luego, golpeado. Calcula sus pérdidas materiales en $1500, a lo que hay que agregar, lo perdido por comidas no pagadas.

WASHINGTON PORTRAITS IN LOS ANGELES

Two Noted Gilbert Stuart Paintings Here, One to Remain Permanently

Two of the many famous Gilbert Stuart portraits of George Washington are in Los Angeles, it was learned yesterday; one reposing permanently in a private collection, the other on exhibition for an indefinite period in a commercial gallery.

The painting that has come here to stay is the famous Lee "Washington" and once was the cherished possession of Robert E. Lee. It was done by the artist of the Vaughan and Atheneum portraits for William Ludwell Lee of Greenspring, Va., uncle of the Confederate general. Its present owner is Willits J. Hole, art collector of 114 Fremont Place, in whose gallery it now occupies a prominent place among the works of European and American masters. It is listed No. 13 in Mantle Field's book, "Portraits of Washington," and was purchased from the Newhouse Galleries of New York and the Dalzell Hatfield Galleries of Los Angeles.

The other Stuart hangs in the Stendahl Galleries at the Ambassador, having been returned to this country last summer from England, where for 150 years it had been in the collection of the Neale family of London. It is said to be a marked departure from the Atheneum-type portrait and is believed to have been done on a commission from one associated with Washington in the Colonies. Experts say it probably was painted while Washington was President.

SANTA BARBARA GETS COOLIDGES

Visitors to Spend Two Days as Requa's Guests

Lindberghs Make Call at Suite in Hotel

Second Day at Catalina Greatly Enjoyed

Former President Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge will spend today and tomorrow in Santa Barbara, it was announced last night as they returned here from a two-day visit at Catalina Island.

No details of the Santa Barbara trip were given out by Mr. Coolidge, other than that they will be the guests today and tomorrow of Mark L. Requa, California Republican leader, and will return here tomorrow night.

LINDBERGHS VISIT

Last night Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were visitors for half an hour at the Coolidge suite. While President, Mr. Coolidge pinned the Flying Cross on the breast of the noted flyer as the nation's tribute to Lindbergh's air achievement. They have been friends since the epochal Paris flight in May, 1927.

The Lindberghs were escorted through the corridors of the hotel by officers assigned to guard Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and ascended by the private elevator. They left the same way and practically none of the guests were aware of the presence of the pair.

ISLAND ENJOYED

Yesterday the Coolidges found much of interest and delight at the island playground, where they were guests of William Wrigley, Jr., and to friends evinced much pleasure over the channel trip and the numerous features provided for tourists and visitors.

The Catalina Bird Park was the main point of the Coolidge second day on the island and they spent more than one hour in the seven and one-half-acre aviary. Hundreds of rare birds from all over the world have been placed in the park, and the noted visitors showed extreme interest in the various fowls.

BIRD TAKES OFF HAT

The gorgeous hues in the feathers of the peacocks that strutted through the park displaying their finery drew words of amazement from Mrs. Coolidge.

An auto drive over the island by the party, which consisted of the Coolidges, George M. and Mrs. Reynolds of the Continental Bank of Chicago, and the Wrigleys completed the morning, and the afternoon hours before embarking on the S.S. Catalina for the return trip to the mainland were spent at the Wrigley home.

CUBS SENT REGARDS

Mr. Coolidge was somewhat of a competitive attraction to a number of the players of the Chicago Cubs baseball team, who reached the island yesterday. He was unable to appear at the pier to welcome the men, but sent his regards through Mr. Wrigley.

Hundreds of island residents, as well as large number of visitors, were at the pier when the Coolidges bid the playground good-by, and they were given an ovation as they boarded the steamer. An equally large crowd was present at Los Angeles Harbor, when the steamer arrived and the former President and wife were cheered as they entered their auto to go to their suite at the Biltmore for a quiet evening.

Council Votes for Contract on Harbor Garbage

In spite of considerable opposition, the City Council yesterday adopted a resolution introduced by Councilman Henning whereby the Board of Public Works is authorized to enter into an emergency contract with the San Pedro Commercial Company for the collection of garbage in the harbor district. A five-year contract with the company expired last month.

Under the provisions of the charter the board can advertise for open bids on the work or, with authority from the Council, execute the contract without competitive bids. Councilmen Burns, Cooke, Randall and Williams voted against letting the contract in this manner.

UNSETTLED WEATHER FORECAST

Probable Rain Indicated as Storm Area Approaches from Northwest

Unsettled weather today and tomorrow with probable rain was predicted last night by the local United States Weather Bureau following a light storm Thursday that raised the local season's rain figure to 5.98 inches, 4.24 inches below normal.

A large low-pressure area of considerable intensity was working its way southward and coastward 1000 miles over the Pacific opposite Oregon and Washington yesterday, Col. H. B. Hersey, head of the local bureau, said.

This area caused the clouds that shrouded Southern California yesterday and last night and is expected to thicken them to the raining point today, according to the meteorologists.

Santa Barbara reported that the southbound storm struck there late last night, leaving .05 inches of rain

OIL-CUT AGREEMENT MADE

All Producing Fields in State Comprised in Pact to Hold Output at 611,000 Barrels Daily

Oil production in California is to be curtailed from 703,000 barrels to 611,000 barrels a day, according to a report released late yesterday by the Statewide General Committee.

The general curtailment order which for a time appeared to be on the rocks, was evidently saved yesterday when committees representing every producing field in the State agreed to keep the curtailment of oil production in effect until at least April 30.

The curtailment figure agreed upon was based on required pipeline runs to the refineries. It is generally understood among operators that 611,000 barrels is all that is needed, or at least until there is a greater demand for crude oil.

NORTHERN CUTS

Disagreement threatened during the early part of the sessions between the two committees. The principal flush fields of the State, which include Santa Fe Springs, Signal Hill, Seal Beach, Elwood, Ventura-avenue, Poso Creek, Round Mountain, Kern Front and Alamitos Heights, have been placed in Group No. 1. Operators of this group stated that the 50 per cent cut from the potential requested was too much to bear and as a result the fields in be asked to slash their total daily production an additional 45,000 bar-

Offers Submitted for Both Reconstruction and Enlargement Work

Thirteen construction firms yesterday submitted bids to the Board of Public Works for reconstruction of the Los Angeles Coliseum. The bids were referred to Parkinson & Parkinson, architects. The board hopes to be able to award the contract Monday.

The City Council and the Board of Supervisors each have appropriated $225,000 for the work. This includes replacing the upper wooden deck of the bowl with concrete. It is also planned to enlarge the structure by the addition of 25,000 seats. The bidders made offers on

AUTO SHOW ON TODAY; OLD AND NEW IN ARRAY

Side by side wit hrattletraps of a bygone day, more than 300 of the newest models in motor cars will be placed on exhibition today with the opening of the seventeenth annual Automobile Show in the Shrine Auditorium. The doors are to open at 2 p.m. and reveal the electrically lighted array of 1930 machines flanked by the quaint "horseless carriages" that were resurrected yesterday and driven to the Coliseum to compete for prizes in a preshow contest.

The formal opening is scheduled for 9 o'clock tonight, when Mary Pickford will appear in person and officiate at the ceremony. Al Jolson is to appear at the same hour Monday; John Barrymore on Tuesday; Norma Shearer, Wednesday; Dolores Del Rio, Thursday; Bebe Daniels, Friday, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Crawford, Saturday. Doors will open each day at 10 a.m., including tomorrow. Music will be furnished at both afternoon and evening sessions by Harold Roberts and his orchestra.

STRANGE PROCESSION

Yesterday's procession of old-time vehicles caused consternation in traffic. Motorists who chanced to be rolling along Figueroa street shortly before 11 a.m. were met by a cavalcade of strange-appearing vehicles. These had been "the latest models" shortly after the birth of the century.

A dozen or more of the ancient cars actually made the run under their own power from the Coliseum over to the Shrine Auditorium. The affair was a forerunner to the auto show.

The cars that participated recalled the early days of the motor car industry. To the younger generation they proved a revelation as to what "dad" and "mother" thought was pretty nifty stuff in the line of horseless carriages.

There was one that appeared to be literally a horseless carriage—high buggy wheels and top—a 1900 model Columbia, with two-cylinder engine under the seat, crank on the side of the body, and chain drive. It is owned by William Beaudine.

PLENTY OF NOISE

When these cars started down the road there was an almost unbelievable amount of clattering and banging, grinding of gears, hissing, and chug-chugging! And then the trail of blue smoke from the exhaust.

Their outstanding feature, as compared with present-day cars is, of course, small size and frail construction. Some look like toys.

JUDGE REFUSES BRIBE DISMISSAL

Berman and Getzoff Must be Tried, McComb Rules

Fitts Deplores Decision and Cites Legal Obligations

Prejudice Affidavit Filed; Pair Released from Jail

Precipitating one of the most unusual situations in California court annals, Superior Judge McComb yesterday refused a plea on the part of the District Attorney and others to dismiss a long-standing bribery indictment against Jacob Berman and Ben Getzoff, Julian case figures, and was only restrained from causing their immediate trial when affidavits asserting prejudice on the part of the court were filed.

Fitts and his chief deputy, Robert P. Stewart, moved the dismissal after Judge McComb had refused a continuance of the case against Getzoff and Berman, being forced to take such action, they said, because of an implied legal and moral obligation not to proceed against the two witnesses whose voluntary testimony is regarded as chiefly responsible for the conviction of former Dist.-Atty. Keyes, former Dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis and Ed Rosenberg on a conspiracy charge.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

The filing of the affidavits, Judge McComb ruled, under the law immediately removed his jurisdiction over the case, temporarily, at least, and he continued the trial date to March 5. As a result of the continuance and other court proceedings yesterday, the following developments are outstanding:

(1.) Getzoff and Berman, remanded to jail earlier in the day by Judge McComb, were released on a writ of habeas corpus shortly after 11 o'clock last night. The write was signed by Appellate Justices Work and Thompson and is returnable at 10 a.m. Wednesday before Division Two of the Appellate Court. Getzoff was released on his own recognizance while Berman posted $5000 bail. The elderly tailor, weak and trembly, was met at the jail gates by his son Dave.

(2.) The filing of the affidavit alleging prejudice on the part of the court make it mandatory that the defense attorneys agree on an impartial judge to hold a hearing to decide whether Judge McComb is or is not prejudiced against the defendants. In the event they are unable to agree on an impartial judge, the matter is automatically referred to Chief Justice Waste of the Supreme Court, who will settle the argument by appointing a judge of his own choice.

SITUATION STRAINED

(3.) With Dist.-Atty. Fitts, Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stewart and Dep. Dist.-Atty. McKay all in court doing everything in their power to cause a postponement or dismissal of the charges against Berman and Getzoff, and the court remaining adamant in refusing any such action, the flow of language was at times strained.

The proceedings opened with Attorney Mark Jones, for Getzoff, and Attorney Otto Christensen, for Jacob Berman, also known as Jack Bennett, at the counsel table, while Fitts, Stewart and McKay appeared for the prosecution.

Jones made the first move by filing a motion for a continuance of the case. Fitts declared that the State acquiesced in the motion. He declared that Berman had been convicted in Federal court and faced a seven-year sentence, and that both Berman and Getzoff had been used as material witnesses by the State in securing the conviction of high public officials, whose cases are still on appeal, and that the two defendants might have to repeat their testimony. Jones asserted that Getzoff was not ready for trial because he had been repeatedly informed by the District Attorney that he would not be tried on the charge.

MOTION DENIED

Judge McComb denied the motion for continuance without comment.

Attorneys Jones and Christensen then declared that they wished to put in a plea of double jeopardy on behalf of their clients, contending that both were codefendants with former Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Ed Rosenberg when the latter were convicted of bribery conspiracy a year ago; that the same facts were alleged in that indictment that are

KEYES MAKES FINAL PLEA

California Supreme Court Asked for Rehearing; Rosenberg Files Similar Petition

Basing his petition on substantially the same grounds on which he sought a rehearing before the District Court of Appeal, former Dist.-Atty. Asa Keyes, facing a sentence of from one to fourteen years in San Quentin prison for bribery, yesterday carried his case to the State Supreme Court.

The petition is a request for a hearing and is seventy-four pages in length. Replete with authorities and asserted precedents supporting the former prosecutor's contentions, the lengthy brief holds that manifest error occurred in the decision of the Appellate Court, that great injustice has been done unto the petitioner thereby and that the decision broke with established law.

Defense attorneys outline seven particulars in which they assert the Appellate Court erred or departed from fundamental principles of law, namely:

(1.) In sustaining the indictment against the petitioner;

(2.) In determining the sufficiency of evidence against the petitioner;

(3.) In upholding the admission in evidence of Harold (Buddy) Davis's letter of resignation;

(4.) In the decision involved in the Biltmore meeting, referring to an examination of Jacob Berman in the hostelry by Buron Fitts before Fitts became District Attorney;

(5.) In deciding the matter of impeachment;

(6.) In upholding the District Attorney against the petitioner's charges of misconduct, and,

(7.) In failing to decide the peti-

THE warlike talk of soviet Russia—how they are going to turn the Vatican into a museum—can be dismissed as a good stump speech to please the boys and girls down in the doubtful Eighth Ward.

Nevertheless, the next great war will be between Russia and Western Europe. Assuming that Russia develops an industrial efficiency and good railroads, it will be tough going for Western Europe.

By reason of her strategic situation Russia can invade other military nerve centers, but is next to impossible to invade. Her supply of war metal is adequate and her man power is unlimited. It behooves other European nations to smooth down Germany's fur. Anyone who has ever seen a map will realize that Germany holds the key to the situation.

THAT RUMANIAN FAMILY

The Rumanian government is holding up the marriage of the Princess Ileana until it finds out whether Count von Hochberg has a "past" that makes him unworthy to be a brother-in-law to Prince Carol.

INCOME TAXES

Another "income tax expert" is on the way to a prison cell—pointing the moral to the fact that the collection of this tax ought not to be so complicated that the services of an expert are required.

It is tough enough to be taxed for the privilege of living. It ought not to be so difficult that it becomes a nervous terror in the minds of well-intentioned citizens. The income tax is the most harsh, repressive, unreasonable, unjust penalty that the United States has ever levied.

THREATS

Just so, it isn't going to help the new director of the census to issue all these threats of prison—in case the worthy citizen does not dig up the secrets of his life. It is one thing to say he is going to send them all to jail; it will be quite another thing to get a jury to bring in a verdict of conviction.

HEADLIGHTS

Instead of raising the insurance rates it would be more to the point if automobile moguls would find some way to correct headlights.

Narrowly to escape running down some wandering pedestrian with headlights blazing into your eyes is a daily experience of every one who drives a motor car. Automobile engineers certainly have not distinguished themselves in the matter of headlights.

THE OLD RANCHO

The passing of the old Miller & Lux lands ends the story of a ranch 1000 miles long. It went back to the old range days when it was estimated that fourteen acres were necessary to support a steer. It is a problem where the meat of the future is to come from. Probably reindeer from Alaska—in which case they will have to call it "Alaska cow" if they are to persuade the children to eat Santa Claus's motive power.

GOV. YOUNG WILL SPEAK

Gov. Young will be the principal speaker at a meeting of America Lodge, No. 385, I.O.O.F., Thursday evening at Odd Fellows Temple, Washington and Oak streets. Other speakers will include Eugene Biscailuz, chief of the State Highway Motor Patrol.

CITY HONORS WASHINGTON

Numerous Affairs Scheduled All During Today; Iowans Will Gather at Lincoln Park

One hundred and ninety-eight years ago today a child was born in a small four-room farmhouse at Bridge's Creek on the Rappahannock near Fredericksburg, Va., who was destined later to bear the impressive title of "The Father of His Country" and to be known as "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

That George Washington still is first in the hearts of his countrymen is attested by the fact that after the passing of these years his memory yet has the power to stay the wheels of industry for a day while millions of persons throughout the land pay homage to his greatness.

Here the day will be the occasion for exercises in numerous patriotic societies and several State societies will celebrate the anniversary with picnics. Banks and city and county offices will be closed. The City Hall will be closed all day.

The Central Public Library and all branch libraries, however, will be open during the usual hours.

This afternoon the Red Cross Overseas Club of Los Angeles, composed of women of the city who served with the American Red Cross in Europe during the World War, will have a reunion tea and reception at the home of Miss Ethel Swope, 417 North Citrus street. She will be assisted by Miss Grace Walker. All women who were overseas in the Red Cross during the war as nurses, nurses' aides, canteen workers, at headquarters, as ambulance drivers, doctors, bacteriologists, searchers, in home communication service, as entertainers

LOVE SLAYINGS' STRATEGY TOLD

Husband Describes Watching Wife's Apartment

Then Depicts Shooting Man and Firing on Mate

Pretty Model Feared Fate, Friend Declares

Displaying little regret and characterizing his action as justifiable, Augustus A. Gingell, 38-year-old meat cutter, yesterday recited for police events of his married life which early yesterday morning came to a climax in the fatal shooting of his wife Vera, 36, erstwhile model and actress, and Sigurd Bjorneby, 37, tile setter.

Gingell sat on a bench outside his cell at the City Jail. He calmly faced Captain of Detectives Cato. His hands rested quietly on his knees as he spoke of the double slaying in a business-like tone of voice. A picture of his dead wife awoke no apparent emotional response.

"SHE CHEATED," HE SAID

"She cheated on me," he said. "She lied to me. She was good looking; a model. She attracted other men. That was all right. I trusted her. I gave her the benefit of the doubt as long as I could. But last night I found the absolute evidence of her unfaithfulness. They both had it coming to them."

Gingell said they were married in Portland, Or., in 1919. Last year they were in Washington, D. C. His wife returned here in November, 1929. He followed her in January. She had been living, he said, with Miss Jean Chippellar of 253 South Lake street.

"I learned things that caused me to suspect her," he declared. "We had arguments. She denied any wrongdoing. But she said she wouldn't live with me. Yesterday I helped her rent an apartment at 1225 West Sixth street.

WATCHED APARTMENT

"Last night about 9 o'clock I called her. She said she had several friends with her and that they were going out on a quiet party. I believed she was lying so I went to the apartment-house, hid behind a signboard and watched her apartment."

Shortly before midnight, according to police, Gingell said he observed the lights go out. His wife did not appear on the street. He walked into the apartment-house and to his wife's rooms. He let himself in with a duplicate key. He switched on the lights.

Gingell said he saw his wife and Bjorneby sit up quickly in bed. The latter started to crawl out. Gingell leveled a .45-caliber automatic pistol.

"I fired one shot," Gingell said, according to police, "and it went wild. Then he came toward me with a chair and I fired again." This bullet, police say, struck Bjorneby in the forehead, killing him instantly.

SHOOTS WIFE TWICE

As Bjorneby fell Mrs. Gingell started to crawl out of bed.

"I asked her to come with me," Gingell said he told her.

"Get out of here," she cried, according to Gingell.

"She came toward me and I fired," he declared.

The bullet struck the woman in the right leg. Gingell declared his wife then collapsed on the edge of the bed and that the second shot he fired struck her in the head and knocked her to the floor.

After examining the room Detective Lieutenant Condaffer stated he found a bullet in the floor directly under the spot where Mrs. Gingell was found, indicating the second and fatal shot was fired into her head as she lay flat on the floor at her husband's feet.

GIVES SELF UP

"I just shot my wife and a man," he said simply. Hoffman took Gingell into custody and telephoned detectives.

A few minutes later Detectives Sanford, Ryan and Condaffer rushed into the West Sixth-street apartment. Bjorneby was dead. Mrs. Gingell, though unconscious, was living. She died within a few moments at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Bjorneby, according to police, comes from a well-to-do family in Oslo, Norway. He lived here with his brother, Fred Bjorneby, at 215 1-4 South Coronado street. He was single and had no other relatives living here.

Gingell said he was employed in a butcher shop in Glendale. His wife, he said, worked occasionally at the motion-picture studios and as a model.

INQUEST MONDAY

After his arrest on a charge of murder Gingell was taken to the apartment and there, according to the detectives, calmly reconstructed the slaying for them.

An inquest will be conducted at the Coroner's office Monday at 1:30 p.m. In the meantime police will request a murder complaint from the District Attorney's office, they said.

That Gingell had contemplated the climax of his asserted marital difficulties was indicated in a diary which police found in his rooms at 1039 South Hope street and by a note taken from his coat pocket.

HIS DIARY FOUND

The diary, police said, was written in pencil on a piece of cardboard taken from a laundered shirt. The brief notes substantiate, police say, the meat cutter's story that he had recently kept close watch upon his wife. They were as follows:

"Tuesday a.m.: Jeanne herself counted as nine for dinner Monday night.

"Tuesday night: No dinner at Savante's apartment but at their own and only two of them. Savante arrived at 10:15.

"Wednesday night: V. stayed with me.

"Thursday night: V. went out and Jean and Silvia brought her home at 10:15, and they both went to bed.

"Friday night: With me out to Roy Simmons.

"Saturday night: With me Hotel Delsa, also Sunday.

"Sunday night: Too 9:30 Bjorneby to dinner at Maisons on Sixth near Alvarado. Then M.W.C.W. Then home. Just Vera and B.G.?

"Monday night: Vera ate at the Hot Spot by herself at 7 p.m. Went home entertained? until 9 o'clock when B.J.? called and took her for a short walk.

NOTE IN POCKET

"Tuesday night: Vera and Burneby returned home in a Red Top taxi at 11:45. He stayed until 12:30 and went home in a Red Top. Silvia walked to his apartment with him. Then they all, Jean, too, looked for me but failed.

"Tuesday night, Feb. 18th: Vera supposed to have worked all night at the Universal studios."

The note said to have been found in Gingell's possession read:

"Please phone my wife, Vera Gingell, 1225 West Sixth street, Apartment 32, Mu. 0786. I am A. A. Gingell. Mother, Mrs. F. C. Gingell, 832 Woodlawn avenue, Toledo, Ohio. Brother, Ray Ramsey, real estate, South Gate, California."

Gingell told police that before he became a butcher he served four years in the Marine Corps.

WIFE FEARED FATE

Jean Chappelar, interviewed late yesterday by the detectives at her home at 253 South Lake street, declared that Mrs. Gingell had often spoken of a fear that her husband would kill her and then end his own life. Gingell, she said, was a habitual drinker. She stated that Mrs. Gingell had roomed with her since November last.

Ray Ramsey, the name contained in the note found in Gingell's possession, is that of a brother of Mrs. Gingell, according to Detective Lieutenant Condaffer. He was found at 4117 Welk street, Bell, Cal.

He could throw little light on the marital troubles of his sister, Condaffer stated, as he declared he had not seen much of her during the last six years.

No other relatives of the dead woman were found.

Council Balks at Use of Room for Convention

The City Council yesterday refused to adopt the precedent of turning over the Council chamber to conventions, by voting down, 6-to-7 a motion by Councilman Ingram that the chamber be opened to the State Executive Committee of the American Legion on Saturday, March 22 and Sunday, March 23.

Councilman Davis suggested Patriotic Hall as the place for the meeting, and also pointed out that if one organization uses the chamber, the Council cannot in good grace refuse any of the other fifty-two conventions scheduled for Los Angeles in the next few months.

Councilman Burns reminded his colleagues that several city employees would be required to work on their day off to accommodate the meeting.

CHAMBER BUREAU ELECTS

FIRE PERILS APARTMENT STRUCTURE

Costly Windsor Edifice on Seventh Street Saved After Hard Battle

Gaining considerable headway before it was discovered, fire late yesterday threatened destruction to the Windsor Apartments, a fashionable and elaborately appointed six-story structure at 3198 West Seventh street. Damage, most of which was caused by water, is estimated at several thousand dollars.

The blaze was discovered by Eugene Klauber, Detroit business man, who occupies an apartment on the top floor. He was on his way to his quarters, when he smelled smoke. Investigating, he traced it to a point below a storage room located in the attic. There, according to his report, he found an overheated elevator motor had plunged through to the sixth floor, setting fire to the surrounding walls.

Klauber sounded an alarm and engine companies responded. The firemen attacked the flames through windows of the upper stories, pouring huge amounts of water into the building before pronouncing the fire under control.

A number of apartments were rendered temporarily uninhabitable by the combination of flames, smoke and water.

The apartment-house is owned by S. Rabinowitch and managed by Mrs. M. O. Young. Neither was able last night to place an estimate on the damage done, but agreed it will amount to several thousand dollars.

Council Again Cuts Down on Gas Buggies

The City Council had its weekly round-up yesterday on automobiles, drivers, expense accounts and so forth. The net result is that Council automobiles and drivers are to be restricted to four for the common run of Councilmen and one each for President Sanborn. Any Councilman, however, who wants to use his own car can do so, expending gasoline and oil within the limits of $75 a month in city service.

This new proposition, which eliminates three cars, was proposed by Councilman Cooke, who contends that $46,000 is too much to spend annually for an aldermanic transportation system. Councilman Davis moved the elimination of all cars. This motion lost, 7 to 7.

Councilman Webster moved that the official costume for Councilmen be established as short pants and Eton collars. Webster's motion lacked a second, so no vote was taken.

Scenic Reserve Sign Removal Plan Advanced

A. Camarillo of Ventura county announced yesterday to the highway committee of the State Chamber of Commerce that he has agreed to co-operate with the State-wide plans of the State Chamber of Commerce for the removal of signs from scenic areas, and that signs will no longer be allowed to be placed on the road from Conejo Grade to the oil wells.

This is the first completed section of road as originally outlined by the highway committee of the State Chamber which is now fully signed and will be recognized by the State as a scenic reserve. A county committee of the State chamber, headed by John P. Thille of Ventura county, is responsible for this accomplishment. A similar committee now is functioning in Los Angeles county.

It is expected that this State-wide program will be complete within a year and that approximately 2700 miles will be definitely set aside as scenic reserve upon which no commercial advertising will be allowed.

Rabbi to Speak on Corner-stone Laying Program

A program has been arranged for the corner-stone-laying ceremonies of the new Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Fountain avenue, Berendo and Catalina streets, tomorrow at 10 a.m. I. Irving Lipsitch, executive secretary of the Federation of Jewish Welfare Organizations, in charge of the program, announced that immediately following the ceremony those in attendance will have an opportunity to go through the hospital and nurse's home, which are now practically complete.

RABBI EDGAR F. MAGNIN

The program will include remarks by J. Y. Baruh, Lemuel Goldwater, George Mossbacher, Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin and Joe Scott.

PLASTER CAST FOR "TROJAN" EXHIBITED

The plaster cast of "The Trojan," heroic statue designed and executed by Roger Noble Burnham, Los Angeles sculptor, to be presented to the University of Southern California by Trojan alumni as a fiftieth birthday gift to their alma mater, is to be exhibited at the Building Arts and Crafts Exhibit, 169 North La Brea avenue today. The eight-foot statue recently was completed in clay and the plaster model is to go to the California Art Bronze Works, where it will be cast, for unveiling and dedication on the U.S.C. campus during the semicentennial celebration in June.

DEAD ROMANCE STALKS AT WEDDING

Alimony Ghost Intrudes Upon Ceremony of Film Folk

Hymen's Bells Jangled

Wedding interrupted as process server and child greet groom. Left to right—Mrs. Veoda Westmore, Muriel Westmore, 7 years of age; Ernest Westmore, and process server as he reaches in pocket for writ. Bride, in white, is seen back of Westmore. (Inset) close-up of bride and groom.

There are times when cameras become distasteful, even to motion-picture folk, it was discovered last night when Ernest Westmore, chief make-up man at the R.-K.-O. studios, became so resentful at the photographing of a scene which climaxed his wedding to Ethlyne Clair, Wampas baby star, that he broke away from his bride to pursue the offending photographer and break his camera.

The scene took place on the steps of the Hollywood Presbyterian Church and the dramatics personnae included D. W. Walters, a process server from the office of Attorney Hugh L. Dickson and Westmore's divorce wife, Mrs. Veoda Westmore, and their 7-year-old daughter. The process server had stationed himself on the church steps to serve a summons on Westmore to appear March 6 in Superior Court to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt for being in arrears in alimony payments.

CHILD AS DECOY

As the bride and groom emerged from the church, Westmore's little daughter started for him with hands held out in an appealing gesture. Westmore turned to speak to the child and at that moment Walters stepped up and thrust the papers into his hands. And also at the same moment a news photographer's flashlight boomed.

Westmore leaped into action. He disentangled himself from the arm of his bride and leaped down the steps in pursuit of the photographer. The photographer, Joe Mingo, took to his heels but Westmore overtook him, leaped on his back and knocked the camera to the ground. Then a reporter grabbed Westmore and pinioned his arms but in the menatime an unidentified man, thought to be a friend of Westmore's, snatched the camera from the ground and extracted what he thought was the plate bearing the offending picture. He was wrong.

All of this happened before any of the several policemen at the scene could get into the fray. When one of the policemen reached the battle arena he took hold of the photographer and forced him to go to the Hollywood police station. No charge was made against Mingo at the station and he was released as soon as he arrived. He announced, however, that he will swear out a complaint at the City Prosecutor's office against Westmore for assault and battery and destruction of property.

ALIMONY UNPAID

Dickson, attorney for the first Mrs. Westmore, said last night that the alimony action is based on a property agreement made in June, 1928, before Mrs. Westmore obtained her final decree of divorce, and subsequently incorporated into the divorce decree. Under this agreement, he said, Westmore agreed to pay his former wife $50 a month as long as she remains unmarried and $75 a month for the support of their child.

Last August, Dickson added, his client had Westmore cited for contempt on the assertion that he was $1200 in arrears. At that time, Dickson said, Judge Rosenkrans sentenced Westmore to five days in jail but suspended sentence when Westmore promised not only to make the payments in the future but also to pay $50 a month in addition until he had made up the arrears. It is on the assertion that this promise has not been kept that Dickson is basing the present action. The dramatic service of the papers on the steps of the church, Dickson said, was made necessary by the inability of process servers to locate the bridegroom before.

TWILIGHT WEDDING

The wedding itself was a quiet affair attended by many of the elite of the motion-picture colony. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Williamson of this city, was given away by her father and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. E. Fry. The church was lit by candles and the vows were spoken in front of a flower-laden altar.

The bride's only attendant was Charlotte Merriam as matron of honor and the bridegroom had as best man John Davidson, actor. The ushers were Ruben Licker, Don Douglas and Dan Danker. Following the ceremony and the episode on the church steps a reception was held at the Breakfast Club.

within an hour, Santa Marria and Lompoc, north of Santa Barbara, also was visited by a night precipitation.

Moderate winds and temperature will prevail during the approach of the storm, the report stated. The low-pressure area that resulted in Thursday's local wetting has moved inland over the Dakotas.

Pomona and Ontario were the only close-in areas reporting rain yesterday. They evidently were visited by between-storm showers that registered .02 inches in Pomona and .06 inches in Ontario.

The Southern California Edison Company dispatchers stated that none of the stations along the company's transmission line from here to Huntington Lake in the high Sierras reported snow or rain yesterday.

NORTH OF STATE GETS NEW RAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (Exclusive)—Skirting the bay district, a storm area traveling eastward caused rain today in the northern part of the State and the San Joaquin Valley, and left additional snow in the Sierras. Five inches fell at Norden, the Sierra summit, making forty-two inches there at 3 p.m. with more scheduled.

A widespread storm area is centered 400 miles west of Cape Blanco, Or., the weather bureau reported, with prospects it will cause more rain and snow north of Tehachapi.

Precipitation in inches reported by official northern stations at 5 p.m., was:

E. H. Rosenberg, convicted with Keyes, also filed a petition for a Supreme Court hearing, being represented by Attorney LeCompte Davis.

The petition sets forth that the District Court of Appeal held the indictment sufficient notwithstanding numerous authorities and Appellate Court decisions holding that in principle conspiracy cannot grow out of facts similar to those in this case and that the decision enunciates new principles of law not heretofore established by any decision of the appellate courts of California.

SHIPYARD CHANGES NEAR

George A. Armes to Take Control of Los Angeles Plant March 1, According to Latest Report

Control and operation of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation will be assumed by George A. Armes, president of the General Engineering and Dry Dock Company of San Francisco, not later than March 1, under tentative plans reported completed yesterday. Mr. Armes previously had announced that he would assume control of the local shipyards on April 1.

Shipyard officials said yesterday that all business of an executive nature is being stayed until Mr. Armes assumes control.

Negotiations for a reorganization of the shipbuilding company have been in progress since December 10, last, when Mr. Armes first made a survey of the San Pedro plant. The deal is the forerunner of a ship-construction program of the first magnitude. A week ago when the first announcements were made that Mr. Armes would be associated with the Los Angeles company, he said there were indications that a huge shipbuilding program was about to start on the Pacific Coast.

The Southern California identity and present name of the shipyard will be retained under the operation of Mr. Armes, he explained, and said that the company will be entirely separate from the General Engineering and Dry Dock Company.

The Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, with a lease of seventy acres on Smith's Island, fronting on the west basin of the harbor, employed during the height of the World War period, more than 10,000 men and built thirty-five cargo steamers under the emergency construction program.

Mr. Armes, in discussing the future of the American shipbuilding industry, said that it is probable that the Pacific Coast yards will receive a good share of the building now in prospect in the country as Atlantic Coast yards are taxed to their capacity.

BIRTH OF SOUTHLAND CITIES TO BE TRACED

His subject will be "The Birth of Southern California Cities," and will be illustrated with slides from the Security-First National Bank's historical collection. Mr. Hill is known as the author of "La Reina," a history of Los Angeles in three centuries.

A report of the Health and Sanitation Committee, authorizing the full-time services of a nurse at the Venice branch receiving hospital was adopted by the City Council yesterday, Councilmen Burns, Cooke and Davis voting against the measure.

JUDGE LINDSEY UPHELD BY BAR

License to Practice Law in California Sustained

Jurist to Ask Reinstatement in Colorado Next

Disbarred for Cause That Does Not Exist, He Says

Victorious in his fight before the Bar of California to retain his license to practice law in this State, former Judge Ben Lindsey announced yesterday that he will file a petition in Colorado for reinstatement.

Attorney William H. Neblett, representing the former Denver judge, said the petition will be based on two Colorado Supreme Court decisions holding the petitioner was not a judge, in that he had not been elected for 1926, when he was asserted to have accepted $37,500 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, divorced wife of W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire.

NO CAUSE, SAYS JUDGE

The judge contends he has been disbarred for a cause that does not exist.

After President Charles A. Beardsley of the State Bar had announced the organization's decision for the judge, Judge Lindsey said that he is "pleased but not surprised." Attorney Neblett said he and his associates "expected the decision." After a full review of the facts, he said, it was clear there was nothing to show misconduct either in Colorado or in admission to practice in California.

BEARDSLEY'S VIEWS

President Beardsley said:

"The State Bar's investigation has failed to disclose that there was any irregularity in connection with Judge Ben Lindsey's admission to the California bar. Apparently, there was a disclosure made by Judge Lindsey to the Board of Bar Examiners in reference to the charges then pending in Colorado.

"For these reasons, the board of governors has decided that the facts do not justify it in asking the Supreme Court of California to set aside its order admitting Judge Lindsey, or in taking any other action in reference to the matter."

"I have always loved California," Judge Lindsey said in commenting on the verdict, "and I am deeply grateful for the justice this great State has given me."

LAWYERS DISCIPLINED

After disposing of the Lindsey case, the Bar Association governors dealt with two other local attorneys. They recommended the disbarment of William M. Aydelotte on the assertion that he converted to his own use $7600 which he had agreed to invest in a building-and-loan company for Virginia Huddleson eighteen years ago. Aydelotte replied that the loan was made to him and he offered in evidence a copy of a promissory note, the original of which he asserted had been destroyed after ink was spilled on it.

The board also reprimanded William R. Elam "for general misconduct in the Los Angeles courts."

The governors reminded that several hundred lawyers will have to pay penalties if they fail to remit their annual dues before next Saturday.

Getzoff was granted probation after being convicted when he turned State's evidence, and testified against former Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Harold Davis and Trial Deputy McKay.

After hearing considerable more argument along these lines, Judge McComb allowed the pleas to be but reserved ruling on them directed that the trial pro-

FITTS INTERVENES

With every other recourse apparently overruled, Dist.-Atty. Fitts arose and declared that he, the part of the prosecution, de- to make a motion for dismissal of the case and at the same deliver a few comments. Judge McComb directed him to make the first and he would entertain the comments later.

Fitts was followed by Stewart, presented technical grounds in of the motion to dismiss. In they were as follows:

(1) That the defendants had re- immunity from prosecution the District Attorney after testified in behalf of the in various cases that he cited.

(2) That Berman and Getzoff been in jeopardy already.

(3) That the District Attorney's is at the present time not pos- of sufficient evidence on to convict, and there was no that such testimony be forthcoming from any

In closing Stewart told the court to deny the motion would leave other interpretation but that McComb believed that there some irregularity in the District Attorney's handling of the and, if such a belief existed, court had recourse to the Attorney-General's office.

Fitts and Stewart argued decisions of the Appellate upheld the plea of double- in the case, and that court procedure resulted in when they were asked by District Attorney's office.

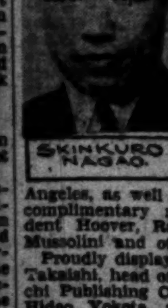
ENVOY OF GOOD WILL ARRIVES

Japanese Student Going on World Journey

International Pease Said to Be Easy Possibility

Prohibition Law Praised as Economic Success

Voicing amazement at "the mechanical wonders and also the immense traffic of your great city," Shinkuro Nagao, who represents the Students Association of Japan and who is on a world tour to study social conditions of various countries, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, armed with introductory letters from Japanese educators to civic and business leaders of Los Angeles, as well as a valise full of complimentary messages to President Hoover, Ramsay MacDonald, Mussolini and other world leaders.



SKINKURO NAGAO

Proudly displaying letters from Takaishi, head of the Osaka Mainichi Publishing Company, and from Hideo Yokota, president of University, Mr. Nagao, who is accompanied by his friend, Miki, announced that his business in touring the world is to help spread the gospel of good will among nations.

"International peace is inevitable, but why should the world continue to postpone that happy condition," said Nagao. "The fact that peoples differ in color, traditions, and forms of government does not prevent them from living amiably together in the beautiful world that was created for all men. Representative men and women of various countries should make international visits, studying one another's customs and cultures, especially languages, for, as an old sage once said, 'who knows my grammar knows my God.'"

Discussing his own country, Mr. Nagao commended the progress made there within the last fifty years but said that Japan could profit by adopting many of the methods and institutions of the people of the United States, mentioning especially woman suffrage and higher education for women.

Asked his opinion of prohibition, Nagao said that from the standpoints of public safety and industrial progress alone America's "great experiment" already has proved to be a commendable government policy.

CENSUS-AID CAMPAIGN PLANS LAID

Details of Publicity Drive Prepared at Conference of Chamber Groups

A county-wide publicity campaign to emphasize the importance of the coming government census was planned in detail yesterday at a conference of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce census publicity committee and representatives of more than twenty chambers in various parts of the county.

Newspapers are to be the principal medium employed, according to plans formulated, but luncheon club talks, brief radio announcements and essays for school children also are contemplated. A plan was approved for equipping enumerators with identification buttons. Special attention is to be given to aiding in the distribution of the blanks which the Census Bureau provides for families who will be away from home during the enumeration period.

Young Orators in High School Honor Group

Three contestants in the annual Oratorical Contest on the Constitution are among twenty-six Hollywood High School students who recently received California Scholarship Federation pins for maintaining scholastic records. The students, who will deliver their orations in the Hollywood district contest March 10 to 12, are William Dunlap, James Green and James Pike.

Managers Sue Gary Cooper

Gary Cooper, film actor, owes $1875 to two Hollywood employment brokers, it is asserted in a suit filed yesterday in Municipal Court.

Harry H. Littig and Ben Enlanger, brokers, in their complaint charge that since August 25, 1929, they have been business managers for Cooper and that as such they are entitled to 5 per cent of his salary, the amount named in the complaint.

New Lindbergh Plane on Show at Glendale Port

The new Lockheed Sirius monoplane of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will be on exhibition for the first time today and tomorrow at Grand Central Air Terminal in Glendale, as one of the highlights of the aircraft display and entertainment in celebration of the first anniversary of the airdrome's founding.

More than forty other ships will be available for close-up inspection by visitors, while the new $150,000 cafe and dining salon will open its doors tonight for a dinner-dance. Dinner will be served on the second floor dining-room, overlooking the landing field, tomorrow night. The three-day celebration started last night with a formal dinner-dance attended by 150 of Southern California's aviation leaders.

Guides will be provided for the 10,000 persons expected to visit the port over the week-end.

The Glendale airdrome, according to Curtiss-Wright officials, is the starting or landing point of more than one-fourth of all scheduled air transportation in the country. Capt. H. E. Collins is president of the air terminal.

Explorer Tells of Arctic Trip

Donald McMillan, Arctic explorer and adventurer, spoke last night at a reception given in his honor by the Theta Delta Chi Graduate Association, at the Chamber of Commerce. He exhibited his film taken during his sojourn in the Far North. About eighty-five guests were present.

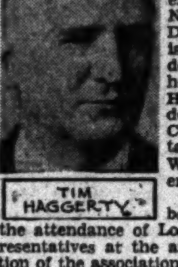
Mr. McMillan arrived yesterday morning from Honolulu and was met at the dock by members of his fraternity and escorted to the University Club where he will stay while in Los Angeles.

WIFE'S REPLY QUOTED

Mrs. Navada Margaret Eaton told her husband, Dale Eaton, it was none of his business when he accused her of associating with other men, the husband told Superior Judge Yankwich yesterday when granted a divorce. The couple married in 1927 and separated in 1929.

Veterans Plan Trip to Paris

Officers of the Three Hundred and Forty-seventh Field Artillery Association arrived here last night to confer with Col. Louis E. Bennett of Hollywood, regarding the proposed excursion of the Ninety-first Division to Paris in 1933. The delegation is headed by Tim Haggerty, president; Harry Caldwell, secretary, and Oliver Walsh, treasurer.



TIM HAGGERTY

Plans also will be discussed for the attendance of Los Angeles representatives at the annual celebration of the association, scheduled for April 25, next, at the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco, and at which William Boyd, actor, will be master of ceremonies.

Search for Dog Burglary Alibi

W. I. Aiken, close friend of Dallas Van Cleve, testified in Superior Judge Aggeler's court yesterday that he and Van Cleve were driving around near Echo Park searching for a stray dog at the time Mrs. Josephine Hill charges Van Cleve entered her home and stole $140 in cash and jewels valued at $4000.

Mrs. Hill had testified she was attending a party at the home of Van Cleve on the night of the burglary and had handed her keys to him requesting that he search for her Pomeranian dog which had strayed. Mrs. Hill accuses Van Cleve of using the keys to open her apartment.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION FILED BY PALMIST

Marian La Velle, a palmist of Venice, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, in which she asserts that she owes $1554.43, mostly for radio, rental for her establishment, furniture and household goods, and that she has $185, of which $175 is exempt.

BELL LAND URGED FOR PARK

Residents Ask Council to Initiate Condemnation Proceedings to Forestall Cement Mill in Hills

A request that steps be taken toward acquiring for a public park the site of Alphonzo Bell's proposed cement quarry in the residential area of the Santa Monica Mountains was filed with the City Council yesterday by Thorwald Siegfried, attorney for the Home Zone Defense Association, the organization of property owners combating the cement scheme.

It is asked that the Council instruct the City Attorney and City Engineer to prepare petitions for the formation of a municipal improvement district, which then will vote on the proposition of issuing bonds for the purchase of 710 acres. The signatures of 20 per cent of the electors in the proposed district are necessary to form the district.

Siegfried's proposal suggests that the amount of the bonds be limited to $1,000,000, with interest not to exceed 7 per cent. The outlines of the proposed district are bounded by the city limits on the west, Mulholland High Way on the north, Beverly Hills on the east and Santa Monica on the south.

In a formal opinion rendered to the Mayor last night City Attorney Werner declared that the proposal to amend the Bell cement mill ordinance with minor restrictions as to trucking will have no effect upon the referendum now being circulated against it by the home owners.

The opinion, however, recites that "it would seem a safe procedure not to amend the ordinance prior to the effective date of the original ordinance."

The home owners protested against the proposal of amendment, contending that it might force them to circulate an additional set of petitions at added expense, as well as befogging the issue. The opinion declares that inasmuch as the filing of a referendary petition holds up the effective date of the ordinance, amendments thereto will have no force. The opinion was written by Deputy City Attorney Kitzmiller.

Another opinion, given to City Clerk Dominguez, states that the signatures of voters who have registered since the first of the year only are effective.

CLOCK AFFECTS CITY SKYLINES

Height of Skyscrapers Said to be Limited in Seconds

Length of Elevator Trip to Top Decisive Factor

Builder of New York Cloud Piercers Visits in City

Heights to which buildings will soar in American cities of the future depend not upon the cost of materials, nor upon the solution of intricate engineering problems nor, indeed, upon anything so prosaic as land values but, rather, upon a fraction of time—specifically, upon a minute and one-half.

Col. William A. Starrett of New York, head of one of the country's largest construction firms, who is completing the tallest American skyscraper, the seventy-story Bank of Manhattan Building in New York, and embarking upon the building of a still loftier structure, the eighty-five-story Empire State Building, told of the ninety-second restriction yesterday at the Biltmore.

LONG ELEVATOR TRIP

The minute and one-half is the length of time which will be required for a trip from the ground floor to the eighty-fifth floor of the cloud-piercing Empire State Building, which will tower 1300 feet above New York.

"There is a lot of difference," said Col. Starrett, "between an ordinary minute and one-half and a minute and one-half in an elevator. The question is whether or not a minute and one-half in an elevator will exhaust the patience of the public—that question, and, also, a question as to whether or not the novelty of extremely tall buildings will persist."

Col. Starrett arrived yesterday with the expectation of remaining in Southern California until the middle of next week. He is bent, he said, 90 per cent on pleasure and 10 per cent on self-education.

CITY HALL CITED

The visitor declared construction men can learn much from Los Angeles. He pointed to the City Hall, Public Library and Biltmore Hotel building as among structures known the world over.

"Los Angeles is astounding," he commented.

Col. Starrett refused to be drawn into the controversy, started by Charles A. Abbott of the American Institute of Steel Construction, Inc., in an address at a State Chamber of Commerce meeting at Del Monte, as to whether or not height restrictions should be removed in Los Angeles.

FREE BOAT RIDES WILL DRAW MANY

Excursions Today Will be Final Event of Foreign Trade Week Celebration

Free boat excursions, planned in connection with the celebration of Harbor Day, the final event of Foreign Trade Week, are expected to draw thousands of visitors to Los Angeles Harbor today. Burt Edwards, general manager of the Los Angeles Harbor Department, is in charge of the trips. The boats will leave the foot of First street, San Pedro, and the municipal wharf, Long Beach, between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Special guides will accompany each excursion.

Ships in port during the day will be open to the public if not engaged in loading or discharging cargo. Interest will be centered in the new Panama Pacific liner Virginia, which may be inspected from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Passes to the ship will be required, but may be obtained either at the Los Angeles or San Pedro Chambers of Commerce or at the steamer dock.

Roy H. Beaton, secretary of the San Pedro Chamber, announces that ample parking-space will be provided for motorists visiting the harbor.

Armistice in the "ginger ale war" was proclaimed by Superior Judge Gates yesterday, when he postponed the injunction suit brought by Dry Ginger Ale Company against the Arrowhead Springs Beverage Company until next Wednesday.

The case was continued because of the illness of Rollin McNitt, attorney for the Arrowhead Springs Beverage Company, and secretary for the firm. Miss Edith Jacobs, employed in McNitt's office, appeared in court and asked for the continuance, explaining that McNitt had been taken suddenly ill.

Meyer and Samuel Fishman sued the Arrowhead company to enjoin them from selling "California Extra Dry" ginger ale, asserting that name is an infringement on the plaintiff's brand, "California Dry Pale" ginger ale.

RITES FOR MRS. BURNS, PIONEER, TO BE TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Josephine Carpenter Burns, widow of J. Frank Burns, will be conducted at 3 p.m. today from the W. A. Brown mortuary, followed by burial in Rosedale Cemetery. Mrs. Burns died Thursday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Roy Peelor, 4228 West First street. She was born in Los Angeles, April 18, 1856, being one of this community's first American children. Her father, Frank Carpenter, was jailer for many years. Mrs. Burns was an active member of the Native Daughters, and of the Los Angeles Pioneer Society, and was a director of the South Pasadena Orphans' Home. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Joie Chandler of Orange and Mrs. Pearl Peelor of Los Angeles, a sister, Mrs. Henrietta Davis of Glendale, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

It would do your heart good to read some of the wonderfully laudatory letters received from students who have taken instructions in candy making, chocolate dipping and cake icing from the Liberty Candy Co. Ribbons and delicately figured silks are best preserved in brown paper wrappings; the lime in white paper will bleach them in a short time.

To test linen.—Place a drop of glycerine on linen; if it is quickly absorbed the material is linen; if it rolls up in a drop the material is cotton. Another test is to put a few drops of water on the material; if it soaks in quickly it is linen.

To remove shine from black silk, dissolve one ounce of rock ammonia and ½ ounce of white castile soap in a pint of hot water; when dissolved, dip a small sponge in the solution and gently rub the shiny spots.

To wash dress shields use lukewarm soapy water and a teaspoonful of baking soda; do not rub soap directly on the shields, but on a small brush and brush both sides of the shields vigorously with the warm water; rinse in lukewarm water and dry in a shady, airy place.

This week's Lenten suggestion and recipe is a winner! Of course, it calls for one of the Guasti products—this time it is Guasti Cooking Sherry, which adds to the deliciousness of a recipe just a 100 per cent.

Copy the following carefully and use it during the days when we, figuratively speaking, don sack cloth and ashes.

2 tablespoonfuls flour.
1 cupful rich milk or cream, dash of cayenne.
1 teaspoonful paprika.
2 egg yolks.
2 cupfuls meat (with spines removed.)
½ teaspoonful lemon juice.
2 tablespoonfuls Guasti Cooking Sherry.
2-3 cupful buttered crumbs.
6 slices of lemon.

Melt butter, stir in flour and heated milk. Add seasoning and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add slightly beaten egg yolks and crab meat; cook three minutes. Stir in lemon juice and Sherry. Put mixture into crab shells or ramekins and cover with buttered crumbs. Place slice of lemon sprinkled with paprika on top of each serving. Bake in hot oven until brown. Serves six.

So often we are at a loss to know what to do with clothes which we no longer wear and articles of all kinds which have become useless to us . . . here then is just the news you want. Send all items of the sort to the Children's Hospital Salvage Department, 712 Maple Ave. (TUcker 1203.) They will be grateful for all such donations! You thus aid a very worthy charity and help some wee bairn to get well.

What have you done with your broken silver-backed comb, discarded it? Did you know the comb can be replaced by the Peerless Platers, 239½ S. Spring street (upstairs)? They do the work beautifully and their charges are most modest. Take all your worn silver to them to be replated.

For airing clothing, if a porch or yard hammock standard is available it will be found a great convenience. Remove the hammock, place each garment on a hanger and suspend it from the top bar of the standard; they will not slide together as they do on a clothesline, besides being a simpler and more effective way of airing clothing.

One doesn't have to be an expert to decorate and paint unfinished furniture—on the contrary amateurs are just as proficient as can be providing they have the right materials to work with . . . and by "materials" I mean Pratt and Lambert's "61" Lacquer paint, which goes on smooth as glass and dries while you are saying "Jack Robinson"! This lacquer, of course, you buy from Mathews Paint Company. All three of their stores sell it. And the brushes you obtain from them, too. Also any decorations such as flowers or fruit pictures which are applied with no trouble at all.

Now for addresses of Mathews Paint Company: You find one at 1245 S. Hill; a second at 1559 N. Vine (Hollywood) and a third is located at 740 E. Green, Pasadena.

You haven't the slightest conception of how utterly delicious the Laura C. To clean a white kid belt, put it in a small basin, cover it with gasoline and let it soak a few minutes; take up the belt with a piece of clean flannel and work off the dirt, rubbing one way only. Let the dirt settle in the gasoline and carefully pour off the clean gasoline into another basin, adding a little more to it; rinse the belt again and rub with clean flannel till the belt is clean when dry. White kid gloves may also be cleaned in this way.

Of course, you have been intending to have some new Fluff rugs made from the old carpets you no longer have need for, so why don't you call up the Hoffman Rug Works, 2914 W. To wash velveteen.—Wash in lukewarm, soapy water; do not twist in wringing, but press it between the hands; after wringing, shake well and hang it near a stove or radiator, right side toward the heat to bring up the pile. When quite dry place the velveteen on a thick blanket and carefully iron it on the wrong side.

To wash chamois.—Use only lukewarm water with a very little mild soap or soap flakes dissolved in it; rub it in the hands until clean, then rinse in two of three lukewarm waters; squeeze (do not wring it) and hang in the sun; when nearly dry rub it between the hands so it will not dry stiff.

A program which includes several widely known speakers and diversified musical numbers has been arranged to entertain the thousands of members who will be on hand. Judge Ralph H. Clock, president of the association, will preside.

At the east end of Sycamore Grove, also subject to weather conditions, former residents of Whiteside county, Illinois, will gather for their annual picnic, while in another section of the same park the De Witt County (Illinois) Association of California will hold forth with an all-day session.

Health Board to Ask Council for Detention Home

A decision to ask the City Council for the appropriation of $110,000 for the construction of a detention home in Chavez Ravine, on city property, for treatment of women, was reached by the Los Angeles Health Commission yesterday. A conference will be held with City Construction Superintendent C. O. Brittain next week on the program to be presented to the Council.

Tentative plans, calling for a one-story structure of Spanish type, providing 100 beds in large and airy wards, were inspected by the commission yesterday.

The present detention home, known as the Los Feliz Hospital, was characterized as deplorable for continued use and also is the object of much complaint from the neighborhood, including a school a short distance away.

Damages Asked of Wrong Man

Attorney G. K. Kirsch stated yesterday that he will file an amended complaint immediately in the case of Juan Velasquez against two policemen, in which he will substitute J. R. Stephens of Hollywood, as one of the two defendants sued for $50,325 for shooting Velasquez, in place of Paul Stevens.

Attorney Kirsch said he was given the name of Paul Stevens, who is a detective at police headquarters, by mistake, and that Detective Stevens had nothing to do with shooting the plaintiff. F. G. Trosper is the other policeman sued.

SUPERIOR JUDGE ENGS GOES ON FIRST FLIGHT

Flying to San Francisco yesterday in Western Air Express' afternoon plane, Superior Judge Edward W. Engs of Sierra county not only experienced his first airplane flight, but it was the first time he had viewed an aircraft at close range. The judge expects to return to Los Angeles Sunday evening via the Santa Fe Padre to resume duties as Superior Court judge. He has been assigned here for the past eleven months.

PLANS FOR NEW HOTEL ANNOUNCED

Apartment Structure in Hollywood Scheduled to Cost $2,000,000

Plans for construction of a new $2,000,000 Hollywood apartment hotel within a mile of the site where the $5,000,000 Ritz-Carlton will be built were announced yesterday by Eugene Stark, managing director of the Roosevelt. At the same time Stark announced his resignation to become effective March 1, next.

A site east of Vine street and north of Hollywood Boulevard, Stark said, has been tentatively selected for the building, and probably will be purchased within ninety days. Construction of the Ritz-Carlton, according to the hotel executive, will encourage further hotel building in Hollywood.

"Within ten years," he said, "Hollywood will become one of the country's most attractive hotel centers. It has more natural advantages than many of the noted resort regions abroad. Great artists are being drawn here from all parts of the world and are making this their permanent home.

"Such a situation creates an ideal condition for a large number of excellent hotels. My associates and I feel that we can make no safer investment."

'Y' Secretary Gets Post in Brotherhood

Herbert L. Herberts, executive secretary of the business division of the Young Men's Christian Association, was elected secretary of the United Church Brotherhood yesterday by members of the board of directors, members of the central board of management and the united brotherhood executive committee.

"In assuming secretaryship of the brotherhood Mr. Herberts will not sever his connection with the Y.M.C.A.," said Eli Bush, president of the brotherhood. "The loan will be in effect for a period of three years unless terminated by mutual agreement."

Addresses on the value of co-operation of the various brotherhoods and the Y.M.C.A. were given at the meeting by Judge Scott of the Los Angeles Juvenile Court and by George Pepperdine of the "Y" board of directors.

WHY PROLONG IT?

Gen. Umberto Nobile didn't show courage in the face of great danger, according to a report made to the Italian government by an investigating committee. Nobile went on the ill-fated expedition a hero, because of past performances. He returned in disgrace. That's fifty-fifty. We believe that the people of the world, as well as Italy, would prefer that no punishment be dealt out to the man who had once proved his courage, and let it go at that.

WORLD'S GREATEST BOULEVARD

Working quietly, but with a real determination, a committee of the Orange County Coast Association, headed by S. H. Woodruff, is endeavoring to get rights of way for a 100-foot boulevard along the entire forty miles of the Orange county coast line. The present right of way is eighty feet. It is proposed to make the paved road that width and leave ten feet on each side for curbs and sidewalks. Also it is planned to have ornamental lighting standards for the entire distance. When completed it will be the world's greatest boulevard. The State Highway Commission is lending every assistance possible to Mr. Woodruff's committee, for it realizes that the present road is inadequate for the traffic in the summer months and on week-ends and holidays.

SERVICE

By its own servants the public is badly served. Public officials are snails. City, State and Federal service always has time to burn. You may be in a hurry, but the clerk usually has time to visit inside his cage before he listens to your woes. Politics yields snappy service only just before election.

During the war the railways were under governmental management. Travelers yet recall the careless courtesy of the times. The most pressing matters were treated with scant attention. You could take it or leave it.

In strange contrast is any business concern in the city. You are met at the door and publicly welcomed. You are taken on a personally conducted tour from counter to counter. The elevator man bows with a sweep and you feel yourself to be his personal guest. Every clerk is waiting for an opportunity to serve.

Competition inspires courtesy. When one oil station washes your windshield, they all leap at your car. When one company goes out of its way to please, they all make detours for service.

WASHINGTON'S EPOCHAL CHOICE

In the year 1781 one man was granted an opportunity to write history and construct a new civilization, unique, dazzling, inspirational and—dangerous. That the Man on Horseback who emerged from the American Revolution was a man of the fiber of Gen. Washington is a boon for which our own people and those of every other nation cannot today be too devoutly thankful.

"First in war," from 1775 to 1781, "first in peace," from 1789 to 1797, are titles so generally now accorded to the Father of his Country that we pay little attention to another attribute on which these titles rest. After the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, George Washington was first in power, and his countrymen would have acquiesced in whatever form he had chosen to manifest that power. What if the generalissimo of the victorious American armies had been a Caesar, a Napoleon, a Bismarck, a Cromwell—or even a Mussolini?

The five years of fire and bloodshed have lacked no chroniclers or poets to sing the invincible spirit of Washington, first in war. The ten years of civic conflict from the adoption of the Constitution to the end of his second term have been used times without number to extrol the virtues of Washington, first in peace. But of those bleak six years from 1781 to 1787, when the country was threatened with a fate worse than the one from which it had just escaped, what has been said of the action of George Washington, first in power?

George Washington in many ways has left his mark on the destinies of his own country and the course of events in lands beyond the seas, but never to more tremendous effect than when he made his epochal decision at a time when a number of distracted and disunited States looked to him as their only leader, their only salvation. His victorious army was the controlling power in the liberated colonies and he was the controlling power of that army. The army demanded he be crowned monarch of a new western empire. Many of his best friends, devoted patriots, saw no hope for uniting the jealous factions of a nation not yet formed, unless Washington declared himself king, or at least dictator.

He put all such suggestions behind him as unworthy of serious attention. At possible costs heavier than those already paid in the long fight for freedom he declared himself in favor of a representative republic. Other men placed in the zenith of power then occupied by George Washington might have made a similar decision. But certainly in the whole course of history none ever has.

To us, born and bred in the democratic tradition, George Washington's refusal of a crown seems easy and natural. In the enlightenment of events of the subsequent 150 years we can hardly see how he could have done otherwise. But before deciding too hastily that he did the logical thing it would be well to take a survey of world conditions and world thought in the last quarter of the eighteenth century.

Never was the monarchical idea so firmly intrenched as when the American colonies rose against overseas dictatorship. In the whole world, with the exception of the tiny country of Switzerland, not a single republican government was extant. The American continents from Labrador to Patagonia were held in vassalage by European kings. Historical precedent was all in favor of the theory that a strong monarchical government for the Americans who had cut loose from Europe was the best weapon for freeing the rest of the continent from subjection to Old World rulers and for maintaining their own independence.

In 1781 the Americans of the North Atlantic seaboard were free, but they were crippled financially, weakened by the long conflict and physically and spiritually exhausted. Some great world thinkers and constructionists were forming among these indomitable sons of the forest and the wilderness, men who after Washington's decision to discard kingship framed the greatest document of constitutional rights conceived by the genius of man. But in 1781 no such light was visible in the country's political darkness, there was one man, and one man only, who could hold together the discontented factions; crowning George Washington must have appeared to the majority the only means of acquiring unity and power.

Washington did the extraordinary, the unexpected, the most difficult, the longest-sighted and most hazardous thing conceivable when he refused to cut the Gordian knot of his countrymen's difficulties with the sword of an Alexander and so compelled them painstakingly to unravel the tangle and save the cord of freedom for better use. That act has hardly been given its due weight by present-day historians. Intentionally or not—it doesn't matter—he dealt a death blow to the monarchical tradition to which at that time the whole world was servile. Thinking, no doubt, only of the future of his own country, he started from Yorktown the wave of democracy which today is as dominant in all nations as was the sway of the crown and scepter in 1781.

Had Washington accepted the proffered crown—and he could have done so with justification as a patriotic duty—no single act in a historic crisis would have so irrevocably changed the currents of world progress.

WESTERN PACIFIC LOSES

The Interstate Commerce Commission's decision denying the Western Pacific the right to build down the eastern side of the San Joaquin Valley is chiefly important as a support to the principle that no railroad may extend its lines merely for its own good. The Western Pacific's chief argument in asking for the extension was that it would supply traffic necessary for the development of the road. To this contention, the commission seems to have paid no attention, basing its decision on its finding that the territory is already adequately served by the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific.

Whether this same principle will result in a similar denial of the Great Northern and Western Pacific application to build from Klamath Falls to Keddie, is another question, to be determined by the commission's findings as to adequacy of service there. It is evident, however, that the Great Northern contention that it is entitled to build into California territory to aid its own traffic, will have little weight.

Though the Western Pacific denied any such intention, if the San Joaquin line had been permitted its extension to Los Angeles probably would have resulted in time, giving Southern California a fourth railroad. The traffic of this section, much greater than that of the San Joaquin, would have drawn the rails south as by a magnet. Whether or not this would have been beneficial is for the present at least only an academic question. The application has been denied. It may or may not be renewed at some future time.

UNFIT CAR DRIVERS

Superior Judge Fricke told a Glendale audience the other night that "only 75 per cent of the people driving cars today are fit to do so." Sometimes when "bucking the traffic" one is inclined to the belief that less than 50 per cent of the motorists encountered are really capable drivers, but of course, such a thought is subject to qualification.

Still Judge Fricke's assertion, though a sweeping one, would seem to be not far from the mark. He bases it on the fact that 4 per cent of the population is color blind and that a large number are epileptics, insane or habitual drunkards, and that none of these should be permitted to drive an automobile. He classes the drunken driver as one of the worst criminals of today—a fact that few careful observers will dispute. Most of the so-called "examinations," he says, are silly, not being sufficient tests of applicants' ability to handle the wheel.

This latter statement is obviously accurate. Examinations as to the fitness of drivers, as conducted at present, are altogether inadequate. As a rule the passing of them by an applicant is little or no proof of his ability to drive a car without danger to himself and the public. The tests, as Judge Fricke points out, should be far more stringent and thorough. Every day new proof is given of their insufficiency. All the persons responsible for accidents presumably have been examined, and yet many of them have shown by the tragic results of their recklessness that they never should have been granted drivers' licenses.

If the number of motorists now driving cars were reduced by 25 per cent, which is the logical moral to be drawn from the judge's statement, our traffic problem, so far as accidents are concerned, would be close to a solution, but it is to be feared that a good many auto salesmen, mechanics and service men would have to go out of business.

SHAKESPEARE IN AMERICA

As long ago as 1752, a company from England presented Shakespearean plays in a quaint little theater in Williamsburg, Va., the handbills of which boasted "new scenery and elegant costumes from Europe."

Leesay: Five Indians in full regalia emerged from White Bird's Friendly Tepee on Hollywood Boulevard. One of them hailed one of those new war-painted taxis and when the driver swung in to the curb the other four appeared from ambush and all five piled into the car.

"Hey!" bawled the driver, "this cab was only made to haul four people."

"We want our money's worth," replied one Indian, in perfect English.

The driver looked at the speaker disgustedly. "You guys ain't real Indians," he declared. "I heard all about Indians—they spend their oil royalties like sailors. I bet underneath them blankets all youse guys is wearin' kilts!"—Alex McLaren.

Burr McIntosh Keeps A-Goin'

Burr McIntosh has been in Windsor Hospital, Glendale, for several weeks. But that hasn't dampened his ardor and enthusiasm. For some time he has been planning to dedicate Keep A-Goin' Shrine, in Keep A-Goin' Canyon, and with the indomitable spirit which has enabled him to achieve helpful things in many parts of the world, Keep A-Goin' Shrine will be launched tomorrow afternoon on the hospital lawn, the exercises beginning at 2:45. John McGroarty will make the dedicatory address.

Something "New" in Dramatic Art

After all, we judge a people by their art, their striving toward beauty. And those who saw Michio Ito's production of two classical Japanese dramas and a ballet at the Figueroa Playhouse last week came away with new respect for the culture of Japan. Never in any other stage production we have witnessed in America or in Europe have we seen plays presented with such beauty. Every scene was such a perfectly balanced picture that we could look and look at it as at a painter's masterpiece and remember it afterward as we would remember a great picture. In fact, Turner's "Marriage of the Adriatic" and one of those glowing scenes rank side by side in our memory.

The company of twenty-five players which Michio Ito brought from Japan has gone on to New York now, to play under the auspices of the Theater Guild. But if it returns to Japan by way of Los Angeles every lover of the beautiful should try to see it.

Japanese English

In fact, our Japanese friends are much better at handling their own art than in handling our language. William H. Neville, back from a trip to Japan, writes us of a few English signs he saw there, which are even funnier than some of the American English signs one sees here. One, over a leather shop in Yokohama, read: "Tranks and Bugs."

Another, in Tokio: "Saloon and Bar. Ice Cream and Milk."

Singin' Through the Rain

Leeside: Not long ago you were talking about making children helpful. Well, we're a pair of struggling writers, unable to support a maid and children, too; and finding children somewhat easier to get than maids, we have to let the children do the dishes. One evening it is sister's turn, the next evening brother's.

One night when we had company they went to work so cheerfully that we were immensely proud of them. But when they had finished and rejoined us in the living-room, they asked permission to sing a song. And this is what they sang, to the air of "My Darling Clementine":

Every evening, after dinner, all the dishes we must wash,
Every evening, after dinner, all the garbage we mush squash.

Oh, the dishes, oh, the dishes, on the floor they should be smashed.
Oh, dishwater, oh, dishwater, down the sink it should be splashed.

First it's her turn, then it's my turn, then begins an argument,
And though we do the best we can, we never get a cent!

I was embarrassed, the guests delighted, and the children rewarded. So now they perform whenever there is company, and I'm not embarrassed any more. After all, it pays very well. —V. S. B.

ANOTHER WHISPER HUSHED

Figures to prove that the cost of very elaborate publicity and advertising campaign and the office overhead for directing and collecting more than $3,000,000 for the Community Chest was only 5 per cent of the total, serves to stop the whispering of the nongivers that only a small percentage of the gifts reached the units of the Community Welfare Federation. These "excuses" from persons who could well afford to give are put to shame by the sacrifices of poor children of the Brooklyn-avenue school. Allowed 5 cents a day each for lunch, these kiddies donated 1 cent from each nickel during the period of the chest drive.

THE SONG OF THE BOX CAR

By James J. Montague

The box car earns six times as much as any Pullman or coach used on railroads

I am battered by wearisome journeys,
My paint is bedrabbled with rust;
I bear the dull stains of the long winter rains
And the scars of the desert-blown dust.
As I wind beside sinuous rivers
My flanges scream loud on the rails,
And the echoing lakes spread the sound of my brakes
Through re-echoing mountains and vales.
I grumble and groan as I roll down the track
But the whole system rides on my dingy old back.

I must move to one side for the flyer
That darts like a streak through the night
Speeding madly afar like a runaway star—
A long line of glittering light.
Then a jolt and a jar from my engine,
A bang and a clank and a grind,
And again on my way through another dull day
I loiter along on behind.
A dreary and laboring life do I lead,
But I pay for the limited's splendor and speed.

My journals are worn with rough going,
My planking is broken and old;
For full many a year, on my limping career
I have weathered the heat and the cold.
I am merely a traveling freight shed,
A merchandise warehouse a-wheel,
And the junkman some day will be carting away
My splinters of timber and steel.
But no vestibuled flyers-de-luxe would there be
If it wasn't for rusty old box cars like me!

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Under the Direction of Dean Rockwell Hunt

VIII

THE COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY

BY PROF. JULIO ENDELMAN, D.D.Sc., F.A.C.D.

The college of medicine of the University of Southern California in the year 1897, through its dean, the late Dr. Henry G. Brainerd, fostered the organization of an institution in which the principles and practice of dentistry could be taught, in order to supply an educational need that had become quite apparent in the Southland. Dr. Brainerd's plan was to offer to prospective dental students the same opportunities for the acquirement of knowledge in the fundamental subjects as were then available to medical students; and it was thus that for several years to come medical and dental students were taught in common such subjects as anatomy, physiology, chemistry, etc.

In the evolution of the dental school, it is interesting to observe that this arrangement prevailed for only a few years, when a complete separation of the college of dentistry from the medical school took place to meet the definite and specific demands of dental education. The birth of the dental school in 1897, as a subdepartment of the medical department of the University of Southern California, marked for dentistry in Southern California a step in its progress which has been of concrete value in maintaining a high standard of professional efficiency.

Dental education, since the organization of the first dental school in Baltimore in 1840, has accomplished results which bespeak self-sacrifices and abnegation on the part of certain pioneering groups in various sections of the country; and it certainly should be the source of gratification to the dental profession of Southern California that in its own midst there were men thirty-five years ago with a vision into the future that led them to organize the institution which stands out today as a monument to them as well as an agency for health preservation and all of it for the altruistic purpose of supplying a need which has become more pressing as the years have rolled by. The college of dentistry is the only institution of its kind in the great Southwest, and its mission has been not only to train young women and men in the scientific and technical phases of the profession, but also to act as the center of all activities which are linked directly or indirectly with professional development.

Its beginning was not unlike that of most of the dental schools of the country; but having determined upon a policy of educational altruism from almost its very beginning and having attracted, because of that reason, instructors of recognized standing in professional circles and of ideals of the highest order, the college of dentistry has gradually and steadily forced its way to the front rank of institutions of its kind and today it enjoys a reputation for its educational excellence recognized as such throughout the world.

The first session was under the guidance of Dr. Henry A. Brainerd, but beginning with the session 1898-1899, the direction of affairs was turned over to Dr. Edgar Palmer, who acted as its first dental dean, remaining in office until 1905, and who continued as a member of the faculty until 1916.

The influence of Dr. Newkirk's cultural and professional accomplishments was a veritable stimulus to the growing body of the immature institution and his five years as dean and professor of hygiene and orthodontia, later of operative dentistry and still later of hygiene and ethics, prepared the institution for the discharge of its functions in a matter commensurate with its responsibilities toward the public and the profession.

It was then that dentistry was beginning to realize that its sphere of influence could not be restricted to the technical phases of dental substitution and reconstruction, and that, therefore, the dentist, while qualified in that phase of his professional duties through intensive training in the mechanic art of his calling, should in addition be given the educational facilities to become a worthy adjunct of the physician and as such an agency for the conservation of health and the prevention of disease in his own and in other fields of the healing profession.

It has been the aim of the college of dentistry, in accordance with that more encompassing concept of the duties of the dentist, gradually to increase its curriculum and its teaching facilities in order that its graduates may assume their place alongside of their medical confreres as specialists in the prevention and treatment of diseases of the teeth and adjacent structures and in the prevention of chronic infections and degenerative diseases throughout the body which may originate in diseased conditions of the teeth and neighboring structures.

The dental student is to all intents and purposes a medical student who, upon acquiring the fundamental scientific and medical subjects which are common to both professions, branches out to concentrate upon the field of his choice. Dentistry's aim has been to concentrate its educational forces upon one small area of the human body with the end in view of becoming an agency for public betterment through the thoroughness and completeness of the services which it renders.

The curriculum at first consisted of a three-year course, eight months each year, with half-day sessions. Admission was possible on the basis of one year of high school work; although membership in the National Association of Dental College Faculties made it necessary to raise this requirement to two high school years. With the opening of the academic year 1903-04 the curriculum was expanded to four years of seven months each year, with eighteen different departments of study.

For several years there was no organic connection between the college of dentistry and the University of Southern California. The college was operated on a financial basis, all receipts and obligations being assumed by the faculty. The "College of Dentistry of the University of Southern California" was incorporated May 12, 1905, bringing about a more closely affiliated relationship with the university proper. The board of trustees was to include one member from the board of university trustees, one from the Southern California Dental Association, one from the dental alumni and five from the dental faculty. This relationship of close affiliation with the university has continued to the present time.

Dr. Lewis E. Ford was appointed dean of the reorganized college in 1905 and he is the incumbent. In very large measure it owes its remarkable growth and rapidly advancing standards to his untiring industry and wise administration. In 1906 high school graduation was demanded as an entrance requirement; this won the instant approval of the National Association of Dental Examiners. Requirements for graduation were advanced to a three years' course of thirty-six weeks each year, six days a week.

Increasing numbers emphasized the need for more adequate quarters, which led to the erection of a substantial building at Fifth and Wall streets. The 1908-09 catalogue says, "The only criticism of the building may be found in that it is so well equipped that the student is given luxuries which he cannot afford when he leaves college." In 1914 again more commodious housing was required; the fourth home of the college was erected at the corner of Sixteenth and Los Angeles streets, this specially designed building being still in use.

In 1917 the course was extended to four years of thirty-six weeks each, and the entrance requirements were made identical with those in the college of liberal arts. A great influx of students sought admission at the conclusion of the World War. The enrollment leaped from 173 in 1918-19 to 321 in 1920-21 and to 575 in 1922-23. Additional space was found in the flatiron building at Figueroa street and Exposition Boulevard, opened to lower division students in September, 1920.

Beginning in 1926 entrance requirements were again advanced, demanding a five-year curriculum for the two degrees of bachelor of science and doctor of dental surgery. With a rating as one of the largest class "A" dental colleges in the country, the local institution holds a very enviable rank. Indeed, Los Angeles has become a conspicuous center of dental learning, and that largely through the influence of the college of dentistry of the University of Southern California. Generous credit must be accorded to Dean Lewis E. Ford, untiring leader of the local faculty and high in the national councils. He will continue to build as he has in the past; his plans for the future augur even a greater institution than today's—one which shall reflect the ambitions, the ideals, the dreams of a professional educator who seeks as his reward the improvement of the physical and mental stamina of generations present and to come through the agency of the educational activities directed by himself and his associates.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Interior Decorating?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

A miniature house, with rooms two by two feet, is being built and furnished by the class in interior decorating at the Narbonne Evening High School, corner Walnut and Pomelo, Lomita, on Monday and Thursday evenings, 7 to 9. There are to be five rooms, with floor space planned in proportion for a comfortable home. Windows, walls, drapes and furniture are to be studied and designed for the most convenient and beautiful effects.

The first hour of each class period is devoted to theory of interior decoration and the second to actual practice in trying out certain color combinations and groupings of line. Many women of this community are making handsome furniture for their homes in the woodshop of the school, and now they are anxious to have finer homes along artistic lines, as the proper background for their lovely ornaments and furniture. All people of the neighborhood are welcomed to this free class, as visitors or as members.

A Possibility

"I wonder," mused the shrewd milkman, as he added a fourteenth bottle to the thirteenth already on the porch, "whether it is possible these people can be out of town."

The man whose past won't bear inspection is generally the first to brag about his future.

Warning Given by Nix Against Shimmy Dances

Taken into City Prosecutor Nix's office by Investigators Conner and Tuma yesterday Tom Dalton, owner of the Follies Theater at 337 South Main street, was warned by Nix that his shimmy dancers are violating the city ordinances.

Dalton and six girls who had engaged in the assertedly objectionable dance were taken from the theater to the prosecutor's office at the conclusion of the afternoon performance. The theater owner said he believed he was within the law.

"Your dance is illegal," Nix told him, "but I'll give you just one more chance. If the dance, or any illegal show is staged Monday you'll be arrested every day until it is taken off permanently."

CHARGES AT BEACH ADVANCED

Cabrillo Rate Schedule Changed by Playground and Recreation Board

An increase in rental charges at Cabrillo Beach for boats and other playground equipment, and for mooring privately owned boats, has been adopted by the Playground and Recreation Commission. This action follows a report by Ernest B. Ehrke, director of boating, that the marine venture is but 50 per cent self-supporting.

It was pointed out by Ehrke that during the week-end rush periods or on holidays the aquatic equipment is inadequate. A recommendation for new paraphernalia, at an estimated cost of $5160, was referred to the superintendent. With this new equipment, Ehrke estimated that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, the receipts would be $10,950, operating expenses, $12,000 and net cost to the department, $1050.

Mooring rates, at present from $2 to $4 a month, are raised from $5 to $10 a month under the order adopted by the commission. Rowboat rentals are advanced from 25 cents an hour up to 50 cents an hour; canoes, formerly 50 cents, now 75 cents an hour; outboard boat and engine, formerly $5 a day, now $6 a day, or $1.50 for one hour and $1.25 for each extra hour. Excursion-boat rates remain at 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Excursion boat charter is raised from $3 an hour to $5 an hour.

The practice of renting engines to boat owners is discontinued.

Former Grocer Drops Dead on Street Corner

Schallheim, who was 65 years of age, had lived in Los Angeles for the past eight years. He had retired from business, having formerly been a grocer in Cleveland, O.

He met Mrs. Schallheim by appointment yesterday at Broadway and Sixth street, and as he stepped forward, tipping his hat, he fell dead in sight of a shopping crowd.

SUIT FOR BALM LOST BY WIDOW

Jury Fails to Heed Plea of Mrs. Goodwillie

Mrs. Marshall Exonerated of Love Piracy

Action Asked for $40,000; Husband Deceased

A verdict by the jury for the defendant yesterday ended the $40,000 alienation suit brought by Mrs. Della H. Goodwillie against Mrs. Paul Marshall, formerly Miss Julia LaGue, who asserted the latter stole the love of her husband, Willis L. Goodwillie, prior to his death on March 4, 1928.

In spite of the flaming love letters written by Mrs. Marshall to Goodwillie in which she saluted him as "My Angel Man" the jury in Superior Judge Archbald's court held that she was not guilty of alienating his affections from his wife after twenty-nine years of married life. Mrs. Marshall said she wrote the letters to cheer Goodwillie up while he was ill.

Attorney George S. Hupp, counsel for Mrs. Marshall, during his closing arguments, pictured Mrs. Goodwillie as a "cold-hearted business woman" who talked of business matters instead of matters of the heart. He also criticised her for her failure to go to the bedside of Goodwillie when he was dying at the home of Mrs. Marshall. Her attorney, H. W. McKinley, defended Mrs. Goodwillie for her refusal to go to Mrs. Marshall's house.

It was the contention of Mrs. Goodwillie that she and her husband were happily married for twenty-nine years. He was a shoe salesman and she testified that she frequently made trips with him on the road. She declared they were happy until Mrs. Marshall appeared on the scene and took her husband away from her.

Tibbett Sued Over Fireplace

Lawrence Tibbett, opera and screen singer, and his manager, Lloyd Wright, are made co-defendants in a suit for $206 filed yesterday in Municipal Court by Ed Darling, Beverly Hills contractor.

Darling asserts that on September 12, 1929, he contracted to build a fireplace and hearth in Tibbett's home at 933 Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills. The work was completed on October 7, 1929, he charges, and since that date he has been unable to collect for it.

PATHE BUYS PLAY FOR ACTRESS

Laura La Plante Ill at Sonora; Another in "Storm;" Warners Buy Novel and Play Rights to "Power;" Foreign Registration Bureau Has Meeting

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Everyone has been wondering what film concern would finally manage to obtain the rights to that charming play, "Holiday," which has been making a big hit in New York.

INA CLAIRE

Now it comes out that Pathe has bought it. And who is more suited to play its leading role than Ina Claire, who has been making such a pleasing impression in talking pictures?

Miss Claire indeed is destined, we learn, to play the star part, but just who will play opposite her and who will direct the picture has not yet been decided, I believe.

El Brendel in Fox Film

After all, Fox's "The Oregon Trail" isn't going to be without its gay moments.

Assurance of this fact is found in the fact that that merry soul, El Brendel, has been cast as the featured comedy lead in the picture, which is to have an all-star cast.

El Brendel has played the principal comedy roles in a number of Fox pictures, of late, including "Sunny Side Up," in which he registered a particular hit.

LAURA LA PLANTE OUT OF "STORM"

LAURA LA PLANTE

The company was working under direction of William Wyler in Sonora, and the only available hotel there happened to be undergoing renovation when the Universal players registered.

Indeed, says Miss La Plante, so very fundamental were the repairs that draughts came through chinks and crannies, and the players were forced to sleep in their clothes. Miss La Plante caught a severe cold, and had to come home. She is at home with a very sore throat and a cold on her lungs.

She doesn't feel that she can resume her role for some time, and as Universal doesn't want to hold up the picture, being under heavy expense for a company on location, another actress is to be sent up to Sonora to take up Miss La Plante's role.

John Halliday With Warners

JOHN HALLIDAY

The actor has appeared in a number of noted New York productions of late including the play with only two characters, "Jealousy." He has played in no pictures, so far as I know.

Halliday is the husband of Eleanor Griffith, the stage actress brought west by United Artists, whom he married following her appearance in "Alibi."

Warners Buy "Power"

Warner brothers have bought Fluchtwenger's novel, "Power," for the screen, according to word just received.

So far no director or star has been assigned, but it is expected that "Power" will be one of the big pictures of the coming year.

Former Stars Cast

Alice Lake and Mae Busch are playing featured roles with Mary Nolan in "Carnival Girl," and Ella Hall has an important role as a nurse in "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Miss Lake was a former Metro star, Mae Busch starred in a number of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures, and Ella Hall was a Universal star. All three are skilled actresses.

Dane in "Big House"

Karl Dane, famous Slim of "The Big Parade," will have a similar role again, but this time in the drab garb of a convict. He was yesterday cast for the role of Olsen, the Swedish prisoner, in "The Big House," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's forthcoming drama of penitentiary life and prison riots.

KARL DANE

Dane is to be the principal comedy relief in the picture, as the dumb convict always planning an escape but always making a mistake that lands him in the dungeon.

New Bureau Working

The worrisome question concerning the Spanish language, which has recently come up in connection with talking pictures, is to be solved if the Foreign Registration Bureau, newly established, has anything to say about it. It appears there are many dialects of the Spanish tongue which, when shown on the screen, vary just enough to cause confusion in Spanish-speaking countries.

This bureau is a department of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, which holds its second session today in the association headquarters.

The work of registration is being conducted by a representative board from the Spanish language colony, made up of J. M. Sheridan, Vice-Consul of Brazil; Joel Quinones, Vice-Consul of Mexico; Dr. Henry C. Niese, Vice-Consul of Argentina, and Prof. Barja, professor of Spanish at the University of California.

The Foreign Registration Bureau is the outgrowth of a movement to preserve the cultural integrity of Spanish-language countries in Spanish-spoken films made in Hollywood, and registrations are being made by all players who speak the language. A complete classification of all accents is being made so that producers may apply the proper accent in productions, depending upon the locale of the story.

Recording sound and action simultaneously far below the surface of the ocean is said to have been accomplished for the first time in screen history in John Ford's stirring submarine story, "Men Without Women," which opens March 6 at the Criterion Theater.

In the unusual climax of the Fox Movietone picture, the audience not only sees naval divers preparing for their descent, but follows them as they are lowered to the ocean floor. The microphone catches the hissing of air escaping from their helmets and the tapping signals of men inside the hull.

Clergymen to Attend Play

Three hundred clergymen of Los Angeles and vicinity have been invited by the Civic Repertory Theater at the Music Box to witness a performance of "A Bill of Divorcement," the play by Clemence Dane woven around the divorce laws of England.

In this day the theme may seem to be outmoded, it is said, but to those whose work takes them into the heart of family life another angle of the situation is disclosed.

ARLISS EXOTIC RAJAH OF RUKH

Noted Star Triumphant in "Green Goddess"

Irony in Villainous Role Predominates

Excellent Support Lent by Talented Cast

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

That great old villain, the Rajah of Rukh (pronounce Rook—long "oo") with his code of an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth, is to be seen currently at Warner Brothers' Theater in Hollywood. He flourishes more luxuriantly than the lethal belladonna in "The Green Goddess." And he is impersonated with an acrid irony and an exotic distinction by George Arliss, a peer among the talking-picture actors.

Mr. Arliss' fame was attested at the showings yesterday. An eager and expectant throng was drawn to the evening projections to see him renew the triumph of mentality which he previously achieved in "Disraeli." Arliss depends distinctly on qualities of intellectuality for success, and though it is against the rules of conventional movie popularity for success to be thus attained, he refutes most convincingly the traditions and also the bonehead beliefs about the films not being able to grow up.

Even though portions of "The Green Goddess" seemed difficult to understand because of certain faults apparent in the recording or the reproduction of the sound, and also because of certain perhaps too marked accents, the public that witnessed the picture, was seldom anything but all attention. Only a few draggy spots obtruded, during which there was sign of restlessness. The general impression was noteworthy, and the subject and setting of the picture are unquestionably colorful.

"The Green Goddess," was less great as a play than "Disraeli." It was also less interesting as a silent film than the story of the celebrated English statesman. The talking picture, "The Green Goddess" stands to talking picture "Disraeli" in about the same relation. It is not as significant nor as skillfully fabricated a story.

THE ARLISS EXCELLENCE

However, it is a splendid entertainment, because intelligent. The Arliss performance raises what might be an ordinary melodrama to a high dignity. The fact that the character he enacts is really a scoundrel, but an often amusing one, adds vastly to its novelty.

I think the Arliss public would rather see him on the right side than on the wrong one. They would rather behold him fighting for a principle and a great international accomplishment than they would see him acting chiefly from motives of revenge. But it is evident that they desire to see him at all costs. And even to the final line when he remarks that the Englishwoman whom he desired to add to his harem "would probably have proved a d——n nuisance, anyway" he is ever magnetic, and easily rules the picture. He is a truly great actor, with a singular power over the word and its inhibition. To hear him give point to repartee is a delight.

Fine supporting portrayals are furnished by Ralph Forbes, H. B. Warner and Alice Joyce. The last-named, as I recall it, appeared in the silent version some years ago. She does not always articulate her words as clearly as one could wish, but the portrait she gives is decidedly that of a lady. Warner, it is, who plays the sacrificial role of the husband, sending a wireless message that brings the saving airplanes, and then as he dies of a shot from the Rajah's revolver, heroically denies that he succeeded in "getting through."

CAST MEMBERS

Forbes is efficiently present as the "other man" in the little triangle that supplies a counterplot of romance. Ivan Simpson is responsible for a very excellent characterization as the British valet of the Rajah.

Reggy Sheffield, Betty Boyd, David Tearle and Nigel de Brulier are some of the others, and the direction by Alfred Green is of proper quality. While no originality is exhibited in the treatment of the subject, it is authentically done according to the play's traditions. The scenario from the stage piece by William Archer was devised by Julien Josephson.

You will find "The Green Goddess" very worth while in its star, and in its general ensemble.

Other items of the bill include the highly amusing Joe Frisco short sketch, wherein his take-off on Helen Morgan sitting on the piano and singing, scores tremendously. This picture was applauded, and the Morgan travesty received a special hand. "Letters," another Vitaphone act, featuring Pauline Garon, is routinely amusing. Miss Garon does a good bit of comedy. Roberto Guzman is the singing hero (very much) of a Technicolor short, "The Spanish Fiesta."

Burlesque on Film Folk to Start Monday

The Biltmore Theater will reopen Monday night with Roger Gray's gambol, "Gone Hollywood." The opening of this revue promises to be a gala affair, as large blocks of seats have been purchased by the Masquers and other clubs of which Mr. Gray is a member. A number of screen stars have promised to be present, it is said.

"Gone Hollywood" consists of numerous skits on motion-picture features, such as the melting pot in which waitresses, nurses, cash girls and artists are made into screen stars; the outside of a local theater on the opening night of a new picture, where prominent screen players and directors are asked to "say something in the mike;" and the news reel, with humorous details. The artistic part of the performance centers in a miniature operetta, "A Japanese Garden."

Noted Comedienne Reaches Stardom

Winnie Lightner

Who scored in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," has the chief role in "She Couldn't Say No," the film starting at Warner's Downtown Theater at midnight tonight.

RUSSIANS ADOPT NEW FILM STYLE

Revolution and Symbolism Disregarded in "Flames on Volga"

BY ELENA BOLAND

It looks as though Russia were going the way of all film. The revolution is dispensed with, and may we hope for good, and in its place Russian melodrama runs riot at the Filmarte in "Flames on the Volga."

It really looks as though Russia had been reading up on Hollywood; as though Director Youri Taritsch had been learning things from old copies of New Methods. He has missed nothing, cheerily combining all types of pictures into one. "Flames on the Volga," the result, is the acme of action. In it can be found likenesses to the days of the Keystone cops, Indian massacres, "The Perils of Pauline," westerns and the great war. The plot roves all around Russia, taking in the Tartars and the Cossacks and the aristocracy. It is a fine way to see the country; and that which is shown is very beautiful.

"Flames on the Volga" is a complete departure from that which we have grown to expect from the Sovkino studios. Symbolism is out, along with the revolution, and with it that exceptional standard which so distinguished former films. In some ways, though, the change is for the better, for this picture is a definite attempt to cater to popular taste. It possesses a stronger entertainment value, and what it sacrifices in intellect it strives to atone for in interest.

A lot of thought went into the story's amazing complications. History, love, fathers, brothers and religion are the subjects. It is a costume piece, in the days of Catherine II, who, it seems, tried to work up an interest in religion among the Tartars. When she couldn't, she got mad; the Tartars were already mad, so they came to blows.

The more personal story weaves around Bulat, Tartar chieftain, his two sons and Fatme, first a lass and later a woman. One son is good and one son is bad, and the good son is stolen by the enemy and brought up as one of them. The bad son grows up at home and betrays his father. After he betrays his father, he betrays his army, the enemy's army, his brother and Fatme. He was in it for the business.

Some nice situations arise when father and son face each other and fight, identities unknown. The two parts are well done by W. Jarsolavzeff, as the father, and Ivan Klukvin as the son. Both convey a power and pride which fit their portrayed positions. Anna Wolsik makes a most pleasant impression as Fatme.

Here and there, the picture contains tense and dramatic moments. The first half is finer than the last, when battles, burnings and intrigue escape all bonds of confusion.

Producers Will Extend Run of Musical Drama

Louis O. Macloon and Lillian Albertson, producers of the romantic operetta, "The New Moon," announce that this offering will begin its sixth week Monday. Although the local engagement is a limited one, the demand on the part of the public to witness the offering, has been so great that week by week its engagement has been extended.

In keeping with their policy of enabling patrons to obtain choice seats in advance, the producers will place seats for each performance during the seventh week on sale Monday.

The offering is breaking all records held by "The Desert Song." Perry Askam, who had the stellar role in the latter play, is starred in "The New Moon." Playing opposite him is charming Josephine Houston in the leading feminine role.

Fashion Parade Scheduled for Midnight Show

The latest in women's spring fashions will vie for first honors with stars of the stage and screen at the midnight show at the Orpheum Theater tonight, in honor of Richard Dix's first starring picture for Radio Pictures, "Seven Keys to Baldpate." A parade of women's spring fashions will be one of the high spots of the midnight matinee.

Ray Hughes, vaudeville headliner, will act as master of ceremonies for tonight's affair, introducing the various stage and screen celebrities who will be present. Among the features of the bill will be Harry Jolson, vaudeville player, and Owen Fallon's Californians, a dance orchestra.

A number of stars from "Seven Keys to Baldpate," current Orpheum screen offering, will also be present. Among these are Nella Walker, Craufurd Kent, Harvey Clarke, Edith Yorke and Alan Roscoe.

'Shrew' Follows 'Navy Blues' at Palace Theater

To follow William Haines and Anita Page in "Navy Blues," film comedy of sailors and sweethearts now playing, "Taming of the Shrew" will start Thursday at the Fox Palace Theater.

Produced by United Artists, "Taming of the Shrew" features the first costarring screen appearance of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. The picture is boisterous and slapstick version of Shakespeare and was directed by Sam Taylor.

As a special attraction to be shown with "Taming of the Shrew," the Palace has booked "Today and Yesterday," three-reel news subject showing highlights of the world's history for the past thirty-five years.

Celebrities to Sit in Balcony at Fox Carthay

For the first time since the Carthay Circle Theater opened, many of the stars and social celebrities are going to sit in the balcony at the gala premiere of "Happy Days" in Grandeur film.

When the theater was first opened scores of celebrities occupied the balcony seats and their name plates are still on the Carthay Circle seats they occupied. Never in the history of the theater has there been such a demand for reservations, it is said. All downstairs reservations have been made.

Fox West Coast Theaters has decided to stage a special midnight show on March 1. This midnight show is being added particularly for the studio folk who are interested in seeing Grandeur film.

Comedians Play Between Acts

Between acts and before the performance of "Give and Take" music may be heard issuing from the dressing-rooms of Kolb and Dill, the comedians, who are starring with the Henry Duffy Players at the President in the farce-comedy.

As boys in Cleveland, Kolb and Dill learned to play the guitar and the mandolin and the musical instruments were used in their first knockabout act which established them as favorites with vaudeville audiences.

In "Give and Take" Kolb has the role of John Bauer, the head of a California fruit cannery and Dill plays Albert Flower, his foreman and lifelong friend.

AMBITION FULFILLED

A cherished ambition long harbored, has at last been realized by Claudia Dell, noted Ziegfeldian beauty, who was recently signed by Warner Brothers to essay the featured feminine lead in "Sweet Kitty Bellaires." In meeting Calvin Coolidge recently, Miss Dell satisfied a yearning that had its inception in her school days.

MELODRAMA RUNS GAMUT OF EMOTION

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

"To What Red Hell," inspired by a quotation from Oscar Wilde's "The Ballad of Reading Gaol," received its American premiere yesterday at the Vine-Street Theater. It was presented by William E. Smith for a single performance, sandwiched in between luncheon and dinner, with no time out for tea. An ovation for the players, whose names were led by Lucille La Verne's, followed the final curtain.

This drama by Percy Robinson, patently an American, had been seen previously only in London, according to report. It was there that Miss La Verne, one in an audience, reacted to its emotional content with such thoroughness that nothing would satisfy her but to haul it along with her when she sailed back to her own land. This is how it happened that both the play and the lady fused their destinies on the stage at the Vine-street yesterday. Nor does one question the sincerity of purpose which brought about their ultimate union.

"To What Red Hell" represents, definitely, a transition period in the drama which, in the last few years, has evolved into the realistic-monosyllabic play. Thus, even the audience, it is safe to say, was divided against itself at the matinee. For Robinson's piece is pure, unadulterated melodrama—interminably efficient, compounded of all the lines and situations that have done service in the theater of the early twentieth century, unabridged and unsparing in their stubborn depiction of the harrowing aftermath of a murder in the sordid confines of a tenement bedroom on a side street in San Francisco.

Subtitled "A Drama of Two Families"—one rich, one poor—the play shows the effects in toto of a girl's unpremeditated passing, its scenes shifting at something like hourly intervals from the honest Mrs. Nolan's parlor, to the "smoking room" in the Fairfield country home at Burlingame, and to the anteroom of the Criminal Courts Building. In all these places, with fine impartiality, the characters weep and rave and curse the days they were born. In direct ratio to your own susceptibility to this sort of thing, you are likely (if you ever attend a performance) to indulge in a little of the same yourself—either for the same reasons as the players, or others less sympathetically disposed.

Murder Play Revived at Playhouse

BY P. K. S.

"The Latest Murder" took place before the eyes of those gathered at the Figueroa Playhouse early last evening, but late last evening supplied food for thought with the discovery that the victim was still alive and kicking. The revelation came as the climax to a three-act play by Hampton Del Ruth, described as "a satirical comedy drama," and revived in essentially the same form it had when it was staged some months ago at the Beaux Arts Theater under the more elegant title of "Cherchez la Femme."

Lacking now its original attraction, Blanche Sweet of the movies, the piece flourishes a cast of ordinary pretensions, most of them strange to these parts. Among them are Theodora Warfield (in Miss Sweet's role,) Rhea Del Ruth, Lydia Knott, Del S. Lawrence, Ben Erway and Dudley Ayres, who plays the hero.

The opening scene is enacted in silhouette, with the "murder" shown in black-and-white detail on the shades of the house wherein it is "committed." Thence the action moves indoors, with two husbands and two wives under investigation by a conventional set of stage police.

Scattered throughout Mr. Del Ruth's satirical comedy are gems of profound philosophical reflection, two of which I have jotted down for future reference.

"The last one to believe a girl all bad is her mother," is one, and "None of us is as big as the civilization we pretend to live up to," the other.

The drama itself is less profound.

Third Week of 'Ladies of Jury' Starts Sunday

"Ladies of the Jury," in which Mary Boland is starring with the Henry Duffy Players at El Capitan, will start its third week with the matinee Sunday.

This farce-comedy, written by Fred Ballard, has been one of the major successes of the Broadway season, it is said. In it the noted comedienne appears as Mrs. Livingston Baldwin Crane, a wealthy and socially prominent matron, who finds herself impaneled on a jury in a murder trial.

LA BREA THEATER SCREENS "FLIGHT"

A SNAPPY GIRL SHOW—GENERAL ADMISSION: NITES, 50c

MRS. BLACKBURN CLOSES DEFENSE

State Begins Rebuttal in Theft Charge Trial

Shooting of Peace King as Rite Contradicted

Victim Says He Shot Self Accidentally

With the closing of the defense at the trial of May Otis Blackburn, leader of the religious organization known as the Divine Order of the Royal Arms of the Great Eleven, now pending in Superior Judge Fricke's court, the prosecution yesterday afternoon began the questioning of numerous rebuttal witnesses in an attempt to impeach the testimony of several defense witnesses.

One of the principal rebuttal witnesses was Mrs. Jennie Toy, one of the complainants. She testified that Merritt Woodell, known as the King of Peace in the organization, once told her Miss Ruth Angelina Wieland had shot him in the heel with a small pistol to fulfill a religious "concord."

On the witness stand, Woodell said he shot himself in the heel accidentally and Miss Wieland said she was out of the State at the time.

Mrs. Toy also asserted that Woodell told her he was going to break away from the organization and that he ate fish at her table to prove to her that he no longer obeyed the rules of the religious order.

According to Thomas W. Cochran, defense attorney, the case probably will go to the jury by next Wednesday.

V. L. Ferguson, deputy District Attorney prosecuting the case, declared that only a few more rebuttal witnesses will be called before he rests the case.

Worker Falls to Death From Fourth Story

Falling four stories, Roy Bodkin, a window cleaner, yesterday received injuries from which he died three hours later. Bodkin, who was 23 years of age and lived at 206 East Sixty-ninth street, fell from the outside ledge of a fourth-floor window of a building at 1023 South Broadway. He struck the sidewalk, narrowly missing pedestrians, many of whom witnessed the tragedy. He was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Police reported that Bodkin's safety belt was not broken but that apparently he had slipped while trying to hook it to the building. He was employed by the Globe Window Cleaning Company. He leaves his widow and five children. They came here nine months ago from Arkansas.

Friend Blamed For Home Rift

Testimony that her husband stayed out from 1 to 2 a.m. two or three nights a week, won a divorce yesterday for Mrs. Anna Dannatt from Harold E. R. Dannatt, automobile salesman. The decree was signed by Superior Judge Hahn.

"I found he was running after another woman," the wife declared.

"Did you know the other woman?" asked the judge.

"Yes, she was a friend of mine," Mrs. Dannatt replied.

WIFE OF PUBLISHER LOSES COSTLY FURS

Theft of $6500 worth of furs from Mrs. Sime Silverman, wife of the publisher of Variety, theatrical weekly, was recorded yesterday on police reports. Mrs. Silverman is stopping at a Wilshire Boulevard hotel. She complained that while she was away from her suite Thursday a pass-key thief entered it and stole a $4500 mink coat, a $2000 ermine coat and a $35 traveling clock. Detectives made a search for fingerprints.

JACK NOONAN TRIAL CONTINUED TO MARCH

Trial of Jack Noonan, brother of Sally O'Neil, motion-picture actress, has been continued until March 17, next, according to the records of Superior Judge Brittan's court. Noonan is charged with burglarizing the home of Ted Lewis, orchestra leader, and stealing a large quantity of furs and clothing.

AUTO SHOW TO START TODAY

The line-up included a Model A Ford of 1903, a two-cylinder rig with engine under the seat. It is owned by Corpe Brothers of El Monte. There was a 1906 Tourist, two cylinders, made in Los Angeles in 1905. One of the neatest little rigs was a 1902 Pierce-Arrow runabout, owned by Arthur Twohy, of the Twohy Lumber Company. Among the others were a 1902 Cadillac owned by Truus Van Dusen of Rivera, a 1903 Oldsmobile, owned by C. E. Lecocq of Santa Monica, and still others too numerous and funny to mention.

The cars will be at the automobile show and three of them will be awarded prizes of $100, $75 and $50 for best performance.

CROSSING ACCIDENT KILLS ONE

Two Others Injured When Switch Engine Hits Auto; Crew Prevents Cremation

One man was killed instantly and his two companions seriously injured when their automobile was struck by a Southern Pacific switch engine last night, and two boys were seriously hurt in other traffic accidents. The dead man was Kane Nayeea, 62-year-old Japanese laborer, of Gardena.

According to the investigation by police the car attempted to pass in front of the engine steaming slowly over the crossing at Fourth and Alameda streets.

The car burst into flames from a broken gas tank, but the engine crew, consisting of Engine Foreman Carl Massingill and Engineer Frank Williams, extricated the injured men before they were burned.

Nayeea was dead when taken from the wreck and the two injured Japanese were treated at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital for skull fractures and possible internal injuries.

Ray Stevenson, 19, was knocked to the pavement in front of his home, 617 West Vernon avenue, by an automobile driven by Gilbert Richardson, 14850 Calvert street, Van Nuys. The youth was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital suffering from skull injuries and severe cuts and lacerations.

NOVA SCOTIAN MEETINGS

Two meetings have been scheduled for next week by the Nova Scotia Society of Southern California, a devotional service at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow and a midwinter program at the same hour next Friday. Both will be held in Lincoln Avenue Methodist Church, Lincoln and North Orange Grove avenues, Pasadena.

HARBOR PROJECT OPPOSED

Col. Robins, Army Engineer at San Francisco, Against Building Straight Fairway

Progress of Los Angeles Harbor's big three-fold dredging project through Washington channels became complicated yesterday when it was learned that the largest project is disapproved by Col. T. M. Robins, new United States Army division engineer at San Francisco. That project is the creation of a straight fairway in the outer harbor entailing the removal of 2,056,000 cubic yards. Whether the objection also may deter moves for the long-sought breakwater extension is uncertain.

The northern officer's disapproval came as a surprise as Maj. W. H. Lanagan, United States Army district engineer at Los Angeles, recently had approved the project. Details of Col. Robins's stand are lacking. He visited the harbor a fortnight ago.

If Col. Robins's intent is only to object to the wording of the project as "an immediate necessity," and if he wants the project tied up with the proposed 12,500-foot breakwater extension, Burt Edwards, port manager, said there will be no quarrel with the colonel. Otherwise, Edwards indicated, the Harbor Department will ask another hearing either in San Pedro or Los Angeles.

Maj. Lanagan had approved not only the fairway job but the widening of Cerritos Channel to 400 feet and deepening to thirty-five feet, involving 3,000,000 cubic yards, and the removal of 783,000 yards of shoal area in East Basin.

As a result of Col. Robins's attitude, the Harbor Department is expected to send George Nicholson, port engineer, to a hearing in Washington March 25, when he will ask not only for all Lanagan's recommendations, but the following dredging as well: Entire West Basin, Fish Harbor channel to twenty-five feet and the shoal area in the consolidated channel.

Col. Robins favors reducing the proposed new depth at Fish Harbor to twenty feet and disapproved dredging Long Beach entrance beyond thirty-five feet.

Girl Cashier Returns $90 'Error' Change

They grow 'em honest down Santa Monica way. If you doubt it, ask Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Macklin of Beverly Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Macklin, about four weeks ago, went driving to the Malibu, stopping en route at the Olas Grandes Inn, eight miles out of Santa Monica, for luncheon.

Yesterday they stopped there again. The cashier, a young woman, came over to their table and handed Mr. Macklin $90.

"I've hoped you would return," she said. "Last time you were here you gave me a $100 bill in payment of your check. I, like you, thought it was a ten. I did not notice my error until closing time."

Mr. Macklin then recalled he had discovered a shortage in his money, but had not associated it with the luncheon check. Last night he sent the cashier a reward.

The Macklins live at 606 North Beverly Drive.

MacMillan Here After Visit to Hawaiian Isles

A characteristic black spot in the middle of their backs identifies the native Polynesians of Hawaii as descendants of the same Mongolian stock as Eskimos, according to Commander Donald M. MacMillan, Arctic explorer.

He went to Hawaii three weeks ago to rest, but returned yesterday on the Lassco liner City of Honolulu, reporting he had passed most of his time lecturing on frozen wonders of which the tropical islanders know only by legend.

He will leave Thursday for the East, and in June will sail his Bowdoin to Iceland to attend the 1000th anniversary of parliamentary government, oldest in the world.

Wife Accused of Firing Pistol at Her Husband

His first wife culminated twenty years of persecution by firing five shots at him, Albert Francis Andrade, wealthy Mexican landowner, yesterday asserted in his answer to Mrs. Helen Louise Andrade's suit for separate maintenance.

He asserts she used a pistol to force him to sign papers deeding her some property.

Andrade married Judith Lane Lavender after he divorced his first wife in Yucatan in 1924. Mrs. Andrade No. 1 has since claimed she was not legally divorced.

MORROW'S CANDIDACY GETS BOOST

Visiting Rail Official Tells of New Jersey Plan to Make Envoy Senator

Arriving here yesterday on a tour to observe business conditions and to make contacts with agents of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in various cities, Edwin C. Washburn, assistant to Daniel Willard, president of that railroad, said he also has a personal objective on the tour and that is the creation of sentiment for the election of Dwight W. Morrow to the United States Senate.

Washburn lives in Englewood, N. J., which is also the home town of the former Ambassador to Mexico, and he said that Douglas Thompson, former Mayor of that town, is chairman of a campaign committee formed to work for Morrow's selection as one of New Jersey's Senators at the next election.

"Of course it is only the people of New Jersey who can vote for Morrow," Washburn said, "but I believe the country at large is interested in the possibility of electing a man of that calibre to the Senate. While there is no doubt that the thinking people of New Jersey are agreed already that Morrow should be their next Senator, there is always the possibility of his election being frustrated by the jealousies of small-minded local politicians."

As to business conditions, Washburn said there is an honest spirit of optimism wherever he has been, although it is more pronounced in the East than in the Northwest. There is some unemployment at present, he admitted, in all sections, but he found, he said, that enough work has been projected to start with the next month or two to absorb easily the bulk of the unemployed.

Suicide Would Keep Act From Blind Sister

A suicide's thought to keep news of his self-destruction from a blind sister was revealed yesterday when police found two notes on the body of Lloyd Hinckel, who shot himself through the heart in a rented room at 1246 South Hope street.

One note announced that Hinckel left all his property to Peter Mundt of 334 East Fourth street, Long Beach, in view of their lifelong friendship. Hinckel requested Mundt to wait thirty days before breaking the news to the suicide's sister, Mamie Hinckel, an inmate of the Blind Institute at Indianapolis, Ind. In the other note, Hinckel pleaded long illness and financial misfortune as his reasons for dying.

Pictures Show Life of Indians

Primitive life of the Blackfoot Indians is depicted in a collection of more than 150 photographs by Walter McClintock, currently on exhibition at the Southwest Museum, Highland Park. The group represents native ceremonies, dances and views of camps and hunting parties. Every picture is in color added by Charlotte M. Blazer of Pasadena.

McClintock, research fellow of the museum, was adopted by the Blackfoot tribe in 1896, being given the name White Weasel Moccasin.

CHEMICAL WARFARE TOPIC AT CITY CLUB

Chemical warfare was discussed at a meeting of the Army-Navy-Marine Corps Association at the City Club last night. Motion pictures were shown illustrating various phases of this form of fighting. The Arnamac chapter also met with the association. Field music was furnished by the buglers from the University of California at Los Angeles. Maj. J. M. Morris gave a talk on the material used in chemical warfare. The agents of chemical warfare was discussed by Capt. G. L. Cheney. Capt. J. R. Heath spoke on chemical warfare service.

Birth Control's Economic Phase Told at Parley

Birth control, in its broader sociological aspects, does not mean a reduction of population, but rather a controlled increase, destined to bring about improved living conditions for the masses, social betterment of the human race, and universal spiritual uplift, declared Prof. Graham A. Laing in an address yesterday afternoon before the Western States conference on birth control and population problems at the Biltmore.

The meeting was attended by representatives from eleven western States, and by visitors from India, Japan, Italy, Mexico and England. The discussion was devoted to the economic phases of birth control.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the legislative session will be held with Alexander M. Kidd of the University of California, and Arthur E. Briggs, president of Metropolitan University, as speakers. Margaret Sanger will lead the discussion. These meetings are open to the public.

Ex-Warden's Son in Bad Check Net

Howard C. Bradbury, 41 years of age, said by police to be the son of a former warden of the Missouri State Penitentiary, was arrested yesterday for passing checks without sufficient funds.

The checks, totaling $80, according to Detectives Posner and Crowley, were cashed by Bradbury at the offices of the Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light.

NAVIGATION CLASS TO RETURN TODAY

Members of the university college class in navigation and nautical astronomy, headed by Capt. Frank Jansen, will return today from a ten-day cruise constituting a "laboratory" lesson. The cruise took the students via Ensenada to Guadalupe Island, and then back to San Pedro. During the trip the students had to test their classroom-gained knowledge by finding their geographical position by observations of sun, moon and stars.

BOOKS TO BE DISCUSSED

Novelists from Jane Austen to Evelyn Scott will be discussed by Miss Helen Haines at the Central Library Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The work of four English novelists—Jane Austen, Anne Douglas Sedgwick, E. M. Forster and Naomi Mitchison, and four Americans—Herman Melville, Theodore Dreiser, Julia Peterkin and Evelyn Scott, will be reviewed.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

EGGPLANT — GOOD NON-STARCHY VEGETABLE

People used to think that eggplant contained a poison which could be removed by soaking slices of this vegetable in salt water. This is entirely unnecessary, however, as the eggplant is distinctly in a nonpoisonous class. Many people have been prejudiced against this vegetable by believing it to be indigestible, but the trouble is that they have based their experience with it by eating the eggplant in the fancy costume of a fried egg.

Eggplant may be broiled, boiled and baked, but should never be fried in grease after first being dipped in egg. This produces an indigestible food. The plain eggplant is much more delicious and digestible. If you will try some of the simple eggplant recipes I am sure you will enjoy the flavor which is spoiled with the egg and grease.

The eggplant bears no relation to the food value of an egg, but takes its name solely from the shape. It contains a good deal of fibrous cellulose which is good for the intestines and is also rich in potassium and alkaline elements. Here are some ways of preparing eggplant for variety in the menu:

Broiled eggplant—Cut in thin slices and place under a broiler, being turned over when delicately browned.

Baked eggplant—Cut the eggplant in half and bake in the oven. When tender, scoop the pulp out of the shells and mash with some butter. Place back in the shells and cover with a slice of tomato. Bake until the tomato is cooked.

Boiled eggplant—First pare and dice the eggplant and cook it in barely enough water to cover. When tender, serve and season with butter and cream.

Eggplant and corn—Grind one eggplant and three turnips in a meat grinder. Mix with one can of corn and place in a baking pan. Cover with two tablespoonfuls of butter and bake twenty-five minutes.

Eggplant patties—Cut an eggplant into small pieces and mix with equal parts of ground round steak from which all fat and gristle have been removed. Run the mixture through the food chopper and add a small amount of finely chopped tomato. Mold into patties and bake in a hot oven until brown.

Eggplant stew—Two small eggplants diced, four potatoes, one carrot and one turnip diced, three stalks of celery. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter and place in a stewpan with just enough water to cover. Boil without lid over slow fire for twenty-five minutes, stirring frequently.

Almost Impossible

The bane of mother's existence is to keep young sonny's stockings clean from the time he is dressed to go out until he is started on his way. One mother has an old pair of white stockings from which she has removed the feet, and she slips these over the good pair until just before leaving the house, thereby saving herself much worriment.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

STUFFED PIMIENTOES

Take one pimiento for each person, open it, and place it in a well-buttered ramekin, take either, one-half a pound of fresh mushrooms, or one can of mushrooms, if the fresh are used, wipe well, and saute them in butter, to which has been added one-half of a medium-sized onion chopped fine, make one and one-half cupfuls of cream sauce, add to it one cupful of finely grated bread crumbs, one cupful of finely chopped, cooked meat, one chopped pimiento, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, season with salt and paprika, and mix all together, with the chopped mushrooms, fill the pimiento cups with this mixture, cover with well-buttered bread crumbs, place in a pan of hot water, and allow to brown in the oven.

CELERIAC SALAD

Take two medium-sized celery roots, peel, cover with boiling water, to which has been added a little lemon juice or vinegar until tender, cut into dice and allow to cool; add two large peeled apples cut in dice, one grapefruit, cut in dice, and one-fourth of a cupful of chopped blanched almonds, make a French dressing, and add to it one-fourth of a cupful of grapefruit juice, pour over the mixture, allow to stand for two hours in a cool place, drain well and mound on lettuce leaves.

SWEET POTATOES IN CORN

Boil six medium-sized sweet potatoes, peel them, take one large can of corn, one tablespoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, a seasoning of salt and paprika, heavily butter a baking dish, slice the potatoes, place a layer of them in the bottom of it, spread over this a layer of the corn, sprinkle with the flour, salt, paprika, and sugar; then dot with bits of butter, continue until all has been used, having the sweet potatoes last. Place in a moderate oven and bake for twenty minutes.

BANANA SOUFFLE

One cupful of whipping cream, one cupful of thinly sliced bananas, five eggs, one-half a cupful of powdered sugar, beat the cream until stiff, and fold the sliced bananas into it, beat the eggs until stiff, and add the sugar to them, fold in the cream and the bananas mixture, butter ramekin dishes and half fill them with the mixture; set in a pan of hot water, and bake in a medium oven until light and delicately browned.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

LEAVING WELL ENOUGH ALONE

Leave well enough alone; 'twill pay.
There's little can be lost that way.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

"Well, I never!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy, repeating it two or three times. He was peering under a little hemlock tree. There on the ground, snapping his bill at him, trying to make himself look very fierce, was a little Owl, clothed in gray-white down with a few feathers beginning to show. "No wonder Mrs. Hooty is so savage," continued Farmer Brown's Boy. "This must be one of her babies and it must have fallen from that nest. Hooty and Mrs. Hooty must have nested early this year. Now what shall I do with you, you little rascal? I'd like to take you home, but on the other hand, I'd like to see what will happen if I leave you here. It looks to me as if you must have been here for some little time already. It is quite evident that you have been fed here for some time. I wonder if your mother can succeed in raising you off the ground."

He looked up at the nest. He thought he caught a glimpse of something white up there. "I believe there is still one baby up in that nest," thought he. "It must be that one youngster is being cared for in the nest and one on the ground. I believe I'll watch for a few minutes and see what happens."

So Farmer Brown's Boy hid a short distance away and took Bowser with him. He made Bowser lie down and be quiet. Then he watched. He didn't have to wait long. Mrs. Hooty was so anxious to know if that baby was all right that she couldn't wait long. Farmer Brown's Boy saw her alight on the ground. She had a mouse in her bill. He saw the little Owl lean forward and snatch that mouse from his mother's bill. Meanwhile, Mrs. Hooty turned her head this way and turned her head that way, glaring in every direction. So far around and so rapidly did she turn her head that it looked as if she turned it round and round. What she did do was to turn it so that she looked right over her own back. Then she would turn it in the other direction just as far. The effect was for all the world as if her head were going round and round, which, of course, it couldn't do.

A moment or two later Hooty sailed down from up in the tree and alighted beside Mrs. Hooty. They seemed to be talking matters over. Meanwhile, the little Owl had eaten the mouse and, his appetite being satisfied for the time being, he had settled down quietly. Presently Hooty and Mrs. Hooty seemed to reach an agreement. Hooty flew to the top of a stump a short distance away and there he sat as if he were a part of the stump itself. Mrs. Hooty flew away. She had gone hunting once more, leaving Hooty on guard. Evidently they did not worry about the baby up in the nest. It was the one on the ground who worried them.

Farmer Brown's Boy very quietly stole away. He couldn't waste any more time there. There was work to do over at the sugar house. He would have liked to remain to watch those Owls, but he is a boy who believes that when there is work to do no time should be wasted. "I'll keep an eye on that little fellow," thought he. "I can have a look at him every time I go to or from the sugar camp. In that way I'll know if he lives. I have a feeling that he will. I know some Owls nest on the ground, so I don't see any reason why, if they can raise their young on the ground, Hooty and Mrs. Hooty shouldn't raise theirs."

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Housewifely Gossip

Rub the inside of the wash boiler with soap while it is still warm and it will not rust.

Sew loops of tape to baby's stockings through which to pin the safety pins to the diaper.

Cut off the leaves and thorns that are to be under water in a vase. The flowers will keep better if this is done.

Stop in Time

Housewives, do not work so late that you haven't time to bathe and dress and look fresh and dainty when hubby comes home. It must be very discouraging for a man always to come home to a worn-out bedraggled wife when his circumstances are such that it is unnecessary. Besides, you probably do not compare very well with the well-dressed business women with whom he has come in contact all day.

A Difference in Mirrors

Mirrors can be so flattering that our reflection pleases us and yet another mirror in the same home may bring out worse points. If you have two such always look into the flattering one before going out. It will give you confidence and make you feel happy and well dressed all the time you are out. Avoid a last look in that ugly one.

A Bodkin

When mending sweaters or woolen scarfs use a bodkin instead of a needle. It will weave in and out much easier and do much more satisfactory work.

QUIT DOSING CHILDREN WITH PHYSICS

Fear of constipation seems to have the whole nation in its grip. The thousands of constipation remedies on the market are proof of this universal terror. It is high time for mothers to brace up and slay the monster. It is up to them to give their children a more wholesome viewpoint.

The action of the bowels is natural. We may expect it just as we expect the baby will be able to lift his arm, wink his eye, or make any of the other motions for which healthy muscles are intended. If a child is markedly underfed he will have few movements. If he is grossly overfed he may have many movements, or stools difficult to pass because of the large amount of refuse he is being forced to expel. Either of these conditions should be remedied by adjustment of the child's diet. Medicines are not necessary.

STIMULATE NATURAL MOVEMENTS

Flabby, toneless muscles are the price children pay for being underfed. Then, instead of correcting the diet, we give the poor, weak muscles so much artificial aid that they grow less and less inclined to accomplish their tasks.

It would often seem that babies were trained to constipation rather than to natural habits. They are given no opportunity to establish good habits. Physics are poured into them on small or no provocation. A missed daily movement fills the mother with terror. She reads into the baby's behavior, discomfort, lack of pep, "auto intoxication" which will end only when a small pill or a dose of delicious medicine is given him.

The natural movements of the intestines are stimulated by the fecal masses. There can never be a fecal mass sufficient to simulate anything so long as one constantly clears out the intestines with physics. Mucus is about all there is to pass. So each attack of stubborn constipation following a physic is aggravated by another physic, in a dizzying and unending round.

The growing, well-satisfied baby will not be constipated unless his mother makes him so. Some mother's idea of perfect efficiency is to dose the children all around every Saturday night. With what result? With the result that a constipated habit is established. There are mild laxatives which do no harm, but all are more or less habit forming.

It is natural for the peristaltic movements to begin directly after a feeding. One should take advantage of this tendency and establish regular habits of bowel evacuation just as we establish regular habits in all things pertaining to baby. There are perfectly harmless and nonhabit forming ways of bringing about a movement at a certain hour. Finally the tendency and the regularity will make a movement at this hour habitual.

(Because of the many, many queries on the subject which come in every day, I have prepared a leaflet which suggests methods of preventing and helping constipation. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be inclosed with each request for the leaflet.)

Delafield Sent to Penitentiary as Bride Robber

Jack Delafield, who pleaded guilty to stealing $61,230 worth of bonds from his bride of a few weeks and then returned $35,000 worth of securities in court, yesterday was sentenced by Superior Judge Wood to a term of from one to fourteen years in San Quentin prison.

The prosecution charged that Delafield married Mrs. Mary Hoffman of San Francisco in September, 1927, and while on their honeymoon in New York City abandoned her and returned to Los Angeles, removing her valuables from a safety deposit box.

FOURTH MAN ARRESTED IN CHECK CASE

Printer Accused of Being in Asserted Forgery Gang After Police Round-up

Completing a round-up of what police suspect was an organized ring of spurious check passers, Detective-Lieutenants White and McGee yesterday took into custody Jan Byrd, 60 years of age, a printer, of 331 Wall street.

Apprehension of the asserted members of the ring started Thursday with the arrests of J. H. Huntoon, 60, David H. Murdock, 31, and Roy E. Steven, 38.

The trio, the detectives stated, had in their possession two suit cases filled with hundreds of cashiers' checks and drafts bearing the names of banks in a score of eastern cities.

In Byrd's shop in Wall street the detectives stated they found evidence that the checks had been printed there.

Detectives said they found three checks which had been cashed. These bore the printed name, "McBride Lubricating Company," which, the detectives say, is a substitution for the bona-fide establishment of the McBryde Lubricating Service Corporation.

ATTACK BY MOTORIST CHARGED

Woman Declares She Was Beaten After Being Given Lift to "Go to Bus Line"

One of the most brutal attacks on women in local police records took place in broad daylight yesterday when Mrs. Ida Johnson, 28 years of age, mother of two children, of 2050 Garth avenue, was driven to an open field near Eighteenth and Alvira streets, severely beaten and attacked by a motorist.

Mrs. Johnson, later taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital in a highly hysterical condition, told police she had been waiting for a street car at La Cienega Boulevard and Cadillac streets when her assailant drove up in an automobile and offered to take her to the nearest bus line.

Instead of driving to the bus line, she said, he drove to the vacant field. When she protested he beat her into a semiconscious condition and attacked her, she said.

She later made her way to the nearest boulevard and hailed a passing motorist who called the Wilshire police.

Mrs. Johnson described her assailant as a man of about 25 years of age, about 135 pounds in weight, five feet five inches in height, with black curly hair and wearing a dark suit.

Lindbergh May Visit San Diego for Test Flight

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh may make a trip to San Diego during the week-end to continue his glider flights, he indicated last night following another afternoon of test flying in his new Lockheed Sirius with its improved motor temperature-regulating cowling.

"I have not received any encouraging weather reports from San Diego," the Colonel said, "but I may visit there for a flight anyway."

It also was learned that Col. Lindbergh has not abandoned the Lebec location on the Ridge Route, where he made several extended glides two weeks ago, as a possible hop-off point.

"The next flight will be made at or near San Diego," he stated. "If I should receive a report of strong steady winds from Lebec, however, it is probable that we would return there."

Radio Man Freed at Theft Trial

Grand theft charges against Walker King, proprietor of radio station KFQZ, were dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge Russill. The dismissal was granted on motion of Henry Huntington, defense attorney, who contended the State had failed to prove that the radio station stock which it asserted was worthless was not of high value.

King was accused of obtaining $1017 worth of securities from Mrs. Minnie Cooper of 536 South Chicago street in exchange for the radio station stock which, the complaint charged, was worthless.

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 10:30 a.m. will present Peggy Hamilton, fashion authority, and Ethel Jenks, soprano. Note: Beginning next Monday The Times Forum will be heard from 1:30 to 2 p.m. instead of at 10:30 a.m. daily, except Sunday.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

The spirit of '76 will echo and re-echo across America via local and chain radio programs. At 11:30 o'clock this morning the Columbia Broadcasting System, through KHJ, will bring a word-picture and the sounds of the biannual parade in Washington's home town, Alexandria, Va., from a specially built compartment on the reviewing-stand whence President Hoover will review the procession. Ted Husing, chief announcer of the Columbia System, will describe the event, which as a military and historic spectacle is said to be second only to the Presidential inaugural parade.

TWO-MILE PARADE

The parade is expected to be two miles long and will include the Army, Navy and Marine bands, as well as the mounted cavalry of Fort Myer, Va. The Richmond Blues, a unit of the State Militia of Virginia, will be a spectacle of the parade.

All military units in the Third Army Corps are expected to take part in the procession, which is to be under the direction of Maj.-Gen. Frederick Sladen, commanding officer of the Third Army Area at Baltimore. The microphone will carry the rumble of tanks from Camp Meade, Md., to listeners from coast to coast.

DIAL LOG FOR TODAY

KHJ at 8 a.m. will present the United States Army Band from Washington in a program in honor of Washington's Birthday. Thomas F. Darcy, one of the best-known cornetists, will contribute several solos. At 9 a.m. Helen and Mary will make a call on an old lady who is very lonely.

At 3 p.m. a word-picture trip through Washington's home will be made to listeners-in.

At 4 p.m. the Los Angeles Salvation Army's Silver Trumpet Band, in the way of a challenge to its San Francisco sister organization, will broadcast a program whose motif will be the "Streets of Forgotten Men." Ann Anderson, mezzo soprano, will be the guest artist on this program.

At 5 tonight with a background of jungle music and tom-toms, Dr. Torrance will give another jungle talk. At 5:30 p.m. Dixie Echoes will bring Brother Jenkins and choir boys with favorite negro spirituals.

RADIO PREMIERE

KFI at 6 p.m. Charles Wakefield Cadman's "Oriental Rhapsody" will have its world radio premiere. Walter Damrosch has selected this work for his baton. KECA at 8:45 p.m. is to broadcast the U.S.C.-vs.-U.C.L.A. basketball game, while at 10:45 p.m. a chain program will bring Prof. Herman Schnitzel, a comedian, in German dialect.

KNX at 2:30 p.m. will offer a recording by the La Scala Grand Opera Company, at Milan, Italy, of the opera "Rigoletto." At 7 p.m. the Paramount Hour will bring Paul Ash and entertainers in featured songs of France. At 8 p.m. the KNX Ensemble and Trojan Woman's Trio will present operatic and popular musical numbers.

KMTR on its Breakfast Club program from 7 to 9 a.m. is to present a rebroadcast of the Uptown Theater.

*Note: Owing to the Washington Birthday program over KHJ the 12:30 noon World Wide News items will be read at 1 p.m.

Motorist From Missouri Held as Drunk Driver

Charges of driving while intoxicated and of possessing liquor yesterday were booked against Joseph Andrews, 26 years of age, a Missouri dentist stopping at the Rosslyn. J. F. Russell of 6644 Santa Monica Boulevard complained to Traffic Policeman Roseborough that Andrews's car had sideswiped his automobile and had just missed running down a child. The policeman reported sighting Andrews driving zig-zag at First and Alameda streets, where he was arrested. At Georgia-street Receiving Hospital Andrews was certified as intoxicated, and Roseborough added that he found liquor in the dentist's car.

Teacher Loses Appeal to Court in Dismissal

A writ of mandate asked by A. Clarence Smith, former Los Angeles high school teacher, to compel the Board of Education to reinstate him and pay him back salary of $7300 was denied yesterday by Superior Judge Van Zante.

Testimony was offered by the school authorities that Smith, a teacher in the manual arts department, permitted the tools under his care to rust and that he did not have control of pupils in his charge.

Eastern money is the lowest rate money obtainable, as the East is where the large concentration of wealth occurs. These funds must be invested in good securities such as real estate loans. That is our business.

Yes, we charge a commission. All mortgage companies do the same. The borrower can take his pencil and figure where he is ahead with our loan when he considers the rate he is paying for his money. Loans $5000 or more, 7%; no commission.

Telephone us the address of your property. A preliminary inspection will be made free of charge.

AUSTRIA ON VERGE OF INTERNAL WAR

"The constitutional controversy, now being bitterly fought in Austria, presents an extremely critical situation," says Benjamin Steg in an article in Current History, in which he explains the present political crisis in Austria. This crisis, he says, is the result of a deadlock between the two major parties, the Christian Socialist party with its militia, the Heimwehr, which "is mostly recruited from and led by the old clerical, monarchial party which ruled under Franz Josef," and the Social Democrat party with its Schutzbund, and its stronghold in Vienna, where since the war it has accomplished the "gradual abolishment of private property, governmental control of employment, social service, living quarters, insurance and public utilities." The immediate crisis is caused by an ultimatum issued in September by the Christian Socialists, which have a small majority in Parliament, demanding "that the city of Vienna, which, according to the present constitution, is regarded as a separate state, revert to the status of one of the cities of the state of Lower Austria, and that the present system, requiring three-fourths of the votes in Parliament for passing a bill, be changed so that only a simple majority will have the power of controlling legislation." To this ultimatum "Karl Seitz, Social Democrat Governor and Mayor of Vienna, gave an official reply on beahlf of his party, declaring that the Social Democrats would fight for the maintenance of their position to the 'last drop of blood.'"

French Ships Not for Sale

The French government is guarding its merchant marine by making it impossible to sell craft outside of the country. No vessel may be sold to foreigners without government permission. This is impossible to secure unless the boat is so old as to be almost useless.

POISON INQUIRY IN DEATH OPENS

Body of John Lyman Will be Examined Again

Autopsy Blamed Heart Ills; New Tips Received

Burial in Syracuse, N. Y., Will be Delayed

An investigation by police to determine whether poison may have played a part in the death of John Lyman, a 33-year-old photographer who died on the 16th inst., at the General Hospital, was disclosed yesterday.

Although an autopsy was performed the day following Lyman's death at the hospital and the cause asserted to be a complicated heart disease the body, which was shipped and was due to arrive in Syracuse, N. Y., last night, is to be held for further investigation on the request of local police.

INQUIRY OPENS

The investigation is based on anonymous information given to police, Ray E. Cato, captain of the homicide squad, said. The inquiry has been proceeding quietly for several days.

Mrs. Dorothy Lyman, the widow, of 2138 Redondo Boulevard, said she previously had feared that her husband would take poison in despondent moments to which he was subject, and she said she had permitted the local autopsy to establish or remove any fears she may have had in that connection.

HEART ILLS BLAMED

Dr. Sydney Weinberg of 334 North Normandie avenue and Mrs. Ross Moore and James J. Parson, who attended Lyman, said that the autopsy failed to disclose any poison in the vital organs, and death was caused by complications of heart disease.

Mrs. Lyman said that her husband had been mentally ill for about two years and was subject to attacks of dizziness and weakness. On the 12th inst., she said, he fell ill again and became so desperate that, on the advice of Dr. Weinberg, Lyman was taken to the General Hospital where he died.

BEATEN IN FIGHT

Two years ago Lyman was beaten in a street fight with O. O. (Mickey) McMinn, a fighter of the ring and films, over a traffic accident. Lyman asserted he was knocked down and received an injured skull when he struck the curbing. Later he got a Superior Court judgment of $10,300 against McMinn, but it was subsequently settled for a few hundred dollars, the widow said.

After Lyman's death and the autopsy the body was removed to the Bramble Funeral Home for shipment to the New York city where Lyman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Lyman, live at 203 Marshall street, according to police.

Bandits Carry Clothesline and Money Bag

Preparedness apparently was the big idea dominating two stick-up men who operated in Los Angeles last night. One was equipped with a clothesline with which to bind his victim, and the other carried a paper sack as a money receptacle. Both escaped. The loot was valued at close to $1000, police say.

Ralph Davis, proprietor of the Davis Motor Supply Company, 5145 York avenue, obliged a late customer who shoved a heavy revolver against his stomach and bound him with a clothesline. A diamond ring valued at $700, a watch valued at $50 and $85 cash was taken from Davis, who wriggled free after half an hour and reported to the Highland Park Police Station.

A clerk at the Clarence Saunders store, 9030 West Pico, looked into an automatic held by a smiling man dressed in a neat blue suit. Three customers entered. The bandit, concealing the gun, took a paper bag from his pocket, nodded to clerk and watched $100 go into the bag. He escaped in a roadster driven by a companion. Wilshire Station police were informed.

Mexico Airport at Los Mochis to be Dedicated

Two planes of Pickwick Latin-American Airways will leave Grand Central Aid Terminal tomorrow morning for Los Mochis, Mex., to participate in the dedication ceremonies of the new $70,000 Los Mochis Airport next Tuesday.

The air depot, the best equipped field between San Diego and Mexico City, a day's flight from San Diego, will be dedicated by Mexican government officials and representatives of the United Sugar Company, backers of the port. Mexican and American civilian planes and Mexican army ships will attend Tuesday's opening.

Concrete runways, night-landing lights and beacons and a passenger depot are included in the field, one that lends further assurance to a permanent air route down the west coast of Mexico to the capital.

Residence Ban Plan Sent Back For Correction

The ordinance requiring city employees to live within the municipality was ordered back to the City Attorney by the City Council yesterday to eliminate the retroactive features so that it will not affect employees already established in suburban communities.
